COMMUNITY OUTPOSTS

EVERY community, whether it will or not, has its outposts, those who stand ready to make or mar its reputation among outsiders, visitors and new comers. We know well enough that many a community as well as many an individual man has suffered his life long from misrepresentation and calumny that owed its origin to the ignorance or the malice of persons with a penchant for slander. It is for every community to determine for itself whether it shall be made known to the rest of the world through the mouths of its enemies or those of its friends; whether it shall permit inquirers to derive their information from those as ignorant as themselves or from those who are well informed regarding matters of moment to the community in the making up of that mass of information that shall determine its reputation before the world.

Can it be a matter of no importance to the respectable citizens of a community that strangers are told that its people are ignorant, discourteous, unappreciative, backward and inhospitable? That its schools are inefficient? That its churches are unsupported? And that its people can not be got together on any subject of interest and importance to the community welfare?

It may be ventured that there are few communities that do not suffer from misrepresentation of this sort. While people who are familiar with conditions can make due allowance for slanderous stories of this sort, the stranger may not do so; and often he leaves with an unfavorable opinion of the people and the community only because he came in contact with the community's enemies instead of its friends.

The United States, as a whole, for several decades suffered from just this sort of misrepresentation. Our citizens touring abroad and those most in the public eye at home did not properly represent the best in American life. Consequently visitors to our own land and foreigners who observed our citizens visiting abroad acquired a wholly erroneous impression of America and Americans. It has required many years to overcome even in a small degree the influence thus exerted and to regain in the eyes of the world the good name that the people and the government of the United States deserve. In fact, most foreign people today judge us largely from our own criticism of ourselves as reflected in the public press; and if we are in contempt with them, it is to a great extent because we display a contempt for their good opinion.

CHILDREN IN THE FACTORIES

GOVERNMENT reports show that some progress is being made in the war being waged against child labor in manufacturing plants, particularly in the South. While the laws are still being evaded they are not being so openly defied. This is one good sign at least.

It is a crime against nature to work little children. The Creator intended that the child should romp and play, and be in the open exercising. It never was intended that children should be dwarfed physically and mentally by being converted into machines to enrich a few wealthy manufacturers.

Men as well as women in every state should lend their efforts to secure better child labor laws, and to see that the laws are enforced literally. Greedy employers will, of course, insist they must have children to perform certain tasks, but it is inhuman to employ young boys and girls in cotton, glass and other factories, and underpay them. They are entitled to protection, and if their families are too poor to afford them that protection, then society must see that it is extended. Enroll as a member of the anti-child labor forces.

When You Wake UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach. Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before ties into the blood, causing illness. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowels pores do. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside bathing. Men wake up with a dull, aching head or have furrowed tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion; others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.—Adv.
