Latest German Warrior to Enter an American Port

After sinking thirteen British and French merchant vessels since she slipped from New York harbor in a sea-gray coat of paint eight months ago, the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm, which was turned into an auxiliary cruiser, has run back to another American port for protection against the allies' battleships. She suddenly ran into Newport News, there to keep company with the interned Prinz Eitel Friedrich, which appeared there some weeks ago. It is expected she will intern, and this means that her career as a commerce destroyer is at an end.
 Painted in war gray, the Kronprinz Wilhelm steamed out of New York harbor on the night of August 3, before American neutrality had been proclaimed. She was then armed with three 6-inch guns, several small

Strong Bill at Orpheus

A Scene From "Mother"
 With Emma Dunn, who starred in the play on the stage playing the leading role, "Mother," Jules E. Goodman's beautiful play, will be shown at the Orpheus tonight and tomorrow night. This is in four reels, and nearly all of the original cast appear in the movie version.
 The play was filmed on a grand scale by the World Film Corporation. In connection with the filming, William A. Brady, the eminent producer and playwright, was called in as an assistant in directing.
 The story of the widowed mother of six children, a plain little woman who struggles to raise her family, and who is broken in purse as well as in heart by her wayward sons, is a

 Mrs. A. S. Meyers was astounded to have a strange man enter her kitchen door the other morning with the remark "Well, Mary, it's good to see you again. I'll stay now, and live the rest of my life with you and the girls."
 Mrs. Meyers told Sheriff Walter that the man evidently thought himself an Enoch Arden. A deputy took him to the nearest lock-up.

Barnes and Roosevelt, Once Close Friends, Now Foes, Each Trying to Prove That Attacks Made by Other Are Personal, Not Political

(By BOND P. GEDDES)
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 21.—Machine politics, bossisms is the keynote of the trial of William Barnes' suit against Theodore Roosevelt, for $50,000 damages for alleged libel.
 Barnes—"Boss Barnes" as he has been often called, asks the $50,000 reputation balm for being publicly named by the former president as an alleged partner of "Boss" Chas. Murphy of Tammany Hall "in alliance between crooked business and also crooked politics in the past."
 Colonel Roosevelt's defense is justification. He proposes to prove his charges. Prominence of both principals in present and past political history and the overshadowing issues, with their possible result on future politics makes the trial one of the unique and politically pregnant in state and national fields.
 Formerly friends, but now bitter foes, Barnes and Roosevelt both promised merciless disclosures of the past political machinations, in Albany county, New York, and even the nation. Under subpoenas, and as spectators, the political hierarchy of political parties of state and nation are assembled.

 Republican leader in New York for years, member of the state committee since 1892, its chairman for three years and national committeeman for New York state, Barnes was prepared to tear the veil from much secret political history.
 Colonel Roosevelt, friend and co-worker of Barnes in highest Republican councils of the state and nation—as New York's governor and later the revelations of Barnes' alleged "bossism" and alleged working agreement with the Democrats.
 Barnes' counsel insists that the issue is not political, but personal—an attempt to defame and injure his good name. Roosevelt's lawyers are equally as insistent that promised proof of Barnes' alleged co-partnership with "Boss" Murphy in shaping legislation and in other ways, would absolve him of the charge of libel.
 Friends of both declare that the question of money damages is subordinate. Both are wealthy. Barnes, publisher of the Albany Journal, is rated as a millionaire. A verdict of one cent or nominal damages in favor of either will spell popular victory, it is generally regarded.
 Barnes' petition filed in July, 1914, during the heat of the New York gubernatorial fight, when Roosevelt was campaigning for Hiram, the Progressive candidate, recited Mr. Roosevelt's statement, distributed broadcast through the press. Roosevelt said Barnes and Murphy "are exactly the same moral and political type." He asserted "when the issue between popular rights and corrupt and machine ruled government is clearly drawn the two bosses will always be found on the same side covertly or openly."

 "Yet they really form," continued the Colonel, "the all powerful inviolable government responsible for the maladministration and corruption in the public offices of the state."
 Roosevelt's answer offered alleged proof of his charges. He said that Barnes told him that there was "an ironclad working agreement," with the Democrats on legislation to secure campaign contributions from wealthy men. He proposes to prove that Barnes and Platt opposed his signing the special franchise tax bill in 1899 because powerful financial interest opposed it.
 That Barnes worked successfully to defeat the direct primary bill of former Governor Hughes by an alliance with the Democrats was also fact of the Agnew-Hart anti-race-track bill in 1903 was also recited. Open gambling in New York, where Barnes is alleged to rule, was also recited by Roosevelt.
 Although "Boss" Murphy did not follow Barnes course against Roosevelt, it was predicted today that he would be called to the witness stand and that relations of New York Democracy, as well as Republicanism would be aired.

SOME MINOR WAR NEWS FROM EUROPE

LITTLE STORIES FROM THE FRONT THAT ARE COMING IN THROUGH THE CAPITALS OF THE NATIONS NOW FIGHTING EACH OTHER—SOME ARE TRIVIAL, BUT ALL ARE INTERESTING AT THIS TIME.

United Press Service
 LONDON—A London newspaper has instituted a campaign in which the English people are asked to write letters to motherless boys in the trenches.

LONDON—London court gossip has it that Princess Mary will go to the front during the early summer to visit soldiers in the trenches.

LONDON—A big British insurance company is reported paying salaries to staff members as high as $50,000 annually who are serving the colors. Other employees at the front receive from $400 to $3,000 annually with 4 per cent interest.

LONDON—Issuance of game hunting licenses in London have fallen off fifty per cent during the past six months. Enlistments to hunt Germans, however, has increased several thousand per cent.

ROME—Signor Giuseppe Accorci claimed the invention of an automatic anti-aeroplane gun which discharges when the aircraft crosses a direct line with the periscope.

LONDON—A story from the front in France says that when the Prince of Wales visited the firing line, officers and privates alike were given a half hour's notice by phone so they could "slick up."

GENEVA—The governor of Strasbourg has issued warning that severe measures will be taken against parents who allow their children to appear in English sailor stunts with the names of British warships on their hats.

LONDON—A Londoner telling the other day how he was entertained at a countryhouse near Rutland Gate, said that after dinner his noble host, together with the brother of an Earl and widow of an ex-lord mayor, washed and dried the dishes. All the servants had gone to war.

LONDON—Due to the efforts of Queen Mary, wounded British soldiers whenever possible, are sent to complete their convalescence in the neighborhood of their homes.

LONDON—While ex-King Manuel has not yet offered his services at the front, he is conducting a hospital at Brighton for wounded soldiers, and is said to treat them in royal style.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

YOU CAN BRING BACK COLOR AND LUSTRE WITH SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture at home, though, is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, and look years younger.
