KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1915

LET'S GET OUR SHARE

SECRETARY FLEET of the Klamath Chamber of Commerce, who has just been at the exposition to rearrange the Klamath county exhibit there, says that while this has been arranged as invitingly and as attractively as possible, the small amount of money that was expended on securing of the exhibits has not secured so complete an exhibit as other counties have. But Fleet believes that the stationing of a representative at the exhibit will cause Klamath county to be remembered by those who stop to look and to ask questions.

If a person is the least bit interested in a display he is certain to ask questions. If a man interested in grain raising looks at some of Klamath county's specimens he may be greatly impressed, but unless there is someone at the booth to answer regarding this section, and to tell him just what he wishes to know and what he is interested in learning, the chances are that the favorable impression will be fleeting and will pass from his mind as he moves to view other county exhibits.

To maintain a representative at the booth during the fair, a committee was named a few weeks ago by the Klamath Chamber of Commerce, this committee to solicit funds for such a representative's salary, etc. Thus far, nothing has been heard of progress by this committee. The duration of the fair is but a matter of months, and there are already thousands who have viewed the exhibits and departed. These, of course, cannot be reached, but in the months yet remaining there will be millions at the fair, and Klamath should lose no time in working for her share of new settlers by raising money to keep a well informed representative at the booth during the fair.

WINNING THE GAME

THIS country is a vast checkerboard, in which the Old Town Spirit and the New Town Spirit are striving for the mastery.

Old ideas die hard. The Old Town Spirit is "each man for himself and the devil take the hindmost."

This means the mastery of the few and the subjection of the many. But the New Town Spirit means the co-operation of all. It brings life and happiness to the many.

Is the New winning over the Old in Klamath Falls? And how do we, as individuals, stand in this game of community living?

Are you playing the game for your town? Or are you playing it for yourself alone? Remember, you can't stand still. On your move the result depends. Then let the Spirit of Progress win.

KLAMATH COUNTY will begin to reap direct returns in the way of new settlers, industries, etc., just as soon as a reliable, well informed man is sent to the exposition to tell inquirers of our undeveloped paradise.

WOOL GROWERS REFUSE TO SELL AT JUNCTION CITY SALE

Word comes from Junction City that wool growers have been offered 28 cents a pound for their product, but have refused to take it. According to some this is more than wool is worth today, but the Junction City growers are confident they will not only get this much, but maybe a little more.

A dispatch from Yakima tells of a sale there of 30,000 pounds by the Toppenish Livestock company to C. H. Carter, representing the Portland Woolen mills, who also bought 18,000 pounds from Louis Snyder.

Harry Armitage sold 20,000 pounds to C. Angell, representing Hallowell, Jones & Donald of Boston. The purchase of 10,000 pounds by I. Koshland of Portland from Dan McKie, it is believed, leaves the supply of wool in the Yakima Valley at less than 500,000 pounds. The prices paid ranged from 17c to 26c.
