PROMINENT FOLK WILL SEE FIGHT SATURDAY NIGHT

MORAN FACES THE CHANCE OF LIFETIME

Politicians of National Repute and Movie Stars of World Fame Will See the Man That Johnson Whipped Try to Beat the Man That Whipped Johnson in the Most Famous Bout of the Century Tomorrow Night

United Press Service
NEW YORK, March 24.—It was learned today that many prominent men and women plan to see the boxing match between Willard and Moran here tomorrow night. Among those who expect to see this important match are mentioned Geraldine Farrar, Mary Pickford, ex-Secretary Garrison and Mayor Mitchell.

By THE SPORT SEER
(Written for the United Press)
NEW YORK, March 24.—Frank Moran, the red-haired, bull-necked challenger of Jess Willard, is ready for the fight of his life.

In every fibre of his being the Pittsburgh heavyweight today felt confident of beating Willard tomorrow night before a mammoth crowd in Madison Square Garden, and sending his name down in pugilistic history as one of the greatest fighters the game ever knew.

On the big fight depends Moran's status in the annals of the game. If he sprays Willard's six feet six inches of length on the canvas tomorrow night it is a safe bet that the daddy of the future will take little Willie on his knee and point out the moral of "the bigger they are the harder they fall," with Frank Moran playing the stellar role in the narrative.

If Willard drops Moran, then Frank's name won't amount to much more than an incidental entry in the game of pugilism.

Moran is trained to the minute, hard as a stony-hearted village squire and beaming with health and strength. He has had everything on the training program from hard outdoor exercise with the chest weights and long sessions of sparring with his training mates. Moran is ready.

Moran and his manager, Ike Dorgan, present an old combination in the fight game. They are friends inseparable and what Ike says goes with Moran for the good of the combination.

Ike Dorgan never intended to manage a fighter, but when Moran came drifting back from Paris after handing Jack Johnson that tough twenty-round fight they just naturally drifted together. They never had a written contract and neither of them wants one.

"It's just like gettin' married," drolled Ike. "Some people want to split up just because they're tired. Frank and I don't need a contract. We're the best friends in the world; he's for me and I'm for him. Either of us would be hurt a whole lot more by losing the other's friendship than by loss of the money we might help each other make."

Dorgan worked at Jimmy Coffroth's club in San Francisco on all Coffroth's championship matches and became well acquainted with the fight game. He liked it but thought he would like New York, too, so he came East and went into the newspaper business.

"A couple of months before the Johnson fight Moran was in New York and asked me to handle him in a six-weeks' vaudeville tour," said Dorgan.

"We became firm friends in that little jaunt and Frank went over the pond and tossed gloves at Johnson for twenty of the toughest rounds ever fought in Paris. Frank gave Johnson quite a musing up and if the fight had gone further the impending unpleasantness with Jess Willard would not have been necessary. "Well, when he came back we just drifted together and I've been Frank's manager ever since." Dorgan is a man of medium height; so is Tom Jones, manager of Jess Willard and associate enterprises, patents applied for and copyrights pending, keep off the grass and drop two bits in the hat as you go in. But right there the resemblance ends.

He is known for his liberality. Comments on Jones in this regard were indeed superfluous; but they do say Sir Thomas dropped a thin dime down a crack in a sidewalk in his home town of Kewanee thirty years ago and still keeps in touch with the board of selectmen to learn when they're going to rip up that walk.

Dorgan's ability to analyze a fighter's qualities and sight a star, dim as yet, in the pugilistic offing, is well known in New York and San Francisco. So long ago as 1914 he cast his eye on Benny Leonard, the sensational lightweight, who is regarded as a contender for Freddie Welch's crown, and gumshoed around trying to sign him.

Dorgan found Benny surrounded by a flock of relatives. Two things struck him at the same time: first and strongest, the fragrance of the onion's cousin; second, the conclusion that Benny Leonard's management was going to be a family affair. Dorgan backed off and has watched the almost entire fulfillment of his expectations in Benny Leonard.

Moran has prospected under Dorgan's management. He received $8,900 for his first fight with Jim Coffey in which he flattened the man from Cork in three rounds; for the second bout he received $9,984, which was $1,984 more than the garden people were willing to offer at first.

For fighting Willard, Moran is to get $23,750, just $8,750 more than the first offer for his services in tomorrow's bout.

There are many well advertised kidney remedies on the market today, but none so well recommended in this vicinity as Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the statement of a resident of Jacksonville.

Extra Arnold, Applegate road, Jacksonville, Ore., says: "My back bothered me for five or six months. I had a dull pain through my kidneys and the kidney action became very irregular. I had to get up at night on that account. Doan's Kidney Pills soon rid me of all the ailments, and my kidneys have bothered me very little since."

THE INDIAN CAYUSE DESCENDED FROM ROYAL ARABIAN HORSES

United Press Service
PENDLETON, Ore., March 24.—The Indian cayuse, that scrawny, shaggy paint pony of western melodrama, has real Arabian blood in his veins, said Mrs. Eva Emory Dye, Oregon historian, today. The cayuse, she said, is descended directly from Arabian horses introduced among the Pacific Coast Indians by Spaniards two centuries ago. Mrs. Dye has learned that a real Arabian horse has one less vertebrae in his spine and two less in his tail than the ordinary plug. So has the cayuse, sometimes. Mrs. Dye hopes to prove it is the rule rather than the exception for cayuses to be "foreshortened" in this manner.

IOWA CURES AND EDUCATES CRIPPLED CHILDREN FREE

United Press Service
IOWA CITY, Ia., March 24.—Under Iowa's new law to give free treatment to crippled children, 147 little ones are being treated at the state university. The law is five months old. At present there are seventy children in the ward. Over sixty-five per cent of the cases are the result of the infant paralysis epidemic of five years ago. The little patients come to the hospital in various conditions. Some have lost only the use of their legs. A complete school system of eight grades has been established with nurses as teachers to educate the little ones as they improve in health.

"TIZ" FOR TIRED AND SORE FEET

USE "TIZ" FOR PUFFED-UP, BURNING, ACHING, CALLOUSED FEET AND CORNS

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet—feet so tired, chafed, sore and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" from the drug store now and gladden your tortured feet?

"Tiz" makes your feet glow with comfort; takes down swellings and draws the soreness and misery right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn. "Tiz" instantly stops pain in corns, callouses and bunions. "Tiz" is glorious for tired, aching, sore feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot torture.—Adv.
