COFFEE FOR TWO.

As yet it's a table just for two, A plate for me and a plate for two— My wife and I. While as her heart is the cloth between, Bright as her eyes the silver's sheen; And I gaze and try To understand and to calculate Why I have won so much from Fate, As she who gazes with eyes of blue Across the table set for two. Fragrance of flowers in her breast, Whiff from the men; now, which is best? I surely know! Sweet in the scent of the double rose, But oh, that sniff from the man's bright nose Is smelly so. And smiles seem sweeter and lips more sweet When seen through the shimmer of fragrant hair. From CHAS. & SANDERSON'S perfect brew Above our table set for two.

KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1916

WANTED: A NEW DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

THE FOLLOWING by Charles F. Warde, in "Warde's Words," contains a lesson that is of as much importance to such a community as Klamath Falls as to the whole country. It's good straight dope, well worth reading, preserving, and reading over again later on.

I have just been reading a book on Art. It was printed in France. I reached out for a sheet of drawing paper. It was made in England. I fastened it down on the board with thumb tacks made in Germany. I picked up a pencil that advertised its British graphite and the fact that it was made in Austria. Then I rose up on my hind legs and said out loud, "What the devil's the matter with this country?"

Why this inveterate slavery to the commercial tyranny of the other side of the world?

Why haul thumb-tacks four thousand miles to Pittsburg when one of our steel mills wastes enough good metal in a day to make thumb tacks for the whole solar system for ten years?

Why favor our cake with coal tar vanilla and perfume our handkerchiefs with coal tar odors, and print our books with coal tar colors, all made in Germany, when every morning there's enough coal tar let loose in Pittsburg to supply a thousand different needs for synthetic chemicals for six months?

Every year at the first frost somebody comes around to collect money for the unemployed. And we donate the money that keeps the unemployed further unemployed, instead of finding the employment that would give us products that we buy in Europe.

When I was a kid I discovered that the price of a sled ride was pulling the sled up hill. No pull, no ride. Something put this country pretty near the top of the hill at the beginning, and it has been sled-riding ever since. Life is too easy. It is so easy that we have gone blind to the future. An accident four thousand miles away has just made us rub our eyes to our myopia. It's time to wake up. The alarm clock is ringing, ringing, and the only way to shut it off is to get up and get busy.

It's time to pull the sled up hill again. The reason why I buy English water colors and Italian hand-made paper is because nobody will make them for me over here. It isn't because they can't be made here, but just because we won't make them.

I'm fair. When it comes to such things as tin and manganese I admit we have to go to Wales and Russia for them, and even to Austria-Hungary for magnesite. If our foreign trade were limited to the exchange of what we have that somebody else wanted and couldn't get at home, for what we wanted and couldn't get here, it would be all right. My only kick is against sending half way 'round the world for the things that ought to be made in our own back yards.

A hundred and thirty-nine and a half years ago we made a Declaration of Independence from England. Fifty years ago we had a little home made quarrel that resulted in the Emancipation Proclamation, and washed our skirts of slavery. Today we call this a free country, but it isn't. We are loaded down with money, yet there are things we need that money can't buy. We need commercial freedom. We need a double-barreled combination of the declaration of independence and the emancipation proclamation to set us free as far as possible from all other nations of the world. It must be home-made, and now is the time to make it.

The growth of a nation, a state, a city, or an individual is determined by its independence. As long as I can get clothes of the right kind at the right price in Pittsburg, there's no reason why I should want to buy them elsewhere. To keep good tailors here it's my duty to patronize them. If there were a paper mill here I should buy its product, provided it was good stuff at the right price. It would simply be a question of quality.

If we can't make as good things in this city or in this country as are made in other cities or countries, we ought to be ashamed of ourselves.

INDIANS IN THE United States number 320,000, we are told. And men who will stoop to sell them liquor number at least that many.

THAT GARRISON at Kut-el Amara will get tired of waiting for a relief party some of these days, and just fight its way out.

KLAMATH FALLS needs a children's playground and a city park. Something should be done this year.

-this is what Studebaker COMFORT means! Just look at that illustration a second time. Look at the roominess of this new Studebaker SERIES 17 FOUR—the individualized COMFORT that's built into the car for every one of the SEVEN passengers it carries. Not a detail has been overlooked that will make the car easier-riding. The front seats, for example, are divided—and they are also adjustable—that is, they can be moved fore or aft to fit the passenger's wishes. In the tonneau, roominess is especially evident—lots of room for five full-grown people. The rear seat is wide and deep and luxuriously upholstered with the finest straight-grain semi-glassed leather. And everywhere roominess, convenience and a host of COMFORTS have been built into the car. This new Studebaker is the most powerful 4-cylinder car on the market within hundreds of dollars of its price—the biggest car that any such price as $875 ever bought—but on COMFORT alone it stands as the GREAT value of the year.
