WHY BLAME GREEN?

SECRETARY of the Treasury McAdoo says he has received a telegram from a democratic politician in Massachusetts named Green, asking for a position in the customs service for his brother, and closing with the remark: "My conduct as delegate to the national convention will be governed by treatment accorded him. Mr. McAdoo avers that he replied to this in a reproving letter, which practically accused Green of attempted bribery.

At first blush the reader is inclined to jump at the conclusion that Green was caught red-handed in an effort to corrupt a virtuous administration, but, on second thought, it must occur to every fair-minded observer of public affairs that Green was the man who was tempted. He showed poor judgment in sending a telegram instead of traveling down to Washington to have a personal conversation, but that is a mere technical flaw in his procedure, which should not have been taken advantage of by an administration with a record such as that written by the Wilson regime.

If Mr. McAdoo had read over the long list of men who made contributions of money or service to the Wilson campaign before or after the convention, and had compared that list with the list of appointees under this administration, he would certainly have seen most clearly how Green got his idea of the proper method of securing a job for his brother. If effective influence in getting Wilson nominated and elected in 1912 was sufficient basis for an appointment, why shouldn't it be in 1916? It is true that Mr. Green expects to have only one vote in the St. Louis convention, but he did not ask much in the way of patronage in return for it.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—THERE is no federal institution in the United States for the reception and care of lepers? Malaria is spread by a special mosquito? House screening is a good disease preventive? Fingers, flies and food spread typhoid fever? Pellagra may be prevented or cured by proper diet? The United States public health service believes that the common towel spreads trachoma, a disease of the eye? Children from sanitary homes advance more rapidly in school than those from dirty premises?

Willard Retains His Title by Winning on Points from Moran

NEW YORK, March 27.—Jess Willard is still the heavyweight pugilistic champion of the world. In ten rounds of fast fighting he defeated Frank Moran of Pittsburg here Saturday nights on points.

A crowd of about 13,000 people paid approximately $150,000 to see the fight, and went away apparently satisfied with the result. It was the greatest gathering Madison Square Garden had ever seen. Many women were in the throng.

Willard broke his right hand in the third round, but blows from his fighting left kept Moran at a distance. Moran's best round was the third and his worst probably was the seventh. He was bleeding after the fifth round and his left eye was almost closed at the end.

Moran put up a game fight. Most of the time he crouched and forced the fighting. Willard seemed slower on his feet than the challenger, and appeared to have an unlimited capacity to take punishment. Moran scowled as he fought, but Willard smiled.

The fight, by rounds, follows:

(From Saturday Night's Extra)

Round One

Round Two

Willard jabbed to head, clinched. Moran smashed Willard's ear. Willard rushed Moran furiously. Moran ducked and clinched. Willard shot terrific jab to jaw and drove Moran to the ropes. Moran landed twice on Willard's head. Moran shot left to body and right to jaw. Willard grinned. Round ended in half clinch. Moran's round.

Round Three

Round Four

Willard shot terrific right to body, followed with two hits to head and backed Moran to ropes with another right to head. Moran swung right to Willard's jaw, both exchanged jabs. First blood for Willard. Moran rushed twice and landed left to the head, they clinched. Willard landed two upper cuts. Moran shot hard left to stomach. Willard opened gash above Moran's eye and blood streamed forth. Willard's round.

Round Five

Round Six

Willard upper cut, but failed to hurt Moran; smiled, resumed. Moran rushes Willard and missed an upper cut. Landed left to body and another to bruised eye. Moran sent left to body, missed swing to head. Willard gets newspaper decision

Round Seven

Willard opened with rush, they clinched. They walloped one another. Jess landed fifteen times upper cut, staggered Moran. Willard cut Moran's eye more with right smash. Moran began rooting lefts and rights to body and rushing with head down. Moran hung on. Willard bombards head, swinging lefts and rights. Moran came to life and rushed—he sent hard left to head and right to head and two to body. Willard backed to ropes. Moran smashed body twice and head thrice. Willard's round.

Round Eight

Round Nine

Round Ten

Willard landed on face and body. Moran unable to land. Jess sent left to body. Moran rushed and banged three punches in half clinch. Jess landed left to stomach, then landed two upper cuts. Moran got two to body. Willard landed a short upper cut. Moran landed on body. Moran sent right smash to jaw. Willard's round.
