

Fear Main Army of Serbia Is Surrounded Villistas, Defeated and Scattered, Deserting and Starving

VILLA ABANDONS LAST POSITIONS AT AGUA PRIETA

CARRANZAS PURSUE FLEEING ENEMIES

Artillery Retreating Westward Toward Naco—Entire Army Scattered. Horses Starving—Six Hundred Cavalry Pursue Rear Villista Guard. All Army Aviators Needed at Mexican Border.

United Press Service DOUGLAS, Ariz., Nov. 3.—Villa's army is scattered and his artillery retreating westward toward Naco. His last positions before Agua Prieta were abandoned this morning.

Six hundred cavalrmen pursued the rear guard of the Villista army this morning after a two hours' battle in which the Villistas were crushed. Fifty ran toward Agua Prieta, and surrendered. Six crossed the border onto Arizona soil, and were arrested as military prisoners.

The Villistas are in a terrible plight. The men are suffering from hunger, and many horses are starving. Funston was denied permission to invade Agua Prieta if necessary.

United Press Service SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Lieutenant Colonel Samuel Reber, the head of the army aviation corps, has announced that every army aviator was wanted on the Mexican border, and asked that those appearing in the Goodier court martial be excused.

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—The state department advised the allies that it has decided to recognize Carranza as soon as Italy prepares a note of recognition in the behalf of the allies.

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—General Funston's request that he be given authority to invade Agua Prieta if necessary was unfavorably received in officialdom. The war department said that only President Wilson could grant him such authority, and there was no prospect of him doing so.

Warren Company Offers Materials.

Through the courtesy of the Warren Construction company, the city will be saved many dollars. When the company finished their construction here they left some materials, which they have now offered free to the city for top dressing whenever the pavement has to be ripped up for the laying of pipes, etc.

Business Men to Meet.

The business men will hold a meeting at the city hall tonight at 8 o'clock. Much business is to come up and a large attendance is requested.

To Visit Fair.

I. W. Taber and family departed on this morning's passenger for San Francisco on a visit to the fair.

EIGHT DROWN IN SHIP DISASTER OFF MARSHFIELD

FEAR SEVEN OTHERS PERISHED IN WRECK

Santa Clara Grounds, and Passengers and Crew Try to Escape in Boats. Four Boats Reach Shore in Safety. Many Deeds of Heroism—Roguy River Valley Man Among the Dead. Captain Weeps When Thanked.

United Press Service MARSHFIELD, Ore., Nov. 3.—Eight bodies were recovered from the steamer Santa Clara that was grounded off Coos Bay. It is feared seven others perished. The vessel is resting easily, and there are no signs of her breaking up.

United Press Service MARSHFIELD, Nov. 3.—It is believed that from three to seven others perished when the Santa Clara went aground. The known dead are Mrs. M. J. Dunn of Butte, Mont.; Mrs. D. H. Horne, Hood River; Eugene Gillenwater, aged 7, Seattle; Delmar D. Bogue, Gold Hill, Ore.; Alfred Crowley, aged 13 months, Mill City, and two unidentified elderly women. Four boats went ashore safely.

The Santa Clara grounded in a heavy sea wind. J. W. Noyes, a middle-aged man, waded the breakers to save a woman and a little girl. Roy Dunne of Butte, saved his sister Margaret after their mother was drowned by the capsizing of the boat in which they were trying to reach shore.

The survivors suffered last night on Bastendorf beach. Seventy-five huddled in a small cottage. The captain wept as a passenger thanked him for trying to save the ship.

DRAINAGE WORK WELL UNDER WAY

ZUMWALT WITH CREW AT WORK MAKING SURVEY OF KLAMATH MARSH TO LEARN FEASIBILITY OF DRAINAGE PROJECT

Don J. Zumwalt, the civil engineer, is in charge of a crew of surveyors which is at work on the project to drain Klamath marsh, under the supervision of the Klamath drainage district. The work of surveying is well under way.

The purpose of the surveying is to determine how much of the land can be drained and what the probable cost will be. When this information is procured, actual reclamation is expected to begin.

