LET'S COME OUT OF IT

WHAT'S the use of spending our whole lives sleeping in the same old rut when there are bigger ones all around us? What's the use of being in a rut at all? We want more industries, and new industries are never found in ruts. Ruts are too small for them. Let's crawl up out of our rut. There is nothing in the old rut for us, but there are opportunities in every direction if we care to reach out and grasp them. It is up to us. We can stagnate in our rut, or we can reach out and grasp something—pull ourselves out—do something—get to the top. Klamath needs new industries, and there are manufacturers all over the country looking for changes in location. But they will never erect their plants in a rut. They are full of life, and they want a live atmosphere about them. They want to locate in a community with advantages. We have them. They want to be surrounded by people of intelligence, who know how to use their brains. We have the intelligence, and our brains are capable of accomplishing vastly more than we have ever dreamed of in the past. This community is charged with intellectual and physical dynamite, but it's in a rut, and needs some one to blow it out. Let's all get busy and blow. Let's pull some of those manufacturers into Klamath on a tour of inspection, and then let's give them a fair opportunity to size up our natural advantages and our intellectual force. We won't get them all, but we will get some of them. Nobody ever swallowed a loaf of bread at one gulp. Many bites make up a square meal, and many efforts will bring new industries into our midst, with bigger payrolls and more money in circulation, and more houses to be filled and mouths to be fed. It all contributes to the prosperity of a community. Prosperity never goes out looking for a place to light. We must hook it on the fly, and our hook must be well baited or the other fellow will have the strongest pull. Again we say, let's get out of our rut and do something. Let's make a careful and systematic campaign for new industries, increased population and greater prosperity. It's waiting for us, but it won't come to us. We must go out after it. Opportunity is everywhere, but it won't crawl into our pockets uninvited. We must reach out for it, grasp it, haul it in with a united community pull. How many of our citizens would like to see new factories come to Klamath? How many are willing to join wholeheartedly in an effort to get them? Let's stand up and be counted.

then the mills in operation—then good payrolls—and then. But hold on, wait till the ice breaks before prognosticating further.

ARE YOU? Can't vote otherwise.

PERHAPS THE worst slam given Wilson as yet is Wallace McCannant's prediction that he will be known in history as the president "who was wrong on both sides of many questions, and on the wrong side of every other question."

SOME DARNED fool will be busting out with a straw hat if this spring weather keeps up much longer.

SO FAR, though, only one spring poem.

dopetown diddings

DOPETOWN, Feb. 17.—Alfred Claude Pinhead, Dopetown's Pale Pink Symphony—and Mr. Pinhead certainly is all of that, from smile to socks—created a sensation here today by filing a $25,000 breach of promise suit against Miss Agatha Elite Ambereye, a member of the younger social set, and well known for her work as a local telephone operator. Some inkling of the sensation in store was obtained for Dopetown a few days ago, when members of the gang that loafs at the drug store saw Mr. Pinhead emerge from the Ambereye home at least an hour before his accustomed time, and, pausing on the porch, angrily break his beautiful walking stick. When next day Miss Ambereye appeared on Main street wearing a bandage over her left optic, speculation was rife. Told of the suit filed against her by Mr. Pinhead, Miss A. had nothing to say. It is understood from friends in a position to know, however, that Miss A., having proposed to Alfred and been accepted, broke the engagement after he met her unexpectedly in the hall one evening and stabbed her in the eye with his mustache. Mr. Pinhead, on the other hand, insists there is nothing wrong with Miss A.'s eye but a slight sty, and that she is going back on her word to him because she doesn't think he is, to quote Mr. P., "sufficiently ribald."

The Candidates Are Out

By FRED E. FLEET

How easy 'tis to drift along with no apparent need To deplorable conditions which envelop us, and plead For attention and correction, while we carelessly drift on, Contented with the present, and with all that's past and gone. How entirely unfamiliar we allow ourselves to grow With the details of the actions of officials who are slow In the discharge of the duties, which we pay them to fulfill. What a flimsy, flimsy idea we have of this until Election time draws near and we are brought up with a jerk To face this situation by new candidates at work.

'Tis only then we plainly see how down across our eyes The wool is drawn, and tightly clamped by awful, wicked lies. And as we unsuspectingly have floated with the tide Some scandalous proceedings, and a lot of graft, beside, Have been pulled off within our midst, until now it would seem Our only chance must lie in an entirely new regime.

We see that we must pin our faith on men both tried and true, Who just exist for service, and the good that they can do. Our knowledge of biography, of those to trust and doubt Expands before election, when the candidates are out.

And though through recent years we've walked both friendless and forlorn Along life's dreary paths, and met with laugh and jibe and scorn; Whereas it's been our custom just to shrink from day to day Along the road, and wish that we were dead and laid away. We suddenly are brought to see our great mistake, and find That we misjudged our fellow men, that we are good and kind, And it develops, while we've sat and wallowed in our tears A bunch of loyal friends have yearned to clasp our hand for years. Our ideas are now of value, they can hear us when we shout, For it's getting near election, and the candidates are out.

DIGS OWN GRAVE, BUT NOW IN LOVE

VETERAN OF 89 WINTERS, TIRED OF LIFE, WAS ALL READY TO DIE, UNTIL HE ACQUIRED A SWEETHEART

Collins is 89 years old. He had a tombstone, inscribed as he had directed, with everything but the date of his death, erected. But though Collins is nearly four score and ten years old, and ready to die, he doesn't want to give up the ghost just yet. After making preparations for the last act of the long drama of his life, he turned eagerly to life and love. In fact, he has a sweetheart now. Her first name is Annette. He won't tell the rest. She is keeping the veteran interested in life by writing him interesting love letters and visiting him at the home several times a year. Collins served four years during the war in the famous Company I, 134th Pennsylvania Infantry, Army of the Potomac. Norway will build a canal, nine miles of which will be through a tunnel, to open to navigation a lake separated from the sea by a mountain range. Lapouge says the wars of a century spill 120,000,000 gallons of blood, enough to fill 3,000,000 forty-gallon casks, or to create a fountain sending a jet of 150 gallons an hour flowing unceasingly ever since the dawn of history. Since she became clerk in the probate court at Topeka, Kan., Mrs. Mary Chapin has officiated at over forty weddings and substituted "protect" for "obey" in the marriage ceremonies she performs.
