ORGANIZED EFFORT NECESSARY

THIS is an age of organized endeavor. It is the modern policy in business, and is applied in all lines of effort. Almost all modern business achievement has resulted through co-operation secured by systematic organization. It is the means employed to bring forces of many men to focus upon the specific thing to be accomplished.

In this day the individual in business and in community service is able to accomplish very little when working alone. Outside an organization he is merely an individual. When trying to do a work for the community, and enlist the services of his fellow citizens, he is little better than a member of a mob, as there is no cohesion between the members. He is like a grain of sand. Now, sand is a splendid thing, but of little use employed by itself. Bring it together and unite it with its neighbors by means of cement and you have something valuable with which to build. It ceases shifting with the wind, and is prepared for some definite constructive work.

Scattered throughout the United States are many commercial organizations which are doing active beneficial work for respective communities, and contributing immensely to the development and progress of the cities. Where the commercial organization is lacking, or it is inefficient and poorly organized and operated, the cities are not advancing, and cannot be expected to advance so rapidly and substantially as where the properly organized and supported commercial body is taking an active part in furthering the cause of the city. Without the help of such an organization the city cannot travel so rapidly nor so far as with it.

OUR TRAFFIC RULES

IT IS becoming daily a fact that Klamath Falls is in need of some stringent traffic rules for vehicles traversing her main thoroughfares. The collision of a motorcycle, a wagon and an automobile at the corner of Sixth street and Klamath avenue last night slightly after 6 o'clock, might have been a much more serious accident than it was.

One of the first laws for a vehicle is to keep on the right hand side of the street or road, and this wagon was failing to do, according to eye witnesses to the accident. The motor cycle was coming too fast to turn out or to avoid further jamming the tangle, with the result that an excellent opportunity was furnished for a bad injury or two.

This law is not strictly followed on our streets, and with the many automobiles in the city it is necessary that it be followed.

Another feature that is proving dangerous almost every day, and is in direct violation of a state law is the turning about of automobiles on the streets at the corners. Almost every day from one to a half dozen narrow escapes from accidents occur on Main street from this habit that automobile owners are acquiring with a great deal of skill here. In any other city or town of any size it is absolutely prohibited by a city ordinance. In this city the traffic is becoming so heavy and the automobiles so numerous that it is beginning to prove a real menace.

Too many of our expert "reckless" drivers drive up to a corner and swing around without looking, or with a mere glance behind them, to see whether or not anybody else is following them. The principle of the act is wrong. An auto is driving up the right hand side of the street, starts to turn as if going up a side street, and the first thing the person behind them knows they are swinging around in front of them. If all would use a great deal of care we would probably have no trouble, but there is always the driver who likes to take the turning at anywhere from a five to ten miles an hour clip, and he is proving a menace. Not only that, but making the turn it is nearly always a fact that the driver runs over a portion of the street crossing in the street, endangering any pedestrians, and numerous examples of carelessness are being shown daily by drivers for the person who walks.

Our chief of police states that there is a state law prohibiting this, and if this is so it ought to be enforced by the proper officials. Whether there is or not, there ought to be a city ordinance prohibiting the turning of automobiles on the corners of our main streets, for somebody is going to be injured. An accident was narrowly averted the other day on the corner of Sixth street and Main, naturally a bad corner at the best. A buggy was coming in from the country, an automobile made a swerve and was down upon the buggy, nearly smashing into it, and causing a runaway, too.

With the numerous machines belonging to tourists who are on the streets every day, it is becoming more of a menace, because the outsiders are not prepared for the machine ahead of them making such a turn, and are taken unawares.

Unless some action is taken in the near future it is very probable that some serious accidents are going to take place.

Scattered Shots

THE NUMEROUS visits of national, state and other officials to this section mean a new period of advancement for Oregon.

LET'S GET IN on the fun and keep up with the band wagon.

THE COMMERCIAL CLUB experts who have had experience and made successes in organization of clubs all over the United States, are prepared to help us.

IT IS UP TO US to see that they are given the opportunity of doing everything possible for us.

AND THE BAND is going, too—where? To Medford and the ball game.

I GUESS it will be some little party, and if we do not win it will not be our fault.

THE DEXTERITY of a motorcycle rider to make a flying leap was all that saved him last night.

BUT THEY can't all do that.

THE BAND gave a good concert last night. Long may she live.

A PARTY of state road officials and others slipped in on us last night and are looking our projects over today.

THERE ARE so many coming these days that it is difficult to keep track of them.

DO NOT FORGET that the Commercial Club means business, and that there is going to be something doing in the old town before long.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

United Press Service.
COLUMBUS, O., July 15.
It is a wife's prerogative to say how the baby's hair shall be cut, according to a ruling made here by Police Judge Osborn.
Ira Williams, colored, disputed the point with Mrs. Williams. The argument ended in a fight. Williams was arrested and his wife charged him with assault and battery.
In the police court Williams was given a suspended sentence of six months, and cautioned by the judge to heed his wife's request hereafter when any tonorial work is to be done.

PINE GROVE PICKUPS

Charles Gray was called to Eugene last Thursday on account of the illness of his father.

Miss Mary McComb, who has been with Mrs. Burt Hawkins for the past few weeks, returned to Klamath Falls last Friday. She will leave today for California, where she will visit the fair and later enter college at Los Angeles.

The people of Pine Grove were very much pleased with Mr. Camp's talk last Sunday on the water proposition.

Miss Jennie Icenbice has been visiting her sister, Mrs. L. Dixon for a week.

Ethel and Charles Mack, Grace and Alma McClay and Floyd Short visited the Hawkins children Friday afternoon.

Messrs. Grimes, Brown, Icenbice, Breitenstein, Gray and Orr are putting up alfalfa hay this week.

George Avery of Mt. Laki spoke to a well filled house last Monday evening at Pine Grove on "Child Life in Foreign Lands."

People of Pine Grove will give a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Harland tonight at 8 o'clock. Friends from town are invited to the school house. A short program will be given and refreshment served.

PORTLAND LETTER

(Herald Special Service)
PORTLAND, July 15.—The run of cattle at the first of the week began with a registration of 1,000 head. Monday's market started off briskly at about steady prices on steers, a carload of choice ones going at $7 for tops; others of a little less quality bringing $6.75. She stuff showed a weakness, and closed at 10 to 15c off. Hogs do not show any improvement in regard to the character of offerings. Out of the 2,700 head received, none were in prime shape. The market is considered steady to a shade lower, tops bringing $7.40. Choice lambs, no doubt, would bring $6.50; ewes and wethers in proportion. Seventeen hundred changed hands Monday morning at an even price with last week.

Vassar Girls' Novel Vacation

United Press Service.
NEW YORK, July 15.—Instead of joining their friends on the seashore or in the mountains these hot July days, five Vassar young women and three from Barnard College are putting in six weeks "vacation" in New York's congested, smelly East Side. The young women volunteered to teach in the vacation schools. Their students are mostly foreign.
