"WHERE THE LADIES SHOP"

Pertforms Great Feat; Raised to 70c a Day

United Press Service
 PARIS, March 15.—(By mail to New York)—Pegoud—he who first looped the loop—has just had his salary increased to 13 cents a day. This is for the days he doesn't fly. When he flies all day he will get from now on seventy cents a day. On all days, whether he flies or not—he will hereafter be known as Adjutant Pegoud, instead of just plain sergeant.

This is the extent of the recompense and he is more than satisfied with it, which Pegoud has just received for the most brilliant aerial exploit accomplished by any aviator since the beginning of the war. Pegoud attacked and brought to earth three German aviators in one day.

Under the rigid restrictions of the French army, in which Pegoud is mobilized the same as the most ordinary soldier, he has not been allowed to talk of this exploit for publication. Only his plain report to his aerial chief has been made public. In it he says:

"While reconnoitering above C B I discovered a Taube coming in my direction. I charged and at a distance of fifty meters opened fire with my machine gun. The Taube made a semi-circle and I pursued while my gunner kept the mitrailleuse pouring in a hail of fire without let-up. After a moment of pursuit the Taube made a long glide on its left wing, and fell completely enveloped in flames and smoke from its burning wings.

"A little later in the same region I discovered two more aviators over M—I at once attacked the one nearer to me. At the first hail of fire from my machine gun the aviator tipped. I then charged vertically, my gunner never for an instant ceasing his fire. A moment later I distinctly saw the aviator as he was struck and in another instant he had plunged into space.

"Instantly I brought my machine to a horizontal position. We were then at a height of 1,500 meters, and I at once started upwards after the second aviator. When still about forty meters below him we opened fire. He replied with an automatic rifle and the combat continued for fifty seconds. Then, struck by our fire, he began falling. I again charged vertically by means of volplane, keeping our mitrailleuse at work until both of his wings pierced and crumpled by our fire, and he, too, plunged into space."

Sergeant Paul Marchand, a reservist from Centilly is believed to have acquired the world's record for wounds. He boasts 197.

Marchand was first wounded in the head on September 17. He was badly hurt—but insisted on staying in the ranks. The next day he was fighting from the inside of the church at Couron when it was bombarded. One of the first shells laid him out helpless and from then on till the close of the day he could do nothing but lie on his back with the shells bursting over him almost every moment. He lost the sight of both eyes and one finger of his right hand but otherwise is still fairly able-bodied.

SOME MINOR WAR NEWS FROM EUROPE

LITTLE STORIES FROM THE FRONT THAT ARE COMING IN THROUGH THE CAPITALS OF THE NATIONS NOW FIGHTING EACH OTHER—SOME ARE TRIVIAL, BUT ALL ARE INTERESTING AT THIS TIME.

United Press Service
 PARIS—Parisians have just received the most cheering news which has been their since the opening of the war. The automobile omnibuses are to be put back into service at once. With the declaration of war all of the autobuses, which constitute the chief means of transportation here, were rushed to the front with soldiers and supplies. Since then, aside from the subways, the Parisians have been obliged to walk or use bicycles. The government has not disclosed whether the autobuses to come back into service are the old ones, no longer needed at the front, or if they are new ones.

LONDON—When a young officer about to go to the front was being measured for a fresh outfit, his tailor could not forget that his customer had long been owing him a bill. But he felt a bit nervous about broaching the subject.

"I see the Germans," remarked the young officer, casually, "have had a check."
 "Lucky Germans!" replied the tailor wistfully.
 The young man looked puzzled for a moment, then drew out his check book and settled.

LONDON—There are 70,000 railway employes serving in the British army and navy, according to latest official statistics.

PARIS—A new decoration to be known as the War Cross, to be conferred upon all officers and men mentioned in official dispatches, has been voted by the chamber of Deputies.

LONDON—In the last quarter, according to official statistics, there has been only thirty trade union disputes in the United Kingdom—about 120 below the average in the six years preceding the war.

BEWARE OF FAT PALMS LEADERS, CURES, SAYS U.S. LYNX IN CELLAR

INVESTIGATIONS BY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE SAY THAT PRACTICALLY ALL OF THEM ARE DANGEROUS

United Press Service
 WASHINGTON, March 31.—The department of agriculture, in a bulletin just issued on its recent investigations of anti-fat humbugs, states that a common ingredient of the obesity cures is thyroid, a drug made from the thyroid gland which is still puzzling the medical world after years of study.

Thyroid, in the opinion of the government scientists, is far too dangerous a drug for inexperienced persons to experiment with.

"When used as a drug it has a very powerful effect on the whole human system and this information should be sufficient to warn anyone against dosing himself blindly with it," says the department's bulletin.

For medical use a number of sheep's thyroids are dried at a temperature of from 90 to 100 degrees and then powdered. This powder may be administered either dry, or when treated with glycerin, as a liquid.

It indubitably does reduce tissue," says the department, "and therefore those preparations which contain it are especial favorites with those persons who desire to rid themselves of what they consider is superfluous flesh.

"Unfortunately it is not possible to remove tissue at will without running great risk of ruining health at the same time. Abnormal deposits of fat are frequently accompanied by disorders of the heart, blood vessels and kidneys. To remove these deposits abruptly may well produce serious mechanical effects upon the operation of the internal organs.

"For this reason the medical profession has long recognized that obesity should be considered as a condition worthy of the most skillful treatment and that a cure is never easily and quickly attained."