The Klamath drainage district, comprising forty property owners of Klamath marsh land, are providing the funds for the surveying. By bonding, etc., other moneys will be raised to carry on the project of reclamation. It is only a matter of time, according to land owners, that practically all of the 55,000 acres coming under the immediate project will be drained, thus increasing enormously the wealth and productive area of Klamath county.

Serbia's Grand Man Makes Final Plea to Allies to Save His Country

PREMIER PASHICH

This photograph shows the grand old man of Serbia, Premier Pashich, looking on maps of the progress of the war about two weeks before he made this last plea to the allies to send troops to save his country from the Austrians, Germans and Bulgarians.

Serbia is making superhuman efforts to defend her existence in response to the advice and desire of her great allies. For this she is condemned to death by the Austro-Germans and Bulgarians. For twenty days our common enemy has tried to annihilate us. In spite of the heroism of our soldiers our resistance cannot be expected to be maintained indefinitely.

This plea was sent to London, and it was published on the day Lord Lansdowne admitted in the house of lords that so far Great Britain had sent only 13,000 troops to Salonika to help the Serbs.

HARD TIMES HAVE FINISHED INNING

CALIFORNIA STATE OFFICIALS HAVE FIGURES TO PROVE THAT MONEY IS BEING FREELY CIRCULATED

United Press Service SACRAMENTO, Nov. 3.—Hard times and calamity howlers have finished their inning; business is picking up, and money is being more freely circulated. Two state officials have come forth with statements to that effect, and with facts to back up their statements.

"When the state gets a premium of $50,000 on a $1,800,000 bond issue, it doesn't look like money is tight," said State Treasurer Friend W. Richardson.

"When Californians are spending an average of $100,000 a day purchasing automobiles, business must be pretty good," adds French.

It has been many months since the state received such a healthy premium on a bond issue as on the University of California $1,800,000 recently. French points out that conserva-

FRANCE WILL NOT BOW HEAD; WILL FIGHT TILL END

SUCH IS STATEMENT OF NEW FRENCH PREMIER

United Press Service PARIS, Nov. 3.—Premier De Briand in his first speech to the deputies since he was appointed was optimistic in regard to the fate of France. He expressed France's determination to carry on the war to a victorious end.

United Press Service BERLIN, Nov. 3.—It is announced that in Northeast Vouches the Germans evacuated 100 metres of trenches.

United Press Service BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg repulsed the Russians near Drvinburg Illust and Carunowka. The Russians only succeeded in occupying Milk-Ulinski. Von Linsingen is progressing in the Car-torysk region.

United Press Service LONDON, Nov. 3.—Petrograd has admitted that the Germans gained ground toward Riga from the west. The Russians are on the offensive before Dynek, and the German losses in Volhynia.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—It is announced that the British captured a German super-submarine in the North Sea. The crew has been imprisoned.

IN SPITE OF RAIN DUCK BAGS SLIM

A FEW NORTHERN BIRDS SLAIN BY KLAMATH HUNTERS LAST NIGHT, BUT MORE STORMS ARE NEEDED TO BRING IN FOWL

Duck hunters are beginning to "perk up" a little. The rains and wind of the past two days have resulted in a moderate flight of northern ducks and geese to the Klamath feeding grounds, and last evening several hunters took fair bags on the marshes south of the city.

Most of the birds taken were drake mallards, apparently the vanguard of the army to come. The bright weather today, however, may result in another postponement of the waterfowl migration, and impatient Klamath hunters will have to wait for another storm.

All the geese that passed the past few days have gone farther south, so that there are few of these birds available to Klamath hunters now.

The dry season has resulted in a scarcity of feed this year for the ducks, and until the rains start in earnest little really first class shooting can be expected.

PEACE RUMORS GIVEN IMPETUS

CONFERENCE BETWEEN AMBASSADOR JUSSERAND OF FRANCE AND PRESIDENT WILSON IS CAUSE OF PEACE TALK

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—Peace rumors were revived here when Ambassador Jusserand of France asked and was granted a conference with President Wilson yesterday afternoon. The fact that a peace conference in Switzerland is about to begin, between representatives of four belligerents, gave impetus to the rumors.

