Oregon's Prohibition Law, Which Is Effective Soon, Is Explained in Detail by a Portland Official

REQUIREMENTS FOR PURCHASING LIQUOR IN OREGON AFTER THE 31ST OF DECEMBER

- It must be ordered from some dealer outside the state. It must be paid for when ordered. Liquor sent C. O. D. is considered sold within this state.

PORTLAND, Dec. 9.—"It's very converted into alcohol through fermentation," said District Attorney Evans...

Then he proceeded to explain Oregon's new "dry" law. Mr. Evans, as chief prosecuting officer of Multnomah county, will have to enforce the new law here...

"In the first place," said Mr. Evans, "it isn't a prohibition law. It isn't a dry law at all."

"The new law merely prohibits the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor. It doesn't prohibit the use of it."

First, explained Mr. Evans, we must know what this article is which we are prohibiting the sale and manufacture of. The law defines:

Intoxicating liquor—All spirituous, malt, vinous or fermented liquors and all mixtures or preparations likely to be used as a beverage...

"Blind pigs," after January 1, are not likely by the very nature of the law. In the first place a way is provided for procuring liquor legitimately...

Drugstores may not carry liquor—that is, regular honest-to-goodness "booze." But they may have ethyl alcohol, which, some druggists say, is a rather inclusive term.

For the purpose of law enforcement, Evans asked a well known firm of pharmacists for an accurate definition of ethyl alcohol. It is: Starch converted into alcohol through fermentation.

But apples, corn, potatoes and numerous other such edibles contain great quantities of starch, and "apple jack" and corn whiskey might roughly be deemed as ethyl alcohol.

The law, though, puts other obstacles in the way of the mould-be law violator, even should it be stretched so that a druggist could carry corn whiskey and apple jack on his shelves.

There are stringent provisions against obtaining liquor through the prescription of an irresponsible physician. He may give a prescription only for ethyl alcohol...

Ethyl alcohol may be sold by druggists to individuals or families in no larger amounts than two quarts in two weeks. It can be furnished only for medicinal, pharmaceutical, mechanical and scientific purposes.

Express companies will have the regular common-carrier-blanks, to be filled out and signed by the person receiving liquor from outside the state.

All liquor must be delivered to the consignee in person. Nobody else may sign for him.

Liquor may not be shipped into the state C. O. D. In that case it would be considered sold within the state.

Affidavits taken by common carriers and prescriptions and affidavits in drug stores are to be kept on file. Each one must be numbered. At any time they must be accessible to any court or any officer of the law.

The county clerk must preserve the affidavits and prescriptions for two years.

Violation of the law for first offense is penalized by a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment in the county jail not more than six months. For second offense the fine may not be less than $100 nor more than $500, and imprisonment must not be less than thirty days nor more than one year.

"So, you see," said District Attorney Evans, "it isn't a complicated law, after all."
