Rhode Island Judge Killed for Revenge

Judge Willis S. Knowles

Within a few hundred feet of his summer home at Lake Moswanicut, at Scituate, Judge Willis S. Knowles, who for seven years presided over the Eighth District court at Providence, R. I., was shot to death.

No one saw the murderer, who made good his escape. So near was the judge to his home, which he had left to take a trolley car to his office in Providence, that his housekeeper, Mrs. Cora Wardell, heard the three shots which were fired at him, and also heard a man's voice shouting: "Now I've got you, you ——" She ran from the house, and a short distance away saw the judge's head above a hedge that shuts off the lawn of the house from the highway. Before she reached him he had fallen and was dead.

Rigorous in his punishment of offenders, the judge had many enemies. His life had been threatened repeatedly, on more than one occasion shots had been fired at him; he had confided to his friends that he believed he was in danger, and, on the suggestion, he always armed himself with a revolver when driving or walking about the country.

"SUICIDE" IS VERDICT AFTER AUTOPSY

Cantrall Bought Deadly Poison in Klamath Falls, and Said Goodbye to Friends and Relatives. Had Financial Reverses. Private Funeral to Be Held at 10:30 Tuesday. Leaves Wife and Four Children.

United Press Service

The autopsy on the body of Roscoe Edward Cantrall, who was found dead at Sican yesterday morning, brought out the fact that he had died by his own hand. Coroner Earl Whitlock found that potassium cyanide, probably the most deadly poison known to science, was the direct cause of his death.

Mr. Cantrall had met with financial reverses, and this is believed to have been the cause of his act. He had been morbid and discouraged from these, and on Saturday, when he purchased the poison at Klamath Falls, he said goodbye to many friends and relations.

He was 43 years of age at the time of his death, and leaves a wife and four children. He has been operating a mill at Sican.

According to the report of the coroner his death was from heart failure, due to cyanide poisoning. Cyanide is known to have an instant paralyzing effect upon the heart.

His funeral will be held at 10:30 Wednesday. The services will be private.

MORE PRODUCTS NEEDED AT FAIR

ALL EXHIBITS DISPLAYED TO BEST ADVANTAGE—MANY INQUIRIES MADE—KLAMATH HAS GOOD DISPLAYS

(Herald Special Service)

OREGON BUILDING, Panama-Pacific Exposition, San Francisco, Sept. 14.—Many new and interesting exhibits are coming from Oregon just now. Eastern Oregon is showing new grain and grasses, Southern Oregon beautiful specimens of peaches and pears, the Willamette Valley booth vegetables and a minor quantity of fruits that are not especially wonderful as yet, and Klamath has a large quantity of grains, grasses and vegetables.

Among those sending exhibits from Klamath are

Soudan grass, 9 feet high, F. H. McCormack and E. R. Reames; onions, carrots, celery, Fred Nitchelm; potatoes, cucumbers and cabbage, E. Newham; turnips, J. B. Moore; potatoes, E. C. Reames, corn, Frank Arrant; alfalfa, Elmer Applegate; wheat oats and barley, Esell Brothers.

All of the booths need constant replenishing, and everything sent here is used to the best advantage possible. Some of the fruit grain and grasses, vegetables, etc., does not arrive in perfect condition, and some of it is not superior display material, but it is used wherever and whenever possible. In certain instances there is fierce competition, and the directors and representatives here get discouraged over the failure to receive answers of any sort to the hundreds of specific requests sent to well known growers, firms, associations, commercial clubs, etc. Oregon is making a creditable showing, but it could make a much better one if some more of the really superior products of all sorts grown in Oregon were forwarded.

PORTO RICO HAS A JITNEY WAR

THE GASOLINE RUGGIES ENTER INTO COMPETITION WITH THE LONE STEAM RAILROAD, AND COMPLICATIONS ARISE

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—A real war between jitneys and a regular railroad has developed down in Porto Rico. Up to two months ago the railroad had a monopoly of the passenger business between Cetano and Bayamon, which amounted to half a million persons a year. Then the peaky jitney made its appearance. Now the "jitneys" are carrying just half the traffic.

Although the jitney fare was 10 cents, the same as the railroads, the buses proved so popular with the people that the railroad was forced to reduce its fare. The trip soon became a sporting proposition, the jitneys racing with the trains, and often beating them to the finish.

Now it is announced the railroad will be electrified and all the old equipment replaced with modern cars and appliances. These improvements will cost many thousands of dollars, not counting what the rivalry already has cost the road in traffic shrinkage.
