CEMETERY STILL IN BAD CONDITION

WOMEN OF THE RELIEF CORPS, FORWENT TO WAIT FOR SURVEY. SEE THE GOOD WORK OF LAST SPRING BEING DESTROYED

After the very excellent work of the ladies of the Women's Relief Corps last spring in beautifying the city cemetery, it looks as if this work will have been almost wasted. Much interest was created by the activity of the ladies, and with the assistance of lot owners a good start was made in making the cemetery attractive.

It was the plan to erect a new fence around the property to protect the graves from being tramped over by loose stock. The city council voted $100 for the use of the women in this work, and in addition the ladies raised a considerable amount. About $75 has been spent by the ladies in hauling away trash and fixing up the grounds, and they still have money on hand to build the fence, but here is where they have met their first real problem.

They claim that in order to erect a permanent fence a survey of the property will first have to be made, so that they will know where to place the fence.

The old Cemetery Association is so badly disorganized and so few of the original directors are living, that so far it has been impossible to get any action. Two of the directors have promised to have a survey made, but so far nothing has been done, and the women are forced to wait. It has been suggested that the city be asked to take over the property and establish a cemetery under the management of the city. It is believed that this can be done under a new law passed at the 1915 session of the legislature.

At the present time, it is stated, the fence is down in many places, and cattle and horses are destroying all of the good work done by the ladies earlier in the year.
