KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1915

THE STRAHORN VISIT

THESE are history-making days in Central Oregon. Preliminary surveys have been made, and those in a position to know say a railroad connecting Portland and the different sections of Central Oregon is feasible, and they further state that they will build this road if they are accorded proper support. It is to determine the sentiment of the people of interior Oregon that a tour of this section is being made by Robert E. Strahorn and his associates.

In Bend, in Paisley, in Silver Lake and Lakeview—in fact, everywhere the party has visited, the railroad proposition has been greeted with the greatest enthusiasm, and there have been flattering offers of assistance made to the promoters of the line.

What will the people of Klamath Falls do to show their approval of the program?

That, Mr. Citizen, also Mrs. and Miss Citizen, depends upon you. If you turn out for the big banquet at the White Pelican Monday night, you will be helping a great deal, and the cost will be very little for your effective boost for the line.

Klamath county is further developed in all lines than is any other Central Oregon section. We realize the necessity for a railroad even more than do the other counties, for our farming, manufacturing and other activities have reached a stage where better railroad facilities are imperative to future development. We are all confident that the investment in a railroad connecting Klamath Falls with the rest of Oregon will be one that will yield big returns, owing to the volume of business that is assured the line from the moment it is completed. Let us, therefore, turn out on mass Monday, and show the visitors that we are certain of this.

Moreover, there is no question but what this line will be a tremendous factor in this development of Klamath Falls and Klamath county. The wonderful growth and advancement made here since the completion of the line connecting with San Francisco is evidence of what rail facilities can do, and as the new line will give our stock men the choice of two of the coast's largest markets to ship their stock to, the raising of livestock, Klamath county's most profitable enterprise, will be given a tremendous impetus.

The biggest body of white pine lumber in the United States is in this section, and as all other white pine districts are about cut off, it is but a short time until the nation will be looking to Klamath for this highly desirable finishing lumber. Since the railway was built here five years ago, the lumber business has developed until now there is a monthly payroll of $100,000, and with the demand for Klamath pine increasing, and two railroads bidding for the hauling, thereby making cheaper rates, there will be an added inducement to lumber men to open saw mills here, and the payroll will quickly grow in volume.

If the proposed railroad is worth so much to Klamath, it is worth Klamath's while to make a fight for it. The line is practically assured, providing the people of Central Oregon show the spirit of co-operation. All other parts interested have already done so. It's now up to Klamath.

The banquet will be held at 6:30 Monday evening. Let's all be there. Let's show that we're all behind the move. Let's be there so strong that we'll convince the railroad men that the road to Klamath Falls, built as soon as possible, will be a highly profitable investment, even should future investigations prove all other extensions to be other than feasible.

DO YOUR CHRISTMAS shopping early. Also do it in the stores of your home merchants.

DRY FARMERS will be in evidence all over Oregon and Washington next year.

THERE IS NO question but what Rumania is going to jump out of neutrality harness. But there is lots of speculation as to which side she will jump.

WE SEE that a man on a Pacific Isle is to get his mail, now two years old. Klamath Falls people despairing of ever having free mail delivery here can now take courage.

THERE SHOULD be "nobody home" while the Strahorn banquet is on Monday night.

BY MARGARET MASON

(Written for the United Press)

When Kate goes to skate in her costume so chic, She'll not mind a bit when some girl does a trick And cuts fancy figures to outdo the rest.

Kate knows that the figure she cuts is the best.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—No wonder the mercury drops to zero when the skating season begins—it wants to look 'round. Everybody does, when the new skating costumes burst into view and one good look deserves another.

The ice of conventionality is due to be smartly broken when some cute little ice floe cuts a dash and a figure across the pond in a green mottled silk sweater banded, collared, cuffed, and buttoned in gold; a knee length skirt of pleated green and gold stripes, a sassy little round green cap with a golden tassel and knee high laced green boots with a tassel of gold bobbing at their tops.

The skating jackets and sweaters are of the most bizarre patterns and garish hues. Fur bands them at every conceivable point as it also bands the short pleated skirts, the skating caps and the tops of the skating boots. Persian figured sweaters as well as one-toned ones of vivid hue are worn with striped skirts of pleated velour de laine; and jackets and skirts to match, of emerald green or cerise, are gorgeous when trimmed in wide bands of white fox.

All in white costume with a short jacket hung cape like and full from the shoulders is embroidered in silver thread and banded in white fox. The fur-finished full skirt has a big silver embroidered pocket on each side. The high white boots are laced with silver and have a silver tassel nestling in their fur tops. A white fox turban, silver tasseled, tops the costume; and a huge round muff of the white fox, with silver tassels, takes the wearer in hand. This costume of snow and silver is fit for the ice Queen herself and no skittish skater could ever be a frost in it.

Gorgeous bags for skates, embroidered and fur trimmed to match the gay sweaters, hectic mufflers and quaintly ornate muffs are a few of the accessories necessary for the complete skater this year. If a fair skater, thus heavily accoutred, can still skate and get away with it, she is in a class with Charlotte at the Hippodrome, that peerless prouetter of the ice ballet.

Incidentally, the introduction of the ice ballet in several of the New York musical productions seems to have given a spirit to the gentle art of skating that may freeze out the dance. But beware, if you seek to emulate Charlotte with too much excessive baggage.

"Mother, may I go out to skate?"
"Yes, but heed advice;
"If you have a muffler, bag and muff,
"Then don't go near the ice."
