AUNTIE—Lucille, I am just about disgusted with that last wood we bought. It is soggy, wet, and instead of making a good fire and throwing out some heat, it almost puts the fire out. Where can we get some decent wood?

LUCILLE—Well Auntie, I was just looking over The Herald's Mutual Girl Page, and see SEEHORN is advertising there; and you know that The Herald says "Deal with the business men represented upon upon this page"; so why not order a load of wood from SEEHORN, and try it.

AUNTIE—Well, my girl, I will do that very thing right now. Look up their phone number, Lucille, and call them up. (Lucille looks up the number of the phone—SEEHORN'S PHONE NUMBER IS 72).

LUCILLE—It is number 72, Auntie; that's his woodyard number, and his residence phone is 190X.

AUNTIE—Well, Lucille, call him up for me, and tell him I want a load of good, dry wood, some of his best, and if it suits us we will buy all of our wood from him.

MORAL—Lucille gave MR. W. E. SEEHORN the order; it came promptly, and Auntie liked it very much, and is now buying all of her wood, both for the cook stove and for the heating stove as well, and is perfectly satisfied.
