

Just as Popular as the Song And Far Prettier

YOU KNOW the song, "It's a Long, Long Way," etc.? Well it will be a long, long time before the lady's costumer will turn out anything as popular as the new Tipperary Veils and Tipperary Collars.

The Tipperary Veils are ready-made, and are so easily adjusted that they are indeed a pleasure to wear, outside of the fact that they are just as pretty as they can be, while the Tipperary Collars of Embroidered Organdie and Lace are the very latest in articles of feminine adornment.

New Woolen Goods, plain and in fancy stripes and checks, are also among the recent arrivals.

Just as useful in their way and just as enjoyable is the new line of Bath Towels—a value hard to equal. They have just arrived, and it is hardly to be expected that they will last long.

Wool bats, also, arrived with this shipment, and home made comforters can not only be made all that their name implies, but can be made up to suit each individual taste.

SOCIETY

Society notices should be in before 10 o'clock Saturday morning to insure publication

Pre-Lenten festivities reached a grand climax at the White Pelican hotel last night, when Miss Agnes Lee, Miss Edna Wella, Miss Louise Sargent, Miss Ada Soule, Miss Gertrude Sealey, Miss Alice Blackford, Miss Alice McCourt, Miss Estelle Blair and Mrs. Rose Torrey entertained two hundred or more people at a dancing and card party, which will long be a red letter event in the social history of Klamath Falls. For ingenuity and thoroughness, the charming young hostesses have few equals in the art of entertaining. The evening's festivities started with a grand march. The procession formed in the lobby, and to the strains of an eight-piece orchestra, entered the dining room. The decoration scheme of which excited exclamations of hearty approval from all as they entered. Saint Valentine never had such a pretty compliment paid to his memory as the decorations in the spacious dining room. Everywhere were hearts, hearts of all sizes. They were intermingled with Cupids on the walls and window curtains, they were strung in hundreds of festoons across the hall above the heads of the dancers, they were suspended from the chandeliers—to be exact, they were everywhere. The lights were shaded with artificial poinsettia blooms, and the booth where punch was served, and the corner occupied by the musicians, were beautiful with myriads of hearts in tasteful arrangement. Even the lobby did not escape this splendid type of decoration. After the grand march had given way to dancing, Jess Turner, Hindu clairvoyant, was introduced, and in a corner in the lobby, he told wonderful—sometimes embarrassing truths regarding his visitors, to the great delight of those assembled around him. Many were the guesses ventured as to the identity of the mysterious soothsayer by those who scoffed at his claim of magic gifts. In the sun parlor of the hotel, five hundred was in order, and there were several tables busy until midnight. Fortune telling and dancing obtained until long past the midnight hour, and it was Saturday morning before the guests began to leave, after expressing the big affair as one of the most enjoyable ever held in Klamath Falls.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. J. Fred Goeller entertained a number of her friends at her West Side home in honor of her sister, Mrs. Dr. Bertha Sawyer, of Ashland. The guests were Mrs. C. R. DeLap, Mrs. O. A. Stearns, Mrs. Grace DeWitt, Mrs. Clay P. Mason, Mrs. R. J. Sheets, Mrs. L. M. Fitch, Mrs. Karl G. Cummings, Mrs. Thomas Hampton, Mrs. Charles H. Withrow, Mrs. Eliza M. Marple, Mrs. Russell A. Alford, Mrs. Harry Goeller, Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Leslie Rogers, Mrs. Richard Breitenstein. Needlework and conversation were enjoyed during the afternoon, as were musical numbers by Mrs. Marple and Mrs. De Witt. The hostess served a luncheon.

Valentine decorations were much in evidence at a meeting of the Happy Hour club, held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mundy, corner Seventh and Oak streets, and which proved immensely entertaining for all the guests. Five hundred was the game of the evening, and first prize was won by Mrs. Walters, Mr. North receiving the consolation prize. Refreshments were served, and there were present Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Brennehan, Mr. and Mrs. C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Emmitt, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hamill, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Heldrick, Mr. and Mrs. Loy Hilyard, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Houston, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. K. D. North, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Sheets, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Shipley, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Steinmetz, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Guy V. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mundy and Miss Grace Richardson.

Wednesday is Ash Wednesday, the day ushering in the forty days preceding Easter Sunday, which this year will be April 4, and as usual, there will be a retirement from social activities by many Klamath Falls people in observance of the Saviour's forty day's of fast, persecution, crucifixion. Owing to the fact that their final dancing party was by an oversight set for a Lenten date, the members of the Kistawa club have decided to postpone this party until after Lent. The dance was scheduled for Friday night at the White Pelican hotel.

Aubrey R. Campbell, Mrs. Clarence H. Underwood, Mrs. J. C. Brockebrough and Miss Agnes Lee at an informal five hundred. There were four tables, and the prize was won by Mrs. Hall. Dainty refreshments were served during the course of the entertainment.

The musical club, composed of the pupils of Mrs. Fred Cofer, met this afternoon at the Cofer home, 603 Eighth street, and spent several enjoyable hours. The life of Beethoven was discussed by all, and the following interesting program was rendered:

Kuykendall, which was attended by Francis McLain, Miles McLain, Josie McLain, Margaret and Buford Hargus, Elsie and Nellie Fielding, Raymond Hill, Maud, Ruby and "Buster" Revenue and John, William and Vernon Kuykendall. Van Valkenburg, of this city. Mrs. Briggs is a sister of Judge Hanks, and has been visiting relatives in Oregon for some time, coming to Klamath Falls from Glendale. Woman Defies Boers Who Stole Her Horse

United Press Service

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(By mail to New York.)—How she defied a party of De Wet's rebel commando, is told by Mrs. Eleanor M. Geach, writing from Steynrust, Orange Colony, to a friend in London.

"When De Wet's men passed through here they stole everything they could lay their hands on," she says. For a time we managed to hide our horse, but at last they spotted them. I clung to the animal and defied them to take him. I just did give it to them straight from the shoulder, and they left. But soon five of them returned and before we could prevent it two of them grabbed the horse and led it away.

"Then the other three came to the house, grinned, and one held out his paw. I put my hand behind, looked him up and down, and said, 'I don't take the hand of a thing like you.'

Tonight at the Orpheus, "The First Law," the fourteenth episode of the Star theater today, like most Famous Players' productions, is a dramatic offering of the highest type.

The story portrays the life of a girl and a young man, who go to the great metropolis, the man as a struggling young physician, the girl as a florist. Both become the victims of most unfortunate circumstances. In their saddest hour, fate brings them together. They tell each other of their past, which they both agree to forget and begin anew.

Virginia Pearson is seen as the girl. Miss Pearson will become very popular with picture fans. She is

This riled him, for it is a big insult to refuse a Boer's hand. Then we went at it. I called them thieves and liars. They rode off, but came galloping back with their rifles ready to shoot me if I offered any further resistance to their going into the store and stealing. They made our Kaffir man, at the point of the rifle, show them where reins and halters were, which they stole.

"Two weeks after, our dear old horse found his way home. He had been wounded in the head and nearly ridden to death."
