

CROPS HELD BACK AND NEED RAIN

EXTENSIVE TRIP OF COUNTY AGRICULTURIST OVER SOUTHERN AND EASTERN OREGON SHOWS NEED OF RAIN ON DRY LAND

The crops in Harney, Lake, Crook and Klamath are all back on account of the cold snap in this section some time ago, which seems to have affected the crops in these counties alone. However, the present spell of hot weather will do wonders for them, and should overcome the set-back to a considerable degree, according to H. R. Glaslayer, county agriculturist. Rain is needed pretty badly on the dry land now, and will mean loss if it does not come.

Glaslayer has just completed a trip within the past three weeks of approximately 1,500 miles, covering most of Klamath county, with a trip to Lakeview, Silver Lake, Burns, Bend, Crescent and other sections. Glaslayer accompanied a professor from the Oregon Agricultural College who was studying cattle conditions, and who will render a report after his return to Corvallis. Glaslayer spent some time at Burns at the state experiment station, looking over the seeds there, which he expects to use in this county. They are of a harder variety than is raised here, and he believes will produce well in this county.

He found some evidence of alfalfa blight while on the trip, but not to a great extent. It is prevalent in other parts of the state, and rather than give it a start in this county, the only remedy for it is simply to cut the alfalfa stems where it is found. It may be known as it with the alfalfa, and is easily discovered by inspection. By getting it early and clipping the stems down to the ground the second crop may be saved, even where it is bad.

Coming down from Bend Glaslayer stated that he made the run of 150 miles in eight hours and a half. He states that the roads as soon as one gets into Klamath county are noticeable for their good condition. He states that several farmers were working them in the northern end of the county, and that they are in much better condition than in the counties north.

A FEW TAX STATISTICS

For 1915 the total collections will be $20,351,668—a decrease of approximately $2,131,332.

Cities and towns show increase of $14,657 for collections in 1915 over the collections of 1914.

The total increase from 1913 to 1914 in Oregon was nearly 27 per cent, and the reduction from 1914 to 1915 was nearly ten per cent.

BLUE DOWN IN 1861 DANGEROUS

CIVIL WAR VETERANS RESSENT PLACING OF BLUE BUNTING ON LOWER SIDE—HANGING MATTER IN CIVIL WAR TIMES

The placing of the bunting on the stores in the city is causing comment among a number of the Civil War veterans, especially where the blue of the bunting is put on the lower side.

"The blue should be up," said a veteran today. "Just as much so as if the flag was being put up, and it would be just as reasonable to put it upside down. At the time of the Civil War, if a man put bunting up with the blue down he was treating on dangerous ground. He would be hauled out and was considered a 'secesh' until he changed it. And if he did not change it the probabilities were that he would be strung up to the nearest tree, if he was in Northern territory."

"Many people do not realize the difference, and do not know that the proper way is to put the blue up. It works on the same principle as the flag, and I hope that the merchants will put the bunting up right."
