WHY SHOULD WOMEN VOTE?

BECAUSE SHE is the mother of man, and without her man would cease to exist.

Because woman transmits her intelligence to her offspring, and if she has the power to do this she is of equal intelligence with her offspring, for none of us may give that which we do not possess.

Because if she is the mental equal of that male offspring, she has an equal right to a voice in the shaping of the laws which shall govern her, as well as him.

Because she is qualified by every law of nature to exercise the right of franchise.

Because the instinct of woman leads always to the upbuilding of the human race.

Because she would labor to place men in public office who would govern for the people and not for self.

Because she is a believer in the purity of all homes, and because of this belief she is a safe person to say who shall govern a community made up of many homes.

Because man owes his perspective to the care and training of women in his infancy, though many forsake her gentle sway in the later years of life.

Because her entrance into the political arena wiuld mean a better state, a greater country, a closer communion with the laws of God and man.

WITH PROSPECTS good for a beet sugar factory here, the reclamation service putting a big force of men and teams to work on the Griffith lateral Monday, the Pelican Bay and Algoma Lumber companies priming to start their big sawmills April 1, and Project Engineer Hincks only waiting for better weather to put thirty of forty men to work on the Modoc Point project—and yet some calimity howlers still say there is nothing doing here.

IN MEXICO, it seems, it is better to be president than be right.

AND TODAY, dad told his boys that on such a day when he was a kid, he'd be out spading garden or cleaning up the yard. But mother, who knew dad then, remembers that on such a day he'd be out playing baseball—as his sons are today.

SOME PEOPLE think that if they write "RUSH" on an envelope bearing their name in the upper left hand corner, it has the same effect as the using of a special delivery stamp by the common dubs.

IF YOU DON'T think of anything else to do Monday night—or any day, for that matter—just drop around to the Chamber of Commerce and enroll as a member. Your dues will be used for a mighty good cause.

WE HAVE THE SOIL, we have the water, we have the acreage, and according to United States tests, we have the other essentials to raise the best type of sugar beets, so all we need now is the beet sugar factory. Well, let's get it.

SOME MEN will go fishing tomorrow morning, others will sleep till noon, while a few more will go to church.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

"Conscience"

By ELDER S. D. HARLAN, Pastor Christian Church

Text, Ac. 23:1—"I have lived before God in all good conscience unto this day."

These are the words of Paul, the aged apostle, before the council in Jerusalem. He has been telling about how he became a Christian, and that before God he is not ashamed of the Christ in whose name he is suffering. In this day we are hearing much about what is termed conscience. When the boy Channing was about to strike a tortoise a voice said, "It is wrong." He ran home and asked his mother what it was and she answered, "Conscience, the voice of God." Hager in the wilderness cried, "Thou, God, seest me." When Moses fled and forsook his people the awful voice of God cried, "Go back!"

Conscience is the inward monitor of the soul. It gives its approval to actions which it thinks good, or disapproves those which it believes to be evil. Paul in 1 Cor. 10:27 speaks of the conscience condemning or sanctioning the eating of meat offered to idols. A Christian brother would know the images were lifeless and powerless, but a heathen might think the Christian was approving by knowingly partaking of meat which had been offered to idols.

Conscience is capable of education. When the speaker of our text was persecuting the Christians he believed with all his heart that he was doing right. But after he witnessed Stephen's death, Christ had appeared and talked with him. His three days of blindness and hearing the gospel from the lips of Annanias revealed to him the fact that it was wrong to abuse and imprison the innocent disciples.

Conscience is not an infallible guide. Although we hear men say: "If I do what I believe is right, God will save me eternally with the blest." But, my brother, we read of "a conscience seared with a hot iron" (I Tim. 4:2), which means it is extinct or utterly hardened and has lost all sense and feeling. We read again of "an evil conscience" (Heb. 10:22), which in its defiled condition cannot perform its office aright. The heathen mother who throws her baby to the crocodile or into the red hot arms of Moloch believes she is right, but we, with out enlightenment from the Bible, know it is sinful.

Our souls should be listening for "the still small voice" of God in these trying times. When Elijah, the man of God (I Kings 19 ch.) witnessed the power of the wind, earthquake and fire, none of these things stirred him. These only proved the power of the God he was serving. Elijah had run away from duty, even after God had answered his prayer for a three years drouth, and had given him victory over the prophets of Baal. Now, the conscience of the man of God is touched and he returns to finish his life work.

