SNOWBOUND INDIANS ARE SEARVING—ONE BURIED ALIVE

United Press Service WINNIPEG, Man., March 8.—Eighty Indians snowbound in the extreme north of Saskatchewan, near Waterhen Lake, today face insanity and starvation. Authorities admit their inability to reach the marooned men until the coming warm weather.

Without ammunition, nets, traps, or blankets, the Indians' plight is pitiable. Digging through six to nine feet of ice to get fish is nearly impossible. Four months, a member of the tribe, went insane from lack of food and shelter. His tribesmen, knowing of nothing better to do, buried him. An educated healer in the tribe heard of this and dug up his unbalanced fellow tribesman.

"Land Defense Bill" Would Make an Army of 1,327,790 Men Ready

Measure Is Reported Favorably to House by Committee on Military Affairs

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—The bill providing the land defense part of the preparedness program was reported to the house by Chairman Hay of the military affairs committee. The report asserts that upon the passage of the measure there will be at once available 1,324,790 men trained for military service.

The bill provides for the increase of the regular army by 40,000 men and 7,439 officers, besides a number of officers for training the militia and students in military schools.

"It is of interest to know just what reserves of men and material the country can now depend on," says the report.

"It appears from the evidence given before the committee by the adjutant general of the army that under the reserve law now in operation there will be maintained a reserve of 60,000 men, that 27,020 men of the regular army are discharged each year on account of expiration of service, and that for the same reason 29,559 men are discharged from the National Guard.

"It thus appears that in addition to the army reserve, there are now in the country 270,200 men who have passed through the army in the last ten years, and 395,500 men who have passed through the National Guard during the same length of time.

"In addition to this, there are 33-

000 young men who were last year passed through the military schools and colleges of the country, and there are 330,000 of these young men who in the last ten years have had military training. It is true that some of these have died, but in a general way it may be said that there are now in the country 995,790 men of military ages who have had military training.

"It is further proposed in this bill to create a reserve corps for the National Guard, and it is safe to say that there will be maintained for that force a reserve of 100,000 men."

"This bill provides for: "In time of peace, 140,000. "Reserve of regular army, 60,000. "National Guard, 129,000. "Men trained and in the country, 995,790.

"Total, 1,324,790 men, who will be at once available upon the passage of this bill."

The committee will also call attention to the amount of reserve material which is available for immediate use should any trouble arise. The following figures are taken from the hearings of the bureau chiefs in the war department, under whose immediate control these supplies are:

"General Crozier, chief of ordnance, states that we have on hand nearly enough equipment for an army of between 400,000 and 500,000 men. He also stated that there were on hand 700,000 service rifles of the new model and between 300,000 and 400,000 small arms ammunition, or 300 rounds per man. There are also built, or under construction, 1,077 machine guns, 300 field artillery guns. We had on hand 750,000 rounds of field artillery ammunition.

"General Alshire, the quartermaster general of the army, states that there is on hand now equipment enough to supply the regular army, the National Guard and 250,000 men in addition, and that in ninety days there could easily be provided equipment for from 600,000 to 700,000 men, with sufficient deliveries to maintain those who are now or may be equipped.

"General Kingman, chief of the engineer corps of the army, states that we have on hand heavy trenching tools for nine infantry divisions, and that these tools can be supplied in fifteen days. He also states that we have in reserve pontoon equipment for 500,000 men.

"General Gorgas, the surgeon-general of the army, states that we have in store supplies for about 250,000 or 300,000 men in addition to what we have for the regular army. We have those supplies already packed and ready for use."
