told him she handed Lawrence a gun during the shooting.

The state then sought to bring in testimony from Durham regarding his standing in the same position as indicated by Mrs. Hunter as where she stood inside the house, sighting out the bullet hole in the window on a line with Mrs. Kuehne was found, and also of standing at the spot where Mrs. Kuehne was when killed, and looking at the window to see if he could see a person inside.

This was overruled on the ground that the conditions when Durham made his observations had not been proven the same as when the shooting occurred.

Don J. Zumwalt testified to measuring the height of the point at which the bullet entered Mrs. Kuehne, and where it left the body. He said the bullet ranged downward five and a half inches in passing through her body, a distance of ten and a half inches. He stated that the bullet hole in the screen was eight feet nine inches from the ground, and that the spot where Mrs. Kuehne fell was 109 feet from the house.

The last witness called by the state was Dr. Patterson. He stated that the bullet piercing Mrs. Kuehne's body, in addition to perforating the intestines, partly severed the sciatic nerve, and passed through the large muscles of the hip. The injury to the sciatic nerve, he stated, would cause a paralysis of the lower limbs, making it impossible for the woman to take any steps. This testimony is to refute the testimony of the defense to the effect that Mrs. Kuehne took two steps backward before she fell.

The state rested its rebuttal at 11:10. There was some little talk then regarding the length of the time each side would consume in arguments and similar matters before adjournment was taken until this afternoon.

Moving Pictures

Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven have been converted to photoplaying. After many years of popularity upon the musical comedy and vaudeville stage, they have quit the footlights for good and all. Bluebird photoplays have made the important capture and will present them in "The Wrong Door" at the Orpheus theater on Sunday and Monday with Mr. De Haven playing the role of a millionaire detective and Flora Parker De Haven appearing as a musical comedy star who has won the heart, but disdains the hand of the super-rich hero of the occasion. Just how long the actress held out against the pleadings of the man and his millions is better left to the photoplay itself.

The long-heralded and much-talked-of photoplay version of America's greatest Western play, "The Great Divide," has been completed by the Lubin company, and with Ethel Clayton, the popular Lubin player, and House Peters in the leading roles will be shown to patrons of the Star tonight only.

Edgar Lewis, the new Lubin director, whose productions of photoplays with William Faraam as the star earned for him a reputation as probably the greatest producer of motion pictures now actively engaged in that work of art, is the director of "The Great Divide," while Anthony P. Kelly, the author of the photoplay sensation "The Soul of a Woman," is responsible for the scenario adaptation of Wm. Vaughan Moody's writing.

A DEAD TALKING MACHINE is one that is not used simply because no new records are purchased to retain the interest.

You would not care to hear the finest musician in the world continuously if there was no variation in the program nor would the best newspaper in the world be read if the same news was published every day.

You have money invested in your talking machine, so why not make this investment good by adding some new records? Hear your favorite records or the latest song hits now at SHEPHERD PIANO DEPOT Next Door to Postoffice 22-4f