The conscience of men today is crying, "Repent and consult God's word, for there is no peace in war, starving humanity or this world's goods." Our conscience is telling you that Christ is the Son of God, and our only Savior. He is the heavenly voice calling, "come unto me and I will give you rest."

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

United Press Service.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo, March 6.—There are thirty hogs in the Bismark ranch pens that know all the joys of a "hog spree," and also the terrors of a "hang over."

A bottle containing a morphine solution is believed to have been thrown into their swill barrel by a prisoner in the county jail when the authorities were making a search. After a hearty meal, the hogs staged a perfect "jag" in their pens. They slept an entire day in attempting to get rid of the "hang over."

The German imperial marine authorities have forbidden the use of wireless apparatus in German waters by merchant ships, except in case of dire distress.

Over $5,000,000 will be paid out this year by the various states to mothers who are entitled to pensions.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

BY MARGARET MASON

(Written for the United Press)

The latest tip of fashion
Is you finger tip to see.
So take a tip and tip your mit
If swagger you would be.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Gloves with buttonholed openings in the finger tips just sufficient for milady's rosy, highly polished fingernails to show through are the very latest freak of fashion for evening wear. This out-at-the finger mode started on the Riveira and has been snatched at with eager hands and taken up or rather on by all the well done ladyfingers of Paris.

Margaret Mason

That's what my friend, the war correspondent, writes me, and he ought to know, for though he's over there to watch the warfare he doesn't miss much appertaining to the more fair. He has a weather eye on the sideline, 'twere. According to his expert opinion, the peek-a-boo glove when it reaches our midst will bid fair to rival even the vogue of that erstwhile, the Merry Widow hat.

Anyway, it ought to boost business for the busy little manicures, for with an opening like that before it every self respecting finger nail will vie with one another to make its coming out party a vision of pink polished perfection.

After all, why shouldn't milady's finger tips be put on view? With a little of everything else exposed in the present all revealing naught, concealing evening toilettes, why draw the line at ten poor little innocent fingers?

Next to a hand painted face comes the hand painted hat. They come high, too, my dears, but you simply must have one. Garlands of varicolored flowers are painted on the silk or chiffon covered upper brims of those cute little low crowned sailor shapes. Likewise painted in nosegays that would put Flora to the blush are those omnipresent ribbon bands that tie around the new spring hats with dinkey bews and drippy ends behind. Transparent hats with wide, floppy brims of lace, malline or chiffon are in again and these also when the brims are of plain, ungathered chiffon spurn not a hand painted rose or two in their gossamer surfaces.

There's heaps of dot and dash about most of the new spring silks. Those that haven't had a check put on them will have us all quite dotty if we don't watch out for polka dots from the pin point variety up to the dimensions of a twenty-five cent piece, are as thick as peas. These good old reliable combinations of a white dot on a black or navy blue and vise versa are much in evidence, like the complete check outfit to go with these dotted frocks there are also shown, forsooth, stockings, hats, parasols and handkerchiefs as dotty as they make 'em. Don't you just dote on dots?

Vivid embroidery in barbaric and oriental colorings and design is a feature of some of the smartest new suits and gowns. With a touch of metallic trimming it adds a piquant dash of color to the long, flaring cuffed sleeves, the wide inset skirt pockets, outlines the necks and edges of the saucy boleros and borders the shortness of short skirts.

There is a simply stunning and stunningly new negligee enhanced with this brilliant embroidery. It was dubbed L'Egyptienne in Paris, where it was evolved, cut on the simple, straight lines of a kimona nightgown except that it opens along each shoulder and fastens again with effective ball buttons of amber. Developed in either a bright orange toned, crepe de chine in vivid green, royal purple or Chinese blue, it has a crude design of all these hectic tints outlined in heavy black twist embroidering the rather low, round neck and down into a point effect to the bust line and banding the edges of the straight elbow sleeves.

This model lends itself beautifully to home manufacture. Four yards of double width crepe de chine fashions or even three and a half yards, according to your heighth. Add to this either silk or enough silk mull to line it throughout, heavy silk twist for the embroidery and a little time, and, behold, you have a Paris creation as effective as if it were purchased at the house of Poiret.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

IT'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO BRING BACK COLOR AND LUSTRE TO HAIR

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea recipe are sold annually, says a well known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin, have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight, and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.
