KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON MONDAY, MAY 31, 1915

AND STOP AT KLAMATH FALLS

GRATEFUL WE LIVE IN OREGON

AS A prominent factor of the great Northwest, Oregon is leading the way into fields of industrial development that is sufficient in these times of stress, wars and rumors of wars, to be a solace for overwrought nerves wrought about by the trying circumstances of the past three weeks.

In your quiet hour, be thankful you live in America first, and Oregon next. We have a great present and a tremendous future, with all our forces directed toward development and conservation.

Another is the stand the citizens of the state have taken in the affairs of government that have placed them on high plane and among the foremost states of the Union. It is high time to appreciate more than we have been our fortunate circumstances.

Here in Oregon with our last legislature a principal feature of the session was retrenchment and economy. Appropriations were $1,250,000 less than the preceding legislature, and that alone is an added enjoyment to the quiet hour after the day is done, as appropriations come out of the people's pockets in the form of taxes.

No laws aimed at utility or transportation companies were countenanced, radical labor laws were not enacted, no statutes were placed on the books to harass any established industry, and no further regulatory powers were established, and that's something else to be thankful for.

The people defeated twenty-five out of twenty-nine measures submitted to referendum, and by this same vote referred notice that they were weary of political nostrums and interference with industrial and commercial progress.—Hubbard Enterprise.

Scattered Shots

WRITING NOTES in school generally leads to trouble—and the jinglers are certain that Wilson's exchanges will do likewise.

COMETH NOW the rumor that the cabinet is to split over the kind of answer to be sent to Germany. It is needless to brand this as nonsense, for with the people solid behind the president at this time, it is ridiculous to think of his eight especially selected advisers deserting.

AND TODAY again painfully reminds us that the Boys in Blue have all turned Gray, and that it is but a matter of a few years before that grand old generation of patriots will have answered the final reveille.

Boxmakers Win Good Game in the Tenth

Oscar Willey's Ewauna Boxmakers won a second victory over Tindall's Klamath Falls aggregation yesterday in the tenth inning of a remarkably fast, clean game, one of the kind a fellow expects to see played when he digs up an admission to a Coast League grandstand. The final score was 5 to 4, and the game was anybody's until Willey sacrificed in the tenth, scoring Winders.

There were many pleasant features about yesterday's game, which should insure better attendance hereafter. Not the least of these was an utter absence of wrangling and rowdiness. Owing to there being no flags on the foul lines, Empire Jones, who was new on Modoc Park diamond, called Bowden's drive over right field fence a foul, when it appeared to be a good clean hit, and he also surprised the crowd by calling Page's single into left in the third inning a foul. However, the players took these decisions without a row, and the crowd also felt that his ump's was doing his best.

There were errors yesterday, but not many; just enough to remind us that the players were in the game for the love of the sport, not for salaries. The majority of the errors can be ascribed to the condition of the diamond, which is still in such shape that it's hard to tell where a grounder will bounce to next. And again, Gentle Reader, if these boys were in the errorless class, they would be drawing down princely salaries in the big leagues, not playing Sunday ball in Klamath Falls for the fun of it.

Siemens struck out eleven men and allowed four hits. Hickox, though hit for four singles, pitched a good game until relieved in the fifth by Hardenbrook, and "Hardy" started matters by hitting Bowden, Winders and Herbig, the first three men up. With the bases filled, he fanned Thresher, and started a double play which caught Bowden at the plate and Arnold at first.

In the first, after Bowden had slammed one over right field fence, which was called a foul, he was issued a base on balls and stole second, went to third when Zumbum overthrew first trying to get Winders's, and scored on Herbig's single. Bowden brought in his second run in the third inning, when he singled, went to second on Page's error, took third when Hickox delayed in throwing Winders out at first, and he scored when Moteschenbacher threw to second to catch Winders.

Two runs were annexed by the Boxmakers in the fourth. Thresher was retired by a grounder to Hickox, Otto Arnold smashed out a double, went to third on Houston's single, and scored on a sacrifice hit by Claire Arnold. By this time Houston was perched on third, and the little outfielder proved himself a lumberman by doing some tallying on Siemen's grounder, which Dale juggled a second too long.

All of Klamath Falls' runs were made in the sixth. Zumbum started things by a single to deep center, Dale was hit by Siemens, and stole second when Zumbum purloined third, and the two came galloping over the plate when Moteschenbacher slammed a single to the right field fence. Moteschenbacher was retired at second when Herbig, retrieving Ambrose's grounder, threw to Kelly, allowing Ambrose to reach first. Kieth's stop at the initial sack was brief, as Hayden slammed a two-sacker to the right field fence, and scored Ambrose. After Maurer went out on strikes, Page hit a grounder that went through Herbig's hands and feet, and Hayden brought in Klamath's last tally before the ball could be put into play again.

In the ninth, Thresher, who had played without a chest protector, was hit near the heart by a swift ball, and was knocked unconscious. He rallied sufficiently to finish the inning, and was roundly cheered for his gameness. Willey caught the final inning.

The winning run was scored by Winders, who was hit for the second time. He went to second when Hardenbrook walked Herbig. Hilton poked out a long one, but Hayden caught it, and Winders, after stealing second, came in home on Willey's sacrifice. The throw from Zumbum to the plate and the runner arrived there at about the same time, and this decision of Jones' calling Winders safe was a very close one.
