WHEN THE WAR ENDS

WHETHER the United States can hope to hold its place as the leading export nation of the world is a problem now receiving the attention of the business men of America. It was the European war that gave the United States its present pre-eminence. What will happen when the war shall close is the great question which very properly causes anxiety among men who are financially interested in the continuance of that partially restored prosperity now prevailing in some section of the country.

Men who are accustomed to dealing with conditions rather than theories, and who build on reasonable certainties, do not overlook the fact that in July, 1914, just before the outbreak of the European war, there was a very alarming balance of trade against the United States. They will not forget that the balance of trade turned against us soon after the "tariff-for-revenue-only" policy was decided upon by the election of a democratic administration and that it was only the conditions developed by the European war which turned the tide in our favor.

Will the balance of trade turn against us again when the cause which turned it in our favor has been removed? Most business men are answering this question in the affirmative, believing that since it was "war orders" that formed the basis of a favorable trade balance, that balance can continue only so long as the war shall remain a factor in international commerce.

There are several facts which no one disputes:
 First. The call of millions of men in Europe from industrial activity to military operations decreased production on that continent.
 Second. The war not only decreased production abroad but destroyed many products already manufactured, and created new and enormous markets.

Third. The only large producing nation ready to supply the commodities most in demand by reason of the war was the United States; hence this country received a greater part of the war orders.
 Fourth. As soon as the armies of Europe are disbanded, these millions of men will return to manufacturing and other productive enterprises.
 Fifth. European nations will be impoverished, and the United States, as a result of its large favorable trade balance, will be the only country in a position to buy extensively.
 Sixth. As a consequence of high prices paid by buyers of war equipment, wages in many American industries have been increased, and when European producers again begin activity the American producer will be thrown into competition with factories paying the lowest scale of wages, while American mills pay the highest.

The foregoing facts present a situation which the business men of America must meet, and they are now giving it most careful thought. It is a situation which will confront not merely large manufacturers of the country, but every farmer, merchant, mechanic and laborer who depends for a livelihood upon the general prosperity of the nation.

Went Leprosy Sanitarium
 United Press Service
SACRAMENTO, Sept. 30.—The California board of health is receiving many letters favoring the board's plan to have the United States government establish a federal sanitarium for the treatment of leprosy. West Virginia, Minnesota, Idaho and Wyoming are the first states to swing in line with California. Dr. Sawyer of the California board of health argues for the federal leprosy, on the ground that cases of leprosy are scattered in that patients cannot be cared for by states or counties.

Men Who Will Settle Fate of Mexico

From left to right—Senor don Ignacio Calderon of Bolivia; Senor don Carlos Maria de Pasa of Uruguay; Senor don Joaquin Mendez de Gatemala; E. C. Street (secretary of the conference) of Washington; Senor Romulo S. Noan of Argentina; Senor Dominico de Gama of Brazil; Secretary Lansing and Senor don Eduardo Sauro of Chile.

This is the first photograph for which the South American diplomats who with Secretary of State Lansing have taken up the question of Mexico have posed in a group. They are hard at work on the problem of settling the differences between the Mexican factions in order to establish a government and prevent further bloodshed. It is said on good authority in Washington that at the next meeting, about three weeks hence, the conferees will come to a final determination as to which Mexican faction is to be recognized.

M. Giacomini, a Progressive Farmer of Klamath County

This is Giacomini, with his son and his Swiss smile. He is smiling because he has begun to reap the advantages of being one of the most progressive farmers in Klamath county, or the state for that matter.

Two miles from Merrill lie Giacomini's 140 fertile acres. The picture shows him in his sixty-acre alfalfa field, from which, at the time of the picture, September 10th, he had already cut two crops. The third crop will be as large as his other two, so that the total will be seven and a half tons per acre. The alfalfa was, of course, irrigated.

And Mr. Giacomini knows just how to use this alfalfa of his. Some of it he sells, and some of it he feeds to his twenty-two dairy cows. He owns a creamery, and turns out as high grade butter as can be procured in the state.
 In co-operation with Roland Glaisyer, county agriculturist, he is building up one of the finest dairy herds obtainable. He weighs separately the milk of each cow every night, and estimates the amount of their feed. At the end of the month the dairy fat percentage of the milk of each cow is procured. In this way he is learning which of his cows are good milk producers, and which he had better fatten for beef at the end of the year.

On the remainder of his land he raises other crops—all kinds of feed for his dairy herd. And needless to say, he is making money, and his Swiss smile is one that won't come off.
 "This is just a sample of what progressive farmers in this country are doing," said Mr. Glaisyer. "And what many more can do. From the fertile land of this county, farmed in a progressive way, the farmers of this section can be as prosperous as any in the world. Moreover, since land is so cheap in relation to its earning capacity, farmers can maintain larger at less investment than in other places."

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

SAYS EXCESS OF HYDROCHLORIC ACID IS CAUSE OF INDIGESTION

A well known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

DEER HUNTERS SEE WILD MAN

SIX FEET TALL, NAKED, LAUGHING LIKE A FIEND, BEARDED WILD MAN FRIGHTENS TOWN OF LELAND

LELAND, Ore., Sept. 30.—Laughing like a maniac, walking like a man, six feet tall and as bare as Adam, Lower Grave Creek has a sensation in a wild creature that calls elusively for help, clammers over cliffs and fallen trees like an animal, and is stirring up the native to fever heat.

Fire Warden Harry Schmidt, in company with Don Calvert and Roy Gearhart, spent the better part of a day trying to locate what appeared to be a man calling for help, supposed an unfortunate hunter, wounded or lost. But the search was fruitless, for as each time the spot was located from where the sounds came, nothing was there. The next day Scotty Ray, while hunting, was attracted by a strange yellowish-looking creature scaling the cliffs across a canyon. Thinking it was a cougar, he got closer, and found it fully six feet tall, with beard, and all the appearances of a man walking upright, or on all fours at will. When it spied Scotty, this nature man let out such a continuous peal of demoralizing laughter that Scotty lost his nerve and failed to shoot.

Maybe Joe Knowles is again growing a bunch of French whiskers in the Oregon woods—who knows?

Eucalyptus Growers Meet
 United Press Service
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—California growers of the eucalyptus tree, known as the "wonder tree," were in convention here today in the Lumbermen's building or House of Hoo Hoo, at the Panama-Pacific exposition. The eucalyptus tree is called the "wonder tree" because it grows ten times as fast as hickory, oak or mahogany, and yields lumber which is harder and better than these native trees.
