BUNT IS WORST WHEAT DISEASE

CROP ROTATION, CLEAN SEED, NEED TREATMENT WITH FUNGICIDES, ARE AMONG METHODS TO FIGHT SMUT

Bunt, or stinking smut, is beyond question the most serious disease of wheat in the Pacific Northwest. Special attention has been given to this trouble during the past season, and the facts presented below are based on a bulletin soon to be issued by the plant pathology division of the experiment station, Pullman, Wash.

A crop of wheat may become infected with smut in a number of different ways:

1—Smutted seed may be planted in clean soil. The smut may be in the form of separated spores lodged upon the surface of sound grains, or as unbroken smut balls or partially smutted berries.

2—Clean seed may be planted in an infected soil. The source of infection may be two-fold, smut from a previous crop grown on the same ground, or wind blown spores originating from nearby or distant fields.

Recent investigations have shown that there is a very general, widespread and extensive wind dissemination of smut spores following harvest and during the threshing period until fall rains commence. The result is that many of the summer fallow fields are thoroughly infected with smut spores at the time of fall seeding.

It does not seem probable that wheat smut will be controlled by a single practice, but rather by the combined use of various methods. At this time emphasis should be placed upon five different lines of attack as follows:

- (1) Crop rotation; (2) the use of clean seed; (3) seed treatment with fungicides; (4) cultural practices; (5) breeding and selection of varieties.

American Girl Drove an Auto in the War Zone

Mrs. Bartless Boder, an American, has just come back from the war in France, where she drove auto ambulances under fire. When she has rested a short time she will go back to the front.

"I can't keep away," she said. "It is all so fascinating, the soldiers in uniforms, the gay bands, the great camps, the air of expectancy for whatever the day may bring."

logne. I have carried wounded soldiers from the battle front to the hospitals, but the thing I want to do most is to drive the great army trucks that carry provisions to the men. I could do it, too, just as well as any 'Tommy' only it takes the red-taped British government so long to get it through its funny English head!

"Why, we women who really want to do things actually had to beg. The Englishmen didn't want us at first. They said very politely but firmly that we 'butted in.' Now they are beginning to need us, and I expect to join a contingent and see actual service at the front immediately on my return."

"Several women I know have been decorated by the king of the Belgians for conspicuous bravery. I—I guess I'd rather have that happen to me than anything else I can think of."

Raise Girls as Men Indured

United Press Service
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—"Raise your girls to be a man," was the advice of Mrs. Margaret Charter, delegate to the Congressional Suffrage convention today. "Women would make just as good soldiers as men," said Mrs. Charter. "Girls should be fitted for man's jobs and not ladylike occupations. There is no difference between the capabilities of the two sexes. Women can do what men can do, whether it is fight or work."

Most men like Fatimas—but maybe you won't

Fatimas please so many men that they outsell any other cigarette costing over 5c. But it may happen that your taste won't fit Fatimas. That's nothing against you. Nor against Fatimas. But if your taste does fit Fatimas, you can feel doubly grateful. For of this you can be sure—Fatimas are cool and friendly to the throat and tongue. And they will never leave you "feeling mean" as long as you smoke within the bounds of reason. These tests show you how to prove this.

TWO TESTS FOR ANY CIGARETTE

The taste of the cigarette—according to a leading tobacco journal—is up to the point that you should look for in the cigarette. If you are going to stick to it for your throat, there are a couple of tests that may help the average smoker to choose more wisely between different kinds of cigarettes.

The first test is for coolness, which means more comfort to the throat and tongue. Light cigarettes, dear in a box, are not sufficient to make this test. Let it run your mouth for a few seconds. Let it "do it" around your tongue.

Now how do you know if the cigarette contains a high grade of mild tobacco? Compare it first with a "strong" cigarette. It will always feel cool and smooth both to your throat and to your tongue.

On the other hand, if the proposition is not right and if the cigarette contains inferior grades of tobacco or hidden strands of rank, oily leaf, you will feel a nipping sting at the tip of your tongue or that "sandpaper" tickle in your throat.

Test number two—How do you feel after smoking all day?

If the tobacco in the cigarette includes all of the various grades, you have been so blinded as to bring out the best qualities and to neutralize any unpleasant tobacco. You will be able to smoke practically all day without feeling any effect from it.

But with another cigarette in which the tobacco is of the highest grade, you will find along towards the end of the day that you are likely to have that feeling of having "smoked too much."

Clip out these tests and try them on Fatima

Because Fatimas are cool and because they can be smoked freely and often—they have rightly earned the title, "The Sensible Cigarette."

It simply remains for you to see if their taste suits you as well as it is suiting thousands and thousands of other men. Test Fatimas today.

You may find that their taste is exactly what you've been looking for in a cigarette.
