KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON TUESDAY, JUNE 1, 1915

OUR OWN KNITTING

AT INDIANAPOLIS President Wilson boasted that he is not a business man. In Philadelphia the other day this was plainly shown to be true.

The National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers has just held its annual convention there, and all of the speakers discovered that the one sure-fire method of getting a roaring response from the delegates was to hand out a slam at the administration for its lack of business sense.

The manufacture of socks and stockings is not one of our greatest industries, but its products reach every person in the republic, and it may therefore serve as an illustration of the results of the Underwood tariff. That tariff placed a minimum duty of 30 per cent ad valorem upon cotton socks and stockings, a considerable reduction from the Payne-Adrich tariff, which had levied a minimum of 70 cents a dozen and 15 cents ad valorem, amounting to about 90 per cent ad valorem. This reduction caused an average increase of 40 per cent in the importation of socks and stockings during the first seven months of 1914, at the end of which time the war put a check on importations of all kinds. In less technical words, about 7,000,000 more pairs of foreign-made socks and stockings were sold in this country during that period, than during the same period of the previous year.

General business was no better in 1914 than it was in 1913. In fact, general business was getting worse all the time in that year. So it cannot be claimed that the business of selling hosiery improved in any such degree as to account for this tremendous increase in the importation of foreign stockings, and there is, therefore, no other conclusion than that sales of socks by our own manufacturers were approximately 7,000,000 pairs less than they would have been under the old tariff. And the consumer has not been able to discover any difference in price. The manufacturer has been deprived of business, the laborers of employment, and no one in this country has been benefitted in the least.

WHAT YOU MUST DO WITH YOUR VISIONS AND IDEALS

IN THE June American Magazine, David Grayson, writing his story "Hempfield," comments as follows on what a man must do with his visions and ideals:

"No vision and no ideal is worth a copper cent unless it is brought down to earth, patiently harnessed, painfully trained and set to work. There is a beautiful analogy that comes often to my mind. We conceive an idea, as a child is conceived, in a transport of joy; but after that there are long months of growth in the close dark warmth of the soul, to which every part of one's personality must contribute, and then there is the painful hour of travail when at last the idea is given to the world. It is a process that cannot be hurried nor borne without suffering. And the punishment of those who stop with the joy of conception, thinking they can skim the delight of life and avoid its pain, is the same in the intellectual and spiritual spheres as it is in the physical—barrenness, and finally a terrible sense of failure and of loneliness."

YES, SIR; summer "have come."

BUT KLAMATH cannot call itself a city yet—not while there are still people here who believe in trying to crowd in ahead of everybody else at a ticket, postoffice or bank window, instead of getting in line and awaiting their turns.

AND IN EIGHT more days, Chattanooga will open. Got your season tickets yet?

THE QUESTION now is: Who will bring in the first Klamath county new potatoes?

DID YOU EVER notice that while people admire the copperplate-like writing of some fellows, they'll feel surer with a check from some fellow whose signature is hardly decipherable.

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

TELLS RHEUMATISM SUFFERERS TO TAKE SALTS AND GET RID OF URIC ACID

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions, it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure, and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well. (Paid Advertisement)

Live News Notes of Fort Klamath People

(Herald Special Service) FORT KLAMATH, June 1.—Deputy Sheriff Vose arrested a violator of the speed limit on the 30th, taking him before Justice Wimer, who assessed a reasonable fine. All roads leading into Fort Klamath bear near town the county official speed limit of fifteen miles per hour. Twenty or twenty-five may be tolerated, but sixty, as was indulged in, is too fast for a slow town.

The Hotel Dixon, catching the spirit of improvement, is having its dining room remodeled. T. T. Jackson is the architect. Lunch counters and booths are being installed and meals will be served at all hours.

The Commercial Club met Monday evening and considered ways and means for the "July Time." Programs and dodgers are now going to the printer. Secretary Fleet of the Klamath Chamber of Commerce, which is endeavoring to send a man to the Klamath booth of the Panama-Pacific exposition, gave the club some valuable aids and literature. Mr. Fleet's first visit to Wood River Valley was made last Saturday in company with the county agriculturist, who was conducting some school examinations here. He was taken over the valley and shown the artesian wells, the voluptuous verdure of crystal woods, the streams of crystal purity, the historic fort, and the most important, from a mercenary viewpoint, our three townships of unsettled valley land awaiting the drainage of the soil.

Gus Melhase was in the Fort again with his "Six Reo," engaging in his usual piscatorial pursuits. He landed several pounds of dolles and Lake trout from Seven Mile. From the ranger station there he reports that Ranger Carlson, while repairing the telephone line near the summit of the range, received a severe bruise and wrench of the leg by breaking through a shell of a snow drift.

In addition to James Gordon's new summer home, J. J. Otey of the Rainbow garage is indulging in a like comfort. Holding down a porch swing is a luxury that less favored mortals of our town can only dream of and enjoy the pleasure of anticipation.

Jack Knott of Beaver Marsh, who has been working at the carpenter's bench, is spending a few days at the county seat. He recently sowed forty acres of timothy on his ranch in the bill pines.

Tom Christy's all white minstrels have played the Fort for two nights.

Utter & Burns' saw mill will start in about ten days. They employ about thirty men. The project work at Klamath Agency is under way, and the pay roll in this end of the county is increasing in a number of ways.

Fort Klamath's cemetery is waving a number of flags over the soldiers' graves, while others bear the symbols of loving remembrance. Besides working in the cemetery, Decoration Day was observed by a school picnic at Seven Mile on the 29th. Miss Lelah Parker is to be congratulated in fostering the outing.

Oregon Road Officers May Get Help of Expert

(Herald Special Service) OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, June 1.—Road supervisors and other officers interested in building and maintaining public highways of Oregon may now secure the services of a specialist in road construction and maintenance in solving their problems of best types of roads for their district and the best methods of construction.

Hetzel, director, so that arrangements may be made to have Professor Skelton's visit made when he is scheduled for work in their part of the state.
