

KUYKENDALL GOES AS A DELEGATE, NOT AS LOBBYIST

ATTACK UPON REPRESENTATIVE UNWARRANTED

Local Attorney Was Not Hired to Expectably See That Bill Is Passed, But He Consented to Represent Local Sportsmen at the Protest Meeting to Be Held in Salem Wednesday—Smith's Work Lauded

(Herald Special Service)
SALEM, Jan. 25.—Telegrams and letters are pouring in from all over the state protesting against any change in the game commission. An attempt will be made to reconsider the bill placing the game fund proceeds in the general fund, and it is planned to make it a special order for Wednesday morning. Many sportsmen will be here Tuesday night, attending the open meeting.

"It is as a delegate from the Klamath Sportsmen's Association to the open meeting of sportsmen with the game committee of both Houses at Salem, that D. V. Kuykendall represents us at Salem not as a lobbyist," said a member of the executive board of the association today.

"To late for presentation at any meeting, we received a letter from the head of the Oregon Sportsmen's league, telling of the open meeting, and urging us to send a delegate there to show how the citizens feel regarding the matter. It was too late for us to take the matter up with the association, so the directors, finding that Mr. Kuykendall was going to Portland, where today he appears in the Federal district court, we asked him to represent the association at the meeting. This he kindly consented to do, and credentials as our delegate were issued him.

"Representative Smith, who was the last secretary of the association, and always active in sportsmen's affairs here, is not eligible to attend the meeting, as this is a gathering of citizens, not legislators. We know that Brother Smith will do a Trojan's work for the defeat of the bill in the House, and he has the support, confidence and friendship of every member of the Sportsmen's Association."

Second Expedition to Attack British Coast Is Defeated by Fleet

United Press Service
LONDON, Jan. 25.—A second attempted raid and attack upon the British coast by a squadron of German cruisers was made yesterday. It failed, however, for British dreadnaughts and cruisers intercepted the attacking fleet, routing it.

It is known that one German cruiser of the first class was sent to the bottom. The Germans claim that one British cruiser was sunk, but this is denied.

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—Today's official statement regarding yesterday's naval battle claims the destruction of a British battleship.

It is admitted that the German cruiser Bleucher was lost. It is declared though, that the other members of the fleet returned to the naval base without any damage.

The battle cruisers Derfflinger, Seydlitz, Moltke and Blucher, four small cruisers and two torpedo boats flotillas were the German ships engaged.

The British fleet, according to today's statement, was composed of five battle cruisers, several small cruisers and twenty-six torpedo boat destroyers.

The statement says that the British fleet closed in on the Germans. The latter, realizing that they were running into a much stronger contingent, fled. A running battle of three hours' duration followed.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Reports from Holland are that a four funneled German cruiser, apparently of the type of the Strasbourg and Roon, was sighted off the Dutch coast today, apparently damaged.

This strengthens the conviction here that the German losses were greater than indicated in the admiralty's statement. There is no report as to casualties.

England is in an uproar as a result of the defeat of the invaders. "Wipe out the German navy," is the demand of the people.

COASTING TO BE PUT UP TO CITY COUNCIL TONIGHT

SEVERAL ARRESTED YESTERDAY BY POLICE

One Crowd of Eighteen or So Is Incarcerated for Fifteen Minutes Then Liberated—Petition Being Circulated Seeks to Have Evening Hours Set Aside for Coasting on Third Street Hill

With the weather ideal yesterday, poor indeed was the hill that was not alive with youngsters (and elders, too), enjoying the coasting sport. That it, all but Third street hill, for the police made several interdictions in the enjoyment of the sport here.

It was for sliding down Third street hill on a bob Friday night that three young men were cited to appear before Police Judge Leavitt Saturday morning. They were released as there was no ordinance prohibiting coasting.

Sunday, youngsters put in an appearance at Third, and were more than enjoying themselves when the police put in an appearance. About eighteen youngsters were then taken into custody.

About a quarter of an hour later they were released again, there being no ordinance to hold them.

Last night there were more coasters there than ever, and there were a couple of interruptions, but no arrests.

Believing that Third street, which is easily the best and safest hill in town, should be open to coasting a couple of hours each night, a petition, signed by hundreds, will be presented at the council meeting this evening, asking that this be allowed, with the understanding that the coasters will pay penalties to stand at street corners and prevent any accidents from collisions with traffic.

It is also reported that the "anti" will also make an appearance at tonight's council meeting. They are said to have an ordinance prohibiting coasting, but this report cannot be verified.

LADY BUG, LADY BUG--WHERE ART?

United Press Service
BRAWLEY, Cal., Jan. 25.—Entomologists from the University of California are making investigations today in the Imperial valley cantaloupe zone, seeking to determine what has become of 300,000 ladybugs that were brought here several months ago to chase the aphid, arch enemy of the cantaloupe.

It is a fact well known to the erudite bug expert of the university that a healthy, well conditioned ladybug loves to browse on the aphid. Therefore, the experts were started to learn that soon after the ladybugs were let loose in the valley, they disappeared. Explanations that they probably had flown away home failed to satisfy the professors and the investigation was ordered.

If the ladybugs will perform true to form, entomologists believe they will save many thousands of dollars a year to melon growers.

CHILOQUIN GETS BASEBALL FEVER

DESPITE THE CHILLINESS OF WINTER, AGITATION IS STARTED FOR THE BUILDING OF A DIAMOND THERE

(Herald Special Service)
CHILOQUIN, Jan. 25.—There is quite a little talk among the Indians of building a baseball diamond at Chiloquin. This town being on the railroad, it would be possible to bring in teams from the Falls and vicinity, and possibly have excursions.

The national game has been gradually dying out among the Indians, where a few years ago the red teams were among the fastest in the county. It is expected that Harry and Edwin Wilson, the Hicks boys, Joe Ball, John LeBall and other "old heads" will get busy to stir up the youngsters and in addition get a diamond, and will coach and send forth a world beater of a baseball team.

Sees New Railroad

Eureka Man Writes of Road Entering Klamath Falls

The following from Eureka, California, appears in the Sacramento Bee:
President D. W. Hanson, of the Eureka Development Association, has given out a statement that the Hill-Guggenheim interests have determined to make Eureka the terminal of a railroad that will connect with the Hill transcontinental line at Klamath Falls, Oregon.

The proposed line will be electrically operated, the power being furnished by the Langford project at Ishi Pishi falls on the Klamath, and another plant to be established at Klamath Falls.

The road will be constructed down the Klamath river to Requa, entering Humboldt county by way of Trinidad. Survivors are said to be in the field, along the Klamath.

It is claimed that the Hill-Guggenheim interests believe Eureka to be several hours closer to the coast than any other seaport in the United States.

The Guggenheims are interested in a large copper mine in Siskiyou county, which is about ready to start on a large scale.

The Ishi Pishi falls project has been worked for five years by Hanson, Carl and Frank Langford. Power has been developed and a road is being constructed.
