YREKA WINS ONE FROM SISSON

BEATS THEM IN THEIR OWN CAMP BY EIGHTEEN TO FOUR. BOTH TEAMS REGISTER IN THE FIRST INNING

YREKA, July 29.—About fifteen automobiles, crowded with fans and players, motored to Sisson Sunday afternoon, where the home guards, in a game full of good, bad and indifferent baseball, took the Sisson pets into camp by a score of 18 to 4.

Some good ball was played by both teams, and some wild, woolf and wearisome performances were also contributed by some of the players. Both teams touched the pan in the first inning for one ace. They battled to the fifth, and then came the big Yreka scream. Wilson, first up, singled; Luge followed with a single, putting Wilson on second; McIntyre was given life on Sisson's choice, the play being made to third to catch Wilson; Marshall dropped the throw, and there were three on and no outs. Guisto was next at bat, and Koch had to pitch to him or pass in a run. He decided to go after him, with the result that Guisto copped one out in the direction of the state fish hatchery for a homer. This was the undoing of Brother Koch. From this on he was unsteady, and the boys took advantage of the situation. In the seventh and eighth innings a combination of hits and errors netted our boys seven more.

Brooks pitched in old time form. He was not in trouble at any time through his own negligence, and his headwork in the pinches after errors had put men on the bags was a feature. DeForest looked mighty good in the line up. His stealing of third in the seventh was a neat and clever piece of work. Dee can always be depended on to pull something at every opportunity. Galkins was the hitting demon of the day in number of hits. This young chap is fast coming to the front. He is a fast felder and is getting to be a terror with the stick.

MEDFORD LOSES

GAME TO WEED

MEDFORD, July 28.—The Medford baseball team lost its third straight game at Weed Sunday by the score of 7 to 6. Six of Weed's runs were scored in the first inning on errors. "Soldier" Thomas was hammered out of the box in the first inning. His place was taken by Johnny Walsh, a former University of Oregon pitcher, who held the foe to one run. The Medford team outthrew Weed two to one but could not assemble their hits in any one inning efficiently and effectively enough to clinch the contest. The Medford team will not play next Sunday on account of the Elks' picnic, but will play Weed in this city the following Sunday.

Third Educational Letter Sent Out by State Office

By BEN H. WILLIAMS
Statistician, State Industrial Accident Commission

To instill into the minds of workmen a realization of the hazards that are annually reaping such a grim harvest among the ranks of the laboring class is the object of safety education. For this purpose the most convenient unit is the individual plant. Each factory is, in a sense, an industrial world unto itself. Each has its own organization and its own peculiar problems. In each the superintendent or manager, being the power in control, occupies a strategic position in the work of accident prevention. Upon his attitude depends the success or failure of this work.

Many employers, realizing this, have arisen to the occasion with good public spirit and business insight, and have organized safety campaigns. The evil social consequences and the waste in dollars and cents of industrial accidents have been materially reduced.

At an Oregon mill, which is considered to be one of the safest in the Northwest, the management has taken the following steps to diffuse the safety spirit. Safety meetings are held about once a month. Prizes, consisting of cash, watch fobs, "boost for safety" pencils, etc., are given to the men for praiseworthy efforts in accident prevention. A conspicuous bulletin board, showing various pictures and posters, is maintained. Danger signs are placed in different positions around the plant. A safety bulletin is published periodically. A thorough inspection has been made by a force of mechanics, and modern safeguards have been installed at every possible danger point. And the result is that the accident rate has been reduced in a striking manner.

For the purpose of gaining a hearty co-operation many employers of the Northwest have placed workmen in positions of responsibility in this work. In the past the workman has been slow to report dangerous machinery or methods for fear of losing his job. The new movement takes the workman in as a part of the inspection force and encourages him to criticize dangerous conditions. The following description of the duties of the safety committee in a certain Washington sawmill may be taken as typical.

The committee consists of three men selected by the management. The members are a mechanic, a yard foreman and a watchman. They keep a watchful eye over the work, and from their observations and from suggestions offered by other employees they make recommendations to the management. They post bulletins relating to safety which show the dangers of the work and the results of accidents. In short, they do everything possible to eliminate accidents and promote proper sanitary conditions. The chairman estimates that the number of accidents have been reduced 50 per cent since the appointment of this committee.

These are instances in which employers have attacked the accident problem with modern methods and have successfully reduced the accident rate. So far little of this work has been done in the Northwest outside of the state of Washington. It is to be hoped that Oregon employers will hasten to do their part, and by the adoption of these efficient methods, reduce the cost of compensation and aid in the conservation of human life.
