Newspaper Man Says Klamath's Exhibit at the Fair Is Mediocre

Charles W. Sherman Sr. Suggests That Steps Be Taken at Once to Secure a Representative and Save Klamath From Complete Oblivion

Editor's Note—Owing to the diverse comments heard on the Klamath county exhibit in the Oregon building at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, The Herald, to get a line on the true condition from the eyes of a newspaper man who has attended many similar world's fairs, and therefore, an expert opinion, requested Charles W. Sherman Sr., Klamath county's veteran journalist, to write his opinion of the display, etc. In response Mr. Sherman, who is now in Los Angeles, mailed the following after a visit in San Francisco.)

By CHARLES W. SHERMAN SR.

Editor Herald—Arrived safely in San Francisco, and it rained every day since my arrival until yesterday, so that one could not get a fair chance to see the exposition at its best. But I will say this much without hesitation: That it's the greatest show on earth, or that has been on earth since Adam was driven out of the Garden of Eden, and everybody who can afford the expense ought to see it, and see it thoroughly, by all means. The exhibits, which are made by every country that is on the map of the world, are not only grand, beyond description, but the buildings, the ornamentation of the grounds, the color designs and the noble architecture strike one as something sublimely beautiful, the whole affair having been conceived and executed with a wealth of imagery and a beauty of artistic skill and finish which could only be attained by a vast expenditure of money and a determination on the part of its managers to excel every effort heretofore made in this line. I think it fair to say that as a state, Oregon is well represented. Its exhibit in Agricultural Hall compares favorably with that of other states, and gives one a fair idea of the predominant characteristics of its products. I was especially impressed with this, because I knew what could have been done had an adequate effort been made in this direction. And this inadequacy applies not only to the limited quantity and lack of superiority of the exhibit, but also to its location in the building. Klamath county has a good many men of wealth within her borders, who are also men of large affairs, in a way, but the fact is made quite apparent that none of these men paid any attention to the making of a proper representation of their county at this greatest of all world's expositions. While the Medford end of Jackson county and the Pendleton portion of Umatilla county are given prominent and central locations for their exquisite designs and abundant and beautiful displays, the display from Klamath county is simply a wall display—shoved to one side, as if merely to fill out space so that it would not be vacant—and even then there was not room for all of it in one place. Furthermore, I have spent a good share of each afternoon in the vicinity of this exhibit, but so far have failed to find a single line, or card, or booklet in the way of literature descriptive of our own county and its peculiar merits. I cannot help wondering what was done with the booklets prepared by the Chamber of Commerce. Furthermore, it seemed strange to me that I have not met a single person in the Oregon building from Klamath county, and only one outside of it. Now, in view of the fact that the exposition has yet more than six months of a run before it closes, I want to say that something more ought to be done to place Klamath county in a proper position before the exposition visitors. While the location and extent of her exhibit could hardly be changed, someone ought to be present in charge of it, with an adequate supply of enlightening literature to present to visitors. Evidently the usually wide-awake citizens of Klamath county have gone to sleep. Cannot something be done to wake them up?

SOME MINOR WAR NEWS FROM EUROPE

LITTLE STORIES FROM THE FRONT THAT ARE COMING IN THROUGH THE CAPITALS OF THE NATIONS NOW FIGHTING EACH OTHER—SOME ARE TRIVIAL, BUT ALL ARE INTERESTING AT THIS TIME.

United Press Service
RUSHDEN, Eng., April 24.—(By mail to New York)—This little Northumberland town claims the first British soldier to kill a member of the enemy in England's part of the war. Private Q. Bayes, Northumberland Fusiliers, who was in the advance guard at Mons, scene of the first British-German battle, arrived from the front wounded today with the following story: "I believe I saw the first German who came into view of the British troops. Our chaps had barricaded the side of the road. Our sergeant asked for a volunteer to sit on the barricade and keep a look-out. I volunteered. Before long I saw twenty men approaching. They were crawling on the ground. Their uniform proved them Germans. I let fly at the officer who had reached a point twenty yards from me. He jumped in the air, dropped his sword and rolled over. "I think he was Germany's first casualty against England."
United Press Service
LONDON, April 24.—(By mail to New York)—A zealous young officer intent upon seeing that his men on guard over a stretch of railway were going their work properly, crept up behind one of them on a dark night, and was astonished to find threepence shoved noiselessly into his hand by the sentry. "Mine's stout," whispered the soldier, "but next time you come around, don't make such a bloody row about it."

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

TELLS RHEUMATISM SUFFERERS TO EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water. Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed by the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism. At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoon-
