TEACHERS' COTTAGES

TEACHERS' cottages, erected by the community in or near the school house, and used not only as the teachers' residences, but also as the community center, are advocated in a bulletin prepared by R. S. Kellogg, and distributed by the department of education to county superintendents and other officers in charge of rural schools. The bulletin describes the movement for teachers' residences in rural districts, and gives plans for cottages of various sizes and types.

Lack of suitable boarding accommodations is one of the most serious difficulties in the way of securing suitable teachers for country schools, the bulletin declares. There are more than 200,000 rural school districts in the United States, and over 16,000,000 children of school age who live in the country or in towns of less than 2,500 population, yet it is impossible, because of the living conditions, to get teachers of the highest type to remain in the country.

Mr. Kellogg says: "Many farm houses have no accommodations whatever for a teacher, and often kitchen, living room and dining room are combined in one, with no heat in any other room in the house. The farmer and his family have to spend most of their time working indoors or out, eating and sleeping. Their occupations and hours of labor in no way correspond to those of the teacher, which increases the difficulty of fitting the teacher's necessary habits to those of the farmer with any satisfaction to either. A good teacher must spend a considerable amount of time almost every evening upon school work, for which a quiet, comfortable room is essential. If she insists upon such a room when she goes to board in the country she is likely to be considered 'stuck up' and exclusive. If she gets a room by herself it is often unheated and too uncomfortable for study in cold weather.

"On the other hand, if the teacher is forced to spend her entire time in the living room with the rest of the family, she has no opportunity to prepare properly for her school duties, and is also very likely to be drawn unavoidably into neighborhood gossip and factional disputes to the detriment of her teaching influence. Many of the better situated families in the country districts who have the facilities, do not care to take a steady boarder, so that if a teacher gets a place to board at all she may be forced to go to farm houses where only the barest accommodations can be secured."

NOTICE that the Panama canal will be opened by government engineers March 15th is looked on as a singular coincidence by officials of the Panama California International exposition. Opening date for this big exposition's great reproduction of this marvelous engineering feat was set for the same day several weeks ago, so that the real canal and the realistic mimic canal will open to ships and the public at practically the same hour.

FROM ALL accounts, Irwin's arguments last night at Mt. Laki had just about as much effect upon the audience as they usually do upon the juries. But it must at least be admitted that Irwin has never sent an innocent man to the penitentiary.

Eleven Hour Naval Battle Disastrous for Austria

By HENRY WOOD

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ROME, March 16.—An eleven hour naval battle off the Albanian port of Durazzo preceded the sinking of the Austrian destroyer Like and Triglay. It was learned today. The ministry of marine recently announced the sinking of the enemy war craft. A letter from Franz Lugano, an Austrian sailor of Italian origin, from the Austrian prisoners' camp to relatives in Italy, brought details of the action.

"Coming out of our naval base to bombard Durazzo, our fleet encountered the Italians," Lugano wrote. "We had notable successes, but lost two destroyers, thanks to Italian bombs. Destroying marked out my own boat, the Like, for one of the victims. The battle occurred just off Durazzo. The first shot was fired at 7 a. m. and the fighting lasted until 6 in the evening. Shrapnel was bursting all over our deck and I don't know how many men I saw die. The dying were calling for help, but there was nothing we could do. In the midst of all this, the Like was struck. Her boilers and munition magazines exploded and she leaped into the air, breaking in two.

"Of 110 men in the Like, only fifty were saved. Ten of us were picked up by Italian life boats. I had been floating on some debris for two hours. The others were hauled aboard the destroyers with ropes."

THE APRIL WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION

In addition to a large amount of good fiction the April Woman's Home Companion has a number of interesting special articles. "Give the Girl a Chance" by Ida Tarbell discusses the failure of our educational system in regard to young women and urges the necessity of training girls for married life.

"Isle at Home" by Johanna Gadski, the famous opera star, gives an intimate account of the life of a great prima donna when off the stage. "The Market Value of a Wife" by a married man, "Our Adopted Baby" with illustrations from the painting by William Cotton, "A Sermon to Grandparents" by the Rev. Dr. C. E. Jefferson of the Broadway Tabernacle, and "A Bouquet Garden" by Grace Tabor furnish material of interest in many widely separate fields.

The fiction includes another interesting detective story by William J. Burns, "The Blue Envelope" by Sophie Kerr, "The Rising Tide" by Margaret Deland, "Chloe Malone" by Fannie Heaslip Lea, "Thirty-three
