CHANGING METHODS AND CITY DEVELOPMENT

THE student of history and the economist one of the most remarkable things in the development of the United States has been the stupendous development of the cities. A prominent contributing cause to this has been the commercial organization. Especially is this the case with the cities of the western part of the country, for no sooner has the city incorporated—in fact, often before this is brought about—than the commercial organization comes into existence and brings about co-operative community development work.

But with the advance in business methods and consequent need for different treatment of the community problems, the old form of commercial organization has been outgrown, and these are found to be totally inadequate to successfully cope with present day conditions. The religious and political organizations were found unsuited to present day needs, and are rapidly being transformed to meet the needs of the modern day.

The church is casting off its narrowness, its sectionalism, its coldness and indifference to those outside its fold. Old forms of city government, once suited to the conditions existing, and still revered by many because of early association, or because they were good enough for our fathers, and the city prospered under them, are, nevertheless, not commensurate with the needs of the present day larger city, with all its modern ways of conducting business and commerce and education and development, with all the latter term implies. The messenger of man's thought was once conveyed on leaden wings; electricity now carries him around the world in the twinkling of an eye. The century-long undertakings of the old days are now by modern engineers constructed over night. So the circuitous and cumbersome instruments of city government are gradually giving way to modern efficient tools. The old haphazard guesses of former days, when one could wait to "see how it worked out," is no longer sufficient, and the knowledge supplied by scientific service makes the waiting entirely unnecessary.

With these changes going on it is not at all remarkable that the efficiency expert should find in many American cities that the organizations for industrial, commercial and civic work are antiquated and unsuited to the needs of the modern city and community.

The organizations of this character must, in this era of strenuous competition, be measured by the efficiency test. Any city, to measure up to its opportunities and possibilities, must have an efficient community organization, equipped to meet its varied and complex needs.

Such an organization in a progressive, live city, rallies to its support and enlists in its service all the active, wide-awake business, professional and industrial men of the community. And no city without the men of that calibre working together in one strong organization, along a definite plan of action, can hope to successfully compete with neighbor cities having such.

PRAYER OF A HORSE

BY DIRECTION of the police commissioner of New York there is posted in every stable where police horses are kept a card, of which the following is a copy:

"To Thee, My Master, I Offer My Prayer:
"Feed me, water and care for me, and when the day's work is done, provide me with shelter, a clean, dry bed and a stall wide enough for me to lie down in comfort. Talk to me. Your voice often means as much to me as the reins. Pet me sometimes, that I may serve you the more gladly and learn to love you.
"Do not jerk the reins, and do not whip me going up hill. Never strike, beat or kick me when I do not understand what you mean, but give me a chance to understand you. Watch me, and if I fail to do your bidding, see if there is not something wrong with my harness or feet.

"Examine my teeth when I do not eat. I may have an ulcerated tooth, and that, you know, is very painful. Do not tie my head in an unnatural position, or take away my best defense against flies and mosquitoes by cutting off my tail.

"And finally, oh my master, when my useful strength is gone, do not turn me out to starve or freeze, or sell me to some cruel owner to be slowly tortured and starved to death; but do thou, my master, take my life in the kindest way, and your God will reward you here and hereafter. You may not consider me irreverent if I ask this in the name of Him who was born in a stable. Amen."

Scattered Shots

NEARLY everybody has gone to the tall and uncut—at least there is little society these days.

ROADS SEEM to be the principal topic of the day—lets hope we get some results.

THE MAN that's on the job all the time is the one that gets results, whether he is on a pleasure trip or otherwise engaged.

TAKE A "JIT" to Medford. They say it will be worth the price.

A TRAFFIC RULE prohibiting the standing of vehicles on Main street more than a specified time might do away with some of the complaint about the pavement along the curb.

TAKE SALTS FOR THE KIDNEYS IF YOUR BACK HURTS

We Should Drink Lots of Water and Eat Less Meat, Says Noted Authority on Kidney Disorders

Recommends a Spoonful of Jad Salts In Glass of Water Before Breakfast to Stimulate Kidneys and Eliminate the Uric Acid

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

United Press Service.

DENVER, July 17.—Can you imagine a man with both feet amputated being the practical joker and the "life" of a big hospital?

The nurses at the county hospital here declare Olando Baldwin's a lot of other things, too. They were at dinner.

"Have some tea, Clarice?"

"I think I hear something."

"No. Pass the sugar, please."

"I think I hear a mouse."

"He's a big mouse—the table is moving."

The first time it happened the nurses took to the decks of the chairs as Baldwin's gray whiskers came out from under the table. It happened too often to be a joke, and Baldwin had to be locked up at night.

Knights Attention

All Knights of Pythias in the city are requested to be present at the ball next Thursday night to make arrangements for the celebration at Carter Lake next month, or let C. C. Low know whether you will be able to go or not between now and Thursday night.

RECEPTION FOR HARLAN AT GROVE

FAREWELL RECEPTION IN TENDERED LOCAL MINISTER BEFORE LEAVING FOR OLD HOME IN MISSOURI

(Herald Special Service)

PINE GROVE, July 17.—The people of Pine Grove and friends of Rev. S. D. Harlan from Klamath Falls, met at the school house Thursday night and gave an informal reception for Rev. and Mrs. Harlan, who have since left for their old home in Missouri.

After a short song service, conducted by J. B. Mason, Rev. Harlan gave an interesting talk on "Going the Second Mile." Then Mr. Mason, in behalf of the people of Pine Grove, presented a beautiful cut glass bon-bon dish to the Harlans as a token of appreciation of Mr. Harlan's untiring efforts in trying to have Pine Grove a better community in which to live.

At a late hour ice cream and cake were served by the ladies to all present, after which all sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and wished the Harlans a safe journey and a profitable return to Klamath.