Jusserand said that he desired personally to thank the President for interceding on behalf of two French women whom the Germans had sentenced to death in Belgium on the charge of espionage.

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—Regardless of Jusserand's announcement as to his purpose in calling on the president, officials believe that peace is likely soon. It is expected that some diplomat here will make the first move.

WILL LEE IS FAIR REPRESENTATIVE

IS APPOINTED TO SUCCEED SINNOTT, WHO RETURNS THIS WEEK—WILL GIVE SPARE TIME TO BOOTH GRATIS

Will Lee has been appointed the official Klamath county representative at the Klamath booth for the remaining month of the fair, to succeed Phil Sinnott, who returns in a few days to resume his position as city editor on the Herald. Lee, however, has other business to transact at San Francisco, and will give just what time he can spare, gratis, to the exploitation of Klamath to visitors at the Oregon building.

At the end of the fair Mr. Lee will box up the exhibits and send them back to Klamath Falls, where an exhibit building will be secured to display them. If this is impossible, Fleet will secure exhibit windows.

The success of the Klamath representative at the fair culminated by Klamath Day, and the inestimable amount of advertising this section received, is everywhere admitted. Klamath county is on the map as it never was before. Fred Fleet receives more letters of inquiry concerning this section than ever before, principally from those who have seen the Klamath booth.

Sinnott reports that hundreds of visitors at the booth have promised to return to Klamath next year to personally investigate this region, with a view of locating.

Resumes Business.

H. W. Butler, proprietor of the 23 Milling company, returned home on Tuesday evening from San Francisco, where a pleasant two weeks was given over to pleasure and business. Mr. Butler has traveled extensively, and his opinion relative to the fair is that all should see it.

AUSTRO-GERMANS AND BULGARIANS ON THREE SIDES

CAPTURE OF ARMY SEEMS INEVITABLE, IF REPORT TRUE

Bulgarian Front Curved Around Nish From Veania Through Pirof to Kajevo—Austrians Capture Antea Indicating Defeat of Montenegrins or Advance in Spite of Flank Attack—Great Coup Accomplished.

United Press Service PARIS, Nov. 3.—With the Austro-Germans and the Bulgarians closing in on three sides at Nish, there are grave fears that the main army of the Serbians has been surrounded. The Bulgarian front is curved around Nish from Veania, through Pirof to Kajevo. The Austro-German lines runs through the country to South Kragujevac into the Upper Morava Valley.

United Press Service BERLIN, Nov. 3.—It is announced that the Austrians occupied Antea, in Serbia, 87 miles southwest of Belgrade. This indicates that the Austrians either defeated the Montenegrins or are strong enough to proceed with the invasion and resist flank attacks simultaneously.

Apparently one of the great aims of the campaign of the Teutons and Bulgarians in the Balkans is accomplished—the surrounding of the Serbian army. If this is true, their capture is practically inevitable, as they are so far from the base of their supplies that they are wanting ammunition, as well as food, etc., absolutely essential for a desperate attempt to break their enemies' lines. Yesterday military experts knew that the only hope for the Serbian army was a retreatment into Albania and Montenegro to reorganize and procure more ammunition via the Adriatic. Today reports indicate that even that desperate step has been rendered impossible by the Austro-Germans.

Just what effect the capture of the Serbian main army will have on the war is, of course, impossible to predict, but certainly such an occurrence would be a great setback to the allies. They depended on Serbia to impede the Teutonic march to Constantinople. If the army is captured, the war will be open to the Teutons.

It means, moreover, according to some experts, the wiping out and the encasement of Serbia, because Germany must leave the little nation in such a state that it cannot be of any further aid to the allies.

If the army is taken the transportation of allied troops into Serbia will abruptly cease and the allies will make a desperate effort to check the Teutons in either Bulgaria or Turkey.

Back Again.

E. L. Hull just arrived last evening from an extended visit to the fair, reports having had an excellent time, and that Klamath county's booth is a creditable one.

On to Fair.

Ed and George Hoenes recently departed for the fair on a visit to the fair.
