EASTERN travelers visiting the Pacific Coast are surprised to find that business is good and that the people are all optimistic. The attendance at the Panama-Pacific exposition shows a great increase over the attendance at either the Chicago or St. Louis World's Fair.

When we consider that the war in Europe has disarranged business, the showing made by the San Francisco and the San Diego expositions is marvelous.

As the season advances the number of sightseers will increase. Out of from their regular travel to Europe, thousands who have heretofore spent their summers abroad will visit the expositions on the Pacific Coast.

They will naturally take in other sights, and will see the grandeur of the glorious West. They will be inoculated with the Western spirit, and will become evangelists of optimism instead of gloom.

They will see scenery as entrancing as that of Europe, and they will find far better hotel facilities and better modes of travel. They will escape the espionage of Europe, and will not be annoyed every few miles with the searches of customs officials, and their good old American money will pass current at par at all times.

They find the advantage of Europe benefit the Americans. A summer spent seeing the United States will be worth several seasons of travel in Europe.

THE FELLOW who holds the loudest about the recklessness of autoists makes the biggest grunts of all about the stupidity of pedestrians after he acquires a machine.

THE DOLLARS that help keep things a-going in Klamath county are the dollars that are spent here.

AFTER A YEAR'S work in getting the co-operative agricultural extension work started in Klamath county, should this expense and benefit be all thrown aside?

THE MAN WE MOST pity is the fellow with a far cap and a straw hat. It's too late to wear one, and a little previous for the other.

THE TURKS may not be Christians but they were at least reasonable in the choosing of names for their cities, which is more than can be said for Russia and Austria.

Reds Big Lumber Order.
 That business is not entirely to the bad is attested by the announcement of the sale of 100,000 feet of No. 3 shop lumber by H. E. Edmunds to the Algoma Lumber company. The lumber is now being loaded for shipment to Algoma.

HAVE YOU HORSES TO SELL?

We want from 100 to 500 head of horses for French artillery service. We want horses of the blocky type, like a half breed Percheron or shire, weighing 1500 to 1800 pounds, from 5 to 8 years old, any color but light grey or white, from 15-1 to 16 hands high. Anyone having this kind of horses notify us at the Adams ranch, Merrill, or Hotel Hall, Klamath Falls, and we will be glad to look at them. French Commission, March 22 at Adams' stable. We pay for the horses when we accept them, regardless of action of the French government.

England's Recruiting Method Is Better Than Conscription

Landlords Express a Wish That Men on Their Estates Go to War. If They Do Not, They Are Ostracized in Villages

By W. M. G. SHEPHERD
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 1.—(By mail to New York)—There is no conscription in England. But there is a form of "persuasion" that is just as effective, by which Lord Kitchener's army has, in part, been made up. The big land owners are among the most effective recruiters that England has today.

There are parts of the little island of England where one may stand on a high hill and look about him with field glasses and know that every inch of land, as far as he can see, is owned by one man. On this land are small villages. These villages have their homes, their business streets, their public libraries, their hotels and railroad stations and postoffices, but every institution in the village and every person exists in that district by permission of the duke or lord who owns the land. To these persons in such villages the good will of the land owner is of more importance than the good will of the king. "His grace" as the tenants call him, possesses an almost unlimited power over the lives and actions of the tenants.

"His grace" is one of these small towns, has only to publicly express his wish that every able bodied young man in the place shall enlist, and after that wish is expressed we behold the young man, who, several weeks later, without good reason, is still found within the village precincts. The old men and women revile him and the girls of the village "cut him dead." There is only one thing for him to do, and that is to go to war.

The village of Arundel, on the estate of the Duke of Norfolk, who owns 45,000 acres in the south of England, is an example of the small English town where young men are not to be seen. What influence the Duke of Norfolk used in helping his king to secure recruits is not known. But the fact remains that Arundel has contributed all of its young men who could possibly get away to the army.

As you pass through the streets of Arundel you see, hanging in the windows of the cottages, large and gaily colored cards bearing the name of the man in that household who has gone to war. It is not unusual to see three or four cards in the window of a little home.

"Who are those cards for?" I asked a woman, standing at the door of her cottage.

"My two sons and my husband," she said proudly. "I haven't any more, and they are all at the front. Those cards are all I've got to show that any men ever lived in this house."

In the great million dollar cathedral of the town, which the duke built with his own money, there were eighteen black-bordered cards on the bulletin boards, bearing the names men who have fallen in battle. And the congregation of the church numbers only 1,000, a large majority of them being women. There are few churches in England that can show a record like that of the Duke of Norfolk's cathedral.

The vergers of the church tails visitors: "Almost all the young men have gone to war. I've got three sons and two grandsons serving."

This "persuasion" of the English land owners may indicate a condition bordering on feudalism, but the young men march off singing and happy, and their families remain proud and full of assurance that they are doing their duty by "his grace."

LET THE LADIES RUN FOR COUNCIL

SUGGESTION COMES FROM THE MAGE OF SAINT CLOUD, WHO PLEDGES HIS UNBIASED SUPPORT IN ADVANCE

(By Lora King)
 Yes, there is an election to be held in May, for the selection of members of the council. Now, what is the matter with giving the ladies—or some of them, at least—a chance to serve on the council for the next term?

We believe we have logic enough, and faith enough, and have been out of the cave long enough, to justify our advocating just such a policy.

Furthermore, we are willing to go on record as making the assertion that the lady or ladies who enter the municipal campaign will get the unbiased support of Alor Saint Cloud.

TODAY'S ODDITY STORY
United Press Service.
POTTSVILLE, Pa., March 16.
 Mrs. David Bell, aged 74 years, who died recently at her home at Northampton, Pa., made the shroud for over 1,000 persons, since the time that she entered into a contract in 1869 with various undertakers in that section to furnish shrouds and to assist in conducting funerals.

Radium is the scarcest thing in the world. It is also the costliest. Seven milligrams of radium, which is an infinitesimally small quantity, costs $150,000.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A GOLD OR CATARRH
 How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your stuffed nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of My's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrhs yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up and miserable. Relief is sure. (Paid Advertisement)
