

Parts Women Are Playing in Battles Through Europe

Little Stories From Many Sources, Showing That on Both Sides, the Man Behind the Gun Is Not the Only One Making Sacrifices for Sake of Country

LONDON, Nov. 11.—(By mail to New York)—The bravery of a 14-year old French girl, who was found wounded while acting as a vivandiere for stricken British soldiers on the firing line along the Aisne, is lauded by Corporal B. Healy, of the Royal Irish regiment, in a letter home.

It was after one of the hardest fights of the war, and dozens of wounded soldiers were lying out in the open with little prospects of relief until the next day. Most of the poor fellows were nearly mad with thirst. Many were delirious, and others were just sensible enough to keep murmuring for water. "Then we heard a gentle footfall," the corporal added, "and, looking up, we saw a charming girl of sixteen picking her way through the piles of dead and wounded. She had brought milk and wine to relieve our thirst.

"We learned that she was from a farm near by, just out of the line of fire, and she had risked her life in coming there to give us something to drink because she was grateful to the British troops for helping to drive the German invaders back. She seemed to be without fear, and tripped briskly along in spite of the shells and rifle fire.

"We were all stricken with grief when she was carried into the hospital next day. She had been shot on the way back. It was a nasty wound, but after an operation the doctors hoped she would pull through. Every soldier who saw her prays for her every night."

The girls of St. Jude's School, Herne Hill, have sacrificed their prizes in order to buy wool to knit garments for the soldiers. They have already knitted 150 pairs of socks, 100 helmets, 25 belts and 12 scarves, and hemmed 199 handkerchiefs.

MADRID, Nov. 9.—(By mail to New York, via London)—A women's league has been formed here for the purpose of furthering the proposition to organize a women's auxiliary corps to assist the fighting troops and President Wilson has in honor called upon a lady in a resolution of the United States Congress.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—(By mail to New York)—The army authorities very having their troops discovering and sending back to their homes women who have volunteered in the ranks disguised as men. There have been numerous instances of the kind since the war started, especially among the machine-looking peasant women of the northern provinces.

One of these was Nadezhda Ornatky, a muscular, well-educated peasant woman from the province of Armand. She had posed as a man through the second part of the Manchurian campaign, and was praised for her courage by General Grippenberg. Early in the present war she re-enlisted, and fought in South Poland, and it was not until after the battle of Lukla-Krasnick that her sex was discovered and she was discharged.

A girl named Lieta Uglitki was present at four engagements in East Prussia and West Poland, and was wounded slightly. She says that during the long range fighting she had no fear, but had a horror of crossing bayonets with the enemy. Two daughters of a land proprietor at Kurak have been arrested on their way to join the colors, one of them posing as "Princess Adrianoff" and the other as her servant.

A peasant woman who was killed at Cumbinnen had donned her husband's clothes and impersonated him when he shirked the summons. She did not want her family to be shamed. Two school girls of the capital, aged 14, wrote the Grand Duke Nicholas, begging to be accepted as volunteers. The grand duke wrote them personally, praising their patriotism, but recommending that they find scope for their services in caring for the wounded, adding: "I am convinced if ever you had the occasion you would uphold the glory and might of the emperor and the honor of your country."

A young Russian woman, referred to in the local newspapers as Mlle. H., has been recommended for the St. George's Cross, the V. C. of Russia. She is the daughter of a Russian captain of artillery, and accompanied her father's battery to the front as a private, after cutting her hair short. She took part in a number of battles near Augustoff, and now is lying wounded in a Petrograd hospital.

MRS. RILEY WOODS BURIED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON — DR. CHASTAIN IMPROVES — OTHER NEWS OF THAT SECTION

(Herald Special Service) BONANZA, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Riley Woods, daughter of Mrs. Liskay, died at her home in Dairy Tuesday morning, after a lingering illness. Deceased was 22 years of age, and leaves a daughter of 3 years and a husband to mourn her loss. Rev. Hall conducted the funeral services at the church in Bonanza yesterday at noon, and interment was made in the Bonanza cemetery.

Dr. J. A. Chastain, who has been seriously ill for some time, is now very much improved and able to be around the house.

Joe Hamaker has just completed a new addition to his house, to protect his pumping system.

The well at the parsonage is at last completed. It was started over a year ago, before Rev. Hall occupied the parsonage. Rev. Hall mobilized his force a short time ago, and his dynamite squad attacked the hard pan which had defied the efforts of former allied detachments. After several charges the surrounding country was covered with debris, but the effort was so successful that Harry Nichols has commenced similar operations at his place.

The skating is said to be very good on the river above town, where the ice is about six inches thick. Some ice is being cut and stored.

Mrs. Gus Keller of Langell Valley was in town Tuesday doing Christmas shopping.

Christmas exercises will be held in the church at Bonanza Christmas eve at 7:30, and at the church in Langell Valley in the evening of Wednesday, the 23d.

Littlest of the London Scottish

The London Scottish is the most popular of the British regiments in the war, and this photograph shows the littlest member. A soldier of the regiment who was wounded in Flanders returned and was placed in a London hospital. Soon he made friends with Willie, a little patient, who became so important a figure in the hospital that someone provided him with a full uniform of the London Scottish, and he is seen daily parading about the hospital, to the amusement of the patients. However his best friend is the wounded soldier, whom he would emulate.

Largest Timber Sale in State Advertised

The forest service will receive bids up to and including April 10, 1915, on approximately 382,000,000 feet of mostly western yellow pine timber in Southern Oregon. This is the largest amount of national forest timber that has yet been offered for sale in Oregon under a single contract. It consists of two units, but bids will be received on both units or on either separately.

The first unit comprises about 7,120 acres in the Grater National Forest, on Four Mile, Lost and Woods creeks, which are tributary to Upper Klamath Lake at a point about thirty miles north of Klamath Falls.

The estimated amount to be cut on this unit is 85,000,000 board feet, consisting mostly of western yellow pine and some sugar pine, lodgepole pine and western white pine, and an unestimated amount of other species, which is removable at the option of the purchaser. The advertised rates are $3 per 1,000 for the pines, and 50 cents per 1,000 for the other species.

The second unit, further north, comprises about 17,560 acres on the Paulina National Forest, on the watershed of Bear Creek, between Crater Lake National Park and the Klamath Indian reservation. On this unit there is a total estimated amount of 297,050,000 board feet of western yellow pine, sugar pine, lodgepole pine and western white pine, 87 per cent of which is western yellow pine.

There is also an unestimated amount of other species removable at the purchaser's option. The advertised rates for the timber in this unit are $3.25 per 1,000 for the pines, and 50 cents per 1,000 for the other species.

Necessary time for the construction of preliminary improvements will be granted, and nine years as a maximum will be allowed for the cutting of the timber on the first unit and twelve years on the second unit, if they are sold separately.

If both tracts are included in one contract, a maximum cutting period of sixteen years will be allowed, with provisions for a complete reappraisal of the timber remaining uncut at the end of twelve years. In any event, the agreement of sale will provide for periodic readjustments of the initial stumpage rates based on increases in the market value of lumber.

Swat It By Publicity

Believing that all publicity should be given to the smallpox situation in this city, and that every effort should be made by the proper authorities to prevent a possible epidemic, the city council, at a special meeting, considered the reports of several local physicians, and decided to make the health and police committee the organ for carrying out every precaution under the law. It was deemed the best policy not to conceal any of the facts, but to ask the public to co-operate with the officials and enable the latter to eliminate any danger of an epidemic within the next few days.—Roseburg Review.
