Photo of the Pope as He Sat in the Sistine Chapel During the Earthquake

When Rome was shaken by the earthquake of January 13, Pope Benedict XV was saying mass in the Sistine chapel, the most famous chapel of St. Peter's. He is said to have given a splendid exhibition of courage and calmness. He did not allow the terrifying occurrence to interrupt his prayer. It is reported that the Swiss guard gave no such exhibition of courage, but fled, as did many others, who were present in St. Peter's. The Pope issued orders that soon brought those about him to complete presence of mind. He afterward ordered a solemn high mass in the Cathedral and also gave instructions that an immediate investigation be made to determine what damage, if any, had been done to St. Peter's. This photograph shows the Pope during the ceremony held regularly in the Sistine chapel. It is, incidentally, the first photograph published of the new Pope in the chapel.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

PIMPLES ARE IMPURITIES SEEKING AN OUTLET THROUGH THE SKIN PORES

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

The Part Europe's Women Are Playing in Great War

"The Man Behind the Gun" Is Not the Only One Deserving of Heroic Awards, as the Women, in Addition to Keeping families, Are Doing Relief Work

By P. M. SARLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(By mail to New York)—"Every woman in England, who keeps her home together, and who keeps a smiling face, is helping in the war," said Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the first lord of Admiralty, in a speech opening at a social club for the wives and the mothers of soldiers and sailors in Paddington.

Referring to a statement made by Arthur Straus, M. P., to the effect that her husband, by heading the maritime expedition to Antwerp, had really saved England from invasion, she remarked: "That is a very great thing to say of any man, but I do think it is true. It is your husband and sons who are doing it. It is because of their courage and their faithfulness and endurance that we are able to stay at home away from the horrible sufferings of France and Belgium.

"Sometimes," she continued, "one feels as if we cannot bear this war any longer; but we must go on, because we are fighting so that it can never happen again. I hope that sometimes, when you feel very anxious for your dear ones, you will perhaps think of what they are doing day and night. The feet, although it has never yet been in battle with the enemy, is keeping constant watch; never for one moment has it relaxed its vigil. We must also think of the men who spend days and nights in the trenches; never have they fought better."

"England expects that every woman this day will do her duty." This paraphrase of Nelson's famous order is the text of an appeal issued by the National Council of Public Morals to the women of Great Britain, particularly the wives and sweethearts of soldiers and sailors. Among the signers are many women of social prominence, including the Duchess of Bedford and the Duchess of Marlborough.

"Woman's duty and the woman's work," says the manifesto, "consist in fighting the armies of disorder, want, impurity and vice, and it is to this that our spiritual forces must be directed. Lord Kitchener's admonition to the army on the eve of the war evokes a feeling of gratitude in every mother that so high a standard of English manhood should have been set before our men."

The special aim of the manifesto, it is stated, is to call upon the women of the Empire to help British soldiers and sailors to fight the enemies of demoralization and drink at home, and to live in such a manner as to bequeath a heritage of health and happiness to the children born to the nation.

Three complete hospital units, for Belgium, France and Serbia respectively are being sent out by the Scottish branches of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies (non-militant) which since the beginning of the war has abandoned all suffrage propaganda to devote itself entirely to the needs of the country. So far the society has collected $30,000, which has been applied to this hospital work. The organizations consist entirely of women—doctors, surgeons, highly trained nurses and dressers.
