

Lubin Marketing Plan Is Pronounced Big Success

United Press Service
 SACRAMENTO, May 17.—The attention of congress may soon be attracted to the success of the direct marketing experiment by the Sacramento county growers.

This experiment is under the David Lubin plan of selling farm products direct from country producer to city consumer via parcel post.

Lubin, a man of international reputation through his work as United States delegate to the Agricultural Institute at Rome, framed a bill for action in congress by which direct marketing through parcel post would be more attractive to the farmer.

At first it was difficult to get congress to consider the Lubin plan. So he set to show the senate and the house how his scheme directly benefits the pocketbooks of both consumer and producer.

Lubin's principal business enterprise is in Sacramento, and it is here that the plan is being tried out. The Sacramento county growers, headed by Joseph Holmes, master of the California State Grange, assumed the burden of the experiment.

After the first eight days of operation, Holmes said: "There is no question in my mind about the feasibility of the plan. It presents unbounded possibilities and would be a great success."

A better indication, even, than Holmes' statement, as to the possibility of the plan, is shown by the fact that some of the California retailers complained before the experiment was four days old. The retailers were being out. The retailer admitted that the plan aimed directly at their business. At the same time the farmers were getting as much money for their products as the retailers would pay them.

The experiment has not, as yet, reached a point where a report could be made to congress, but as far as it has gone, it has surpassed expectations. During the experiment the parcel post is not used. Instead, the garage sends an automobile around to gather up and distribute the products. To meet this expense and other expenses of operations tags are sold to farmers at a rate that would equal parcel post charges as set forth in Lubin's bill, these rates to be special for farmers. Holmes says he has no doubt that the sale of tags will meet the expense when the experiment gets well under way. The city housewife, under the plan, buys a book of coupons from the garage for $2.96.

Here's how it works:
 The farmer mails or sends in tags on which he designates the products he has for sale and the prices he holds them at. The city housewife mails, phones or brings in her order to the central office, paying with coupons. The orders are distributed among the farmers and next day the automobile delivers the products. The farmer receives cash to the amount of the coupons.

Of course, much depends upon the farmer. If one farmer offers eggs at 22 cents a dozen and another at 24 cents, the former will sell his before the latter. However, as far as the experiment has gone, the farmers' prices have been quite uniform, and in all events not more than the retailers' prices.

At the same time, farmers get more for their products than the retailer would pay. For instance, the retailer on this day was paying the farmer 24 cents a pound for butter. The farmer could sell it under the Lubin plan for about 6 cents a pound more, and still cut the retail price to consumers by two or three cents. The 6 cents difference would more than pay the cost of postage. And when the cost of bringing in products to the retailer is taken into consideration, the postage under the Lubin plan is a comparatively small matter.

On the second day of the experiment four farmers had signed up. On the eighth day 26 were on the Grangers' roll. On the eighth day there were 30 "regular" city customers, and one automobile was not enough to take care of the business.

Is It Rheumatism?

Aren't You Really on the Wrong Track?

A good share of so-called rheumatism is caused by weak kidneys. When the kidneys fail to clear the blood of uric acid, the acid irritates the delicate nerves. Torturing pains dart through the affected part whenever it is moved. By strengthening the kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills have proven their worth in thousands of so-called rheumatic cases, lumbago, sciatica, gravel and urinary disorders. Doan's are well known in Klamath Falls and warmly recommended by Klamath Falls people. Read this Klamath Falls case:

H. S. Wilson, carpenter, Fourth and Pine streets, Klamath Falls, says: "Several years ago I had rheumatic pains. Hearing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended so highly, I gave them a good trial. I took five boxes in succession, and they permanently overcame that trouble. Since then, I have never had any symptoms of rheumatism or kidney disorders."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Wilson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Order to Show Cause on Application of Guardian, for License to Sell Real Property.

In the County Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Klamath. In the Matter of the Estate and Guardianship of Lawrence Fred Sanderson and Dorothy Gertrude Sanderson, Minors.

It appearing to this court from the petition this day presented and filed by Cora A. Sanderson, guardian of the persons and estates of Lawrence Fred Sanderson and Dorothy Gertrude Sanderson, minors, praying for license to sell, at private sale, subject to the dower interest of said guardian, an undivided one-third interest of each of said minors in and to the following described property, to-wit:

The E 1/4 of the NW 1/4 and the N 1/4 of the SW 1/4, being the E 1/2 of the NW 1/4, the NE 1/4 of SW 1/4, and lot 3, section 31, township 32 south, range 14 west of Willamette Meridian, in Curry county, Oregon, containing 163.7 acres.

That said real estate be sold at private sale, and that it is necessary and for the best interests of the estate of said minors that said property be sold.

It is therefore ordered that the next of kin of said minors, and all persons interested in said estate, appear before this court on the 12th day of June, 1916, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., of said day, at the court room of this court, at Klamath Falls, county of Klamath, state of Oregon, then and there to show cause why an order should not be granted for the sale of said interests in said real property.

It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for three successive weeks, before the said day of hearing, in the Evening Herald, a daily newspaper of general circulation, printed and published at Klamath Falls, Klamath county, Oregon.

Dated this 8th day of May, 1916.

pine and vast stock ranges. Long impatient over this situation, which existing lines approaching that territory do not feel justified in relieving under present unfavorable conditions, these large Oregon interests seem willing to go to the limit in backing the project. They expect their lines to prove great factors in development of the important though now largely dormant resources mentioned in Central and Southern Oregon, thus creating extensive new traffic for the five old lines above mentioned. But of probably greater importance is that by connecting up all the terminals or stub ends of these five lines, they expect to create a very important interchange of business with and between them.

"Fortunately the high plateau country lends itself to easy construction. There are no large streams, difficult passes or other unusual problems. Climatic and other conditions make for light maintenance and operating changes. Preliminary surveys indicate that such a cheap pioneering system can be built for about $15,000 per mile, or $6,900,000 for the entire mileage. Ownership and operations are to be entirely independent to facilitate the greatest economics in operation and the maintenance of liberal local rates. The projectors of the Oregon, California and Eastern are anticipating much more than merely local traffic. All the old connecting lines will be changed into much shorter through routes. It is pointed out that the many miles of expensive haul by present roundabout routes, some on very heavy grades, is now not only of questionable value to existing roads, but is an almost prohibitive tax upon development of the country.

"The surveys of these lines have been almost completed under the direction of N. H. Bogue, who has had charge of some of the most difficult engineering of other Strahorn roads in the Northwest for the past ten years. Right of way and terminal work is also far advanced. It is expected that these details will be completed by mid-summer of this year, and that some construction may be accomplished before next winter. Headquarters of the company are at Portland, Ore., where communications may be addressed to Robert E. Strahorn, president."

Jas. M. Kyle of Umatilla county, candidate for the republican nomination for Public Service Commissioner from the Eastern Oregon district, is away in the lead in the present surface indications. It is confidently asserted by his friends that he will get as many votes in the counties south of the Blue Mountains as any one of the other five candidates, and west of Umatilla county he will run far ahead of any other man on the ticket, while in Umatilla county he will poll as big a percentage of the republican vote as did Judge

Bean when he ran for the Supreme Court.

This is an important office, and it will be a great advantage to Eastern Oregon to have a man as well qualified and capable as Mr. Kyle on the board.

Mr. Kyle has been a big shipper for the last twenty-five years in Oregon, and thoroughly understands the needs and requirements of both the shipper and the producer. He is a level-headed business man, and will fill this important position with honor to himself and satisfaction to the people. No better man than Mr. Kyle could possibly be selected.—Adv. 18-6t
