GERMAN COUNT PREDICTS PEACE

BERNTORFF FEELS HE IS REINSTATED IN AMERICA'S OPINION THOUGH HIS JOB AT HOME IS MADE UNHAPPY

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Persons in touch with the German embassy state that Count von Bernstorff believes that his action in regard to Germany's submarine policy has cleared the way for peace.
He feels that he is reinstated in the opinion of America, though the fact that he has induced his government to virtually repudiate the action of the submarine commander who sunk the Arabic, will make his position at home unhappy.

What the War Moves Mean

By J. W. T. MASON
(Staff Correspondent United Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The possibility of peace is now nearer than at any time since the outbreak of the war. Only a small incident is needed to open the way to negotiations that may result in an armistice.

The first steps toward lessening the tension have undoubtedly been taken by Germany and England. The powerful anti-annexation movement in Germany with regard to Belgium, and Sir Edward Grey's admission that the freedom of the seas is debatable must both be taken as suggestions of peace. If the settlement of the submarine controversy of the United States can be extended to include an agreement between England and Germany for mutual limitation of sea activity, chances favor an early peace.

Germany wants peace, openly, though, of course, not a humiliating peace. Until Foreign Minister's Grey's statement of last week, England would hear nothing as to the ending of the war. Since then, however, there can be no doubt that peace has begun to appear possible to influential Englishmen. The fact is delicately announced by F. W. Hirst, editor of the London Economist, who declared Grey's statements regarding improved treatment of prisoners and Germany's modified methods of submarine warfare suggest a letting down of tension for "high diplomatic purposes." The reference to "high diplomatic purposes" means, of course, overtures for peace negotiations.

Peace now would leave the allies baffled in their efforts to capture Constantinople, but it is by no means certain there is much enthusiasm in the west for the project of continuing to throw away lives in order to make a present of the Dardanelles to defeated Russia.

"The capture of Constantinople would enhance England's military reputation, but as events now stand, England does not really need a victory over the Turks for prestige. Economic pressure brought on Germany by the British fleets and the capture of the German colonies by the British are factors that will prevent the allies from being overwhelmed when negotiations begin. This is doubtlessly the arrangement which is being used quietly in England. A little more of it and a peace congress will be in session.

"Dick," the Horse Riding, Juggling, Monster Sea Lion

"Dick," one of a dozen seals and sealions who are famed for their act with the Al G. Barnes Wild Animal Circus, coming here Saturday.

An amazing and extraordinarily interesting feature on the program of the Barnes Wild Animal Circus is the troupe of seals and sealions. Though cumbersome in appearance, the seal and sealion are active and dexterous out of water to a remarkable degree.

For instance, these animals are equilibrista, jugglers, musicians, ball players and bareback riders. Juggling billiard balls on the tips of their nose is done with the greatest ease. Throwing the balls to one another and catching them on their noses is a part of their work. Doing this same thing while on the backs of galloping ponies has given them the prominence of being the best trained seals and sealions known. Harry is a comedian, and leads a group of fans, who vigorously applauded every clever stunt done by their companions.

Sixty-five original, instructive, amazing and thrilling acts are offered by the great Barnes show, a program given entirely by a troupe of over 600 educated animals. Nearly every species is represented, fully one half the number being ferocious wild animals.
The hour for the glittering parade is 10:30. Performances are given at 2 and 8 p. m. The big free act on the show grounds will be given at 1 o'clock and people, after seeing the parade, will have ample time to get their dinners after the parade and then see the big free-to-everybody act.
The shows' date for Klamath Falls is Saturday, September 4th.
