

Governors Plan Opening of Annual Conference

United Press Service
BOSTON, Aug. 21.—With one week remaining before the opening of the eighth annual Governors' conference, Governor David I. Walsh is busy arranging the last details for the entertainment of what is expected to be the largest gathering of chief executives since their first meeting in Washington, D. C., in 1908 on the invitation of President Roosevelt. Already more than twenty-five governors and a dozen former governors have acknowledged Governor Walsh's personal invitations with assurances that they will be present at the bay state capital for the four days set aside for the conference.

The officers of the organization are Governor Walsh, Governor Spry, of Utah and Governor Hall, of Louisiana, executive committee; former Governor John Franklin Fort, of Newark, New Jersey, treasurer; and Miss E. Riley, Madison, Wis., secretary.

The purpose of the governors' conference as laid down in the articles of the organization, is to bring the governors of the different states together yearly for an exchange of views and experience on subjects of general importance to the people of the several states, the promotion of greater uniformity in state legislation and the attainment of greater efficiency in administration.

Not all of the governors who are to address the conference have as yet announced their topics, but it is known that Governor Carlson of Colorado, will speak on the "State or National control of water power sites;" Governor Hammond of Minnesota, on "Economy and Efficiency in the State;" Governor Fielder of New Jersey, on "What Should be the States' Duty in the Matter of National Defense;" Governor Williams of Oklahoma, on "The Function of the Executive Department Relative to the Budget;" Governor Stuart of Virginia, on "Taxation;" Ex-Governor Ammons of Colorado, on "The Development of the West;" and Ex-Governor Dix of New York, on "Conservation of Mankind and Natural Resources;" and Ex-Governor Blessie of South Carolina, on "The Duty and Responsibility of the Chief Executive in Dealing with Prisoners."

Others who are to read papers are Governor Alexander of Idaho, Governor Whitman of New York, Ex-Governor O'Neal of Alabama, and Ex-Governor Gilchrist of Florida.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

BY MARGAREE MASON
 (Written for the United Press)

Nettle has a nightie,
 That is nothing more than net,
 It's a niffle, natty nightie
 And a wee bit naughtly—yet
 Quite the nicest thing in nighties—
 Is sweet Nettle in the net.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Butterflies of fashion ought to feel at home in the net. Perhaps that is why they are adapting it to garments for strictly home wear. Certainly the new net nighties are homey without being homely. Time was when the nightie was a garment to be mentioned with hated breath, not only in the privacy of the boudoir as 'twere. Now they are openly discussed in the very best families. They have to be openly discussed because they are all open work. You can't make veiled allusions to 'em even though they are made of veils and illusion themselves. The net result is that these new net nighties are being very much talked about. In fact everybody is talking about them.

Just at first you might imagine these new nightgowns would be an awful bother to mosquitoes, but the altruistic designers have had insect interests at heart. They have created one model of net robe de nuit that is slit from the ankle length hem to the waist where it is caught together with a soft bow of pink ribbon that is run through a shirring around the waist. A second pink bow ties the slit skirt together at the knee. The waist of the gown is made of two wide panels that taper to mere straps over the shoulders forming a low V shaped neck and no sleeves or under arm covering. This nightgown will undoubtedly prove a boon, indeed, to the festive mosquito. Possibly the designer who thus looked out for his interests was once a little fly herself. I forgot to mention that this garment is also further heavily burdened with a row of pink feather stitching around the ankle length hem up the sides of the slit skirt and outlining the strap-like bodice.

Another new model has a wide ruffie of pleated net around the round baby neck, wide pleated ruffies around the short elbow sleeves and a deep full pleated ruffie around the bottom of the skirt from the knee to the ankle. All the ruffies are headed with inch wide yellow satin ribbon run through a double fold of the net and the yellow satin ribbon run through a shirring forms the high empire waist line. Here's one garment that the fat woman can wear with impunity. She doesn't have to be thin to wear a net nightie because it's this enough itself. She will also find it deliciously cool—almost cool to the point of audacity.

For more conservative sleepy heads a nightgown of pink silk mull is offered out on exactly the same lines as the nightgown of the old fashioned male. It has the same high neck with a neat little turn over collar, long straight sleeves and buttons over the chest with the same neat little set-on flap. Briar stitching in white outlines the collars, cuffs, hem and the fastening flap and a bit of white smocking on each side of the front gives the necessary fullness.

So far removed in effect and design is the nightgown of the nightie of net that it would even give the mattress a turn should they

What the War Moves Mean

By J. W. T. MASON
 (Star Correspondent United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The fall of Kovno points to Petrograd as the ultimate objective of the present German drive through Poland. The Kaiser reserved his public congratulations for the Kovno victory.

The Germans are attempting to separate the Russian armies into northern and southern forces, and to bottle both up, at least temporarily, the larger part about Brest Litovsk and the Pripiet marshes.

The Slavs are not yet divided. Their defensive has been well managed. If the Kaiser's forces succeed in dividing them, however, Grand Duke Nicholas will be in a precarious position, not because of the actual separation, but because he will be unable to concentrate his munitions.

The chances of the Russians avoiding the trap are about even.

Pan-Germanism is demanding the annexation of Belgium as the principal price for the cost of the war to Germany. The movement has been concealed until now. Suddenly it appears as a result of the Teutonic victories in the east, and many believe Pan-Germanism can dictate the terms of settlement.

The government is not encouraging the annexationists. Those opposed to such a step, including Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, have submitted a petition to Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, urging against the annexation of Belgium, and pointing out the danger of absorbing alien and reluctant nationalities. A counter-petition has been made, showing the extensive demand for annexation.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg is believed to favor restoration of the independence of Belgium. His prestige is extensive, but the chancellor's position here from Chiloquin.

Mrs. Herbert Savidge, who has been living in the woods near Chiloquin this summer, where Mr. Savidge has charge of one of the departments of the R. A. Johnson mills, is in the city for a few days on business and pleasure—visiting friends and purchasing supplies.
