

BRIDGE AT 11TH AGAIN IS DENIED

IN COMMUNICATION, RECLAMATION SERVICE SAYS WATER USERS ARE OPPOSED TO THIS EXPENDITURE

The proposed bridge across the government canal at Eleventh street, a matter which has an important bearing upon the Eleventh street improvement project came up again at last night's meeting of the council. This time a lengthy communication was received from the reclamation service, stating that the service could not see its way clear to building the bridge asked for.

The bridge would cross the canal in order to make Eleventh street a straight thoroughfare from Main street to the Catholic church. The government held that as there are three bridges within a radius of a block, it is unnecessary, as the volume of travel would be by no means great.

Another reason for refusal was the fact that the Klamath Water Users' Association oppose the expenditure, and have filed protest against it with the service.

A LITTLE SPORTING GOSSIP

By Hal Sheridan

United Press Service
NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Boxing fans for women simply don't go around these parts. The gentler sex that makes its way home via the New York subway is willing to tackle other things Parisian, but when it comes to watching two huskies maul each other around the ring—well, that's another story.

John Weismantel, who runs the Broadway Sporting Club in Brooklyn made the bid for the women fight fans. John advertised that he would put on a weekly tea party, with boxing strictly on the side. After thorough press agenting, John threw open the club for the first affair at which he promised feminine boxing enthusiasts would gather.

It was pretty tough on John. There were plenty of "gents" in their shirt sleeves, who chewed gum because John had admonished them not to smoke in the presence of "ladies," but there was only one lady present. She confessed that she was a sent over the bridge by a New York newspaper.

Princeton graduates and undergraduates are expressing some surprise at the naming of John H. Rush, of Cleveland, as head coach of the Tiger football team. Rush had held the Princeton record for the 100 yards—545—while he was in school but took his football on the sidelines. Some of the Princetonians, however, are pointing out that Bob Zuppke, the most brilliant coach of the 1914 season, produced in the west, was not a letter man in football when he attended Wisconsin university.

Poughkeepsie may take on all the aspects of Henley in the English regatta season, as the result of the change in the rowing season, to become effective at this year's races. Instead of bunching the freshmen, junior and varsity races in the afternoon as in the past, the two minor events will be rowed in the morning. There were some critics who were of the opinion that this would reduce the size of the crowds. The belief expressed here now is that the arrival of crowds in Poughkeepsie on the night before the big races, the mingling of old friends and the opportunity of making the hike up the river a sort of vacation will transform what was only an afternoon outing into a real sporting event.

City Refuses to Make Private Improvement

At last night's meeting of the council A. J. Lyle, manager of the Blackburn hospital, asked the city to improve the street in front of the hospital, and from the street into the hospital by spreading gravel. This was not considered by the council.

The members of the council took the stand that it is not the city's place to improve the streets in front of private property, at the expense of the rest of the city's taxpayers. Councilman Rogers stated that the

John J. McCarty Helped to Build Continental Phone

When the telephone officials talked to each other between San Francisco and New York the other day, it was one of the events of the world's history. John J. McCarty, chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, saw one of his cherished notions come to fruition. He has been interested in telephones all his life and has risen to one of the highest positions in the country. For years he had invented telephone appliances and worked toward perfection of the long distance phone. When he talked to officials of his company in San Francisco he felt that he had accomplished part of his life work.

Following his talk of the telephone officials arrangements were made for a conversation between Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, and Mayor Mitchell of New York.

MOTHER WRITES SON OF CONDITIONS IN AUSTRIA

Through the courtesy of Mr. J. A. Goldsmith, the Herald is able to publish some extracts from a letter he recently received from his mother, Mrs. Frances Goldsmith, in Plsek, Bohemia.

Mrs. Goldsmith had made arrangements to come to this country, and had started on the journey when the war broke out, and was compelled to abandon her trip because it was impossible to secure transportation. Now she has assumed responsibilities that will detain her in her home country for some time.

Extracts from her letter follow: "No, Old Thanos, in these, his harvest days, didn't get me yet. On the contrary, I still manage on some festive, if rare, occasions, to get a square meal. Of course, we don't complain of indignation here now, but a very few here in Austria ever did."

"Mathias wife, unpatriotic as she was, persisted in crying and crying for her husband, who was her only support, and whom they took in the army, died a few weeks after he left, leaving her five little girls with no protector except me. The children are all sick. The eldest, 11 years old, is in the hospital. The youngest child is but three months old.

"Their father seems to have been swallowed up by the earth. We can get no word either from him or the Twenty-eighth regiment, to which he belonged. His name is not among the lists of the dead, wounded or missing. The soldiers who were with him say that some of the men went stark mad and were—discarded. Horrible! Of course, I console the children with the hope that their father will eventually come home.

"I get four crowns (about 80 cents) a day from the government for their keep, but as a sack of flour cost 60 crowns ($12), grain 26 crowns, and everything in proportion, you can imagine that I have a hard time to keep up with the constantly rising prices.

"The country is full of refugees, chiefly Polish Jews—a ragged, dirty,
