

Advocates of national prohibition took some satisfaction in pointing out that it is possible to conduct pre-convention negotiations without the aid of large quantities of booze.

THE G. O. P. CONVENTION

THE EYES of the nation are centered upon Chicago, where today there convened the two divisions of what until four years ago was the unit of the republican party, but which has been badly split up since then on account of that fatal bolt of one Theodore Roosevelt and his followers, as a result of the nomination of one William Howard Taft as the republican candidate for president. A reunion of the republicans is almost a certainty, for the woeful condition of the country brought about as a result of the split and the resultant democratic victory, has brought home to even the bolters the necessity of a stand to restore conditions to normal.

Note we say "almost certain" in referring to the possibility of a reunion. This word "almost" is used for a reason, the reason in this case being the reason for the formation of the progressive party in 1912—Theodore Roosevelt.

Roosevelt's whirlwind campaigning proves that he would like the presidency. The attitude of the progressives, upon the eve of the reunion with the republican party, is that if Roosevelt is not nominated they will again put a third party in the field, and seek again to disrupt the Grand Old Party. This is hardly the attitude Biblical authority ascribes to the Prodigal Son, and it is hardly likely to gain its point, for the determination of these bullmoosers to return and either "rule or ruin" the party they deserted in a huff four years ago, finds scant commendation over the nation.

The people want Charles E. Hughes as president. They have endorsed his candidacy without waiting for him to announce himself as a candidate, and they will elect him by a big majority if he is nominated. The old line politicians have tried in vain to divert this flood of popularity, but to no avail, so they are beginning to acquiesce to the will of the people, and consequently, every day's news from Chicago has been showing the Hughes sentiment increasing among the delegates.

Roosevelt and his followers may bolt the party again, but this will make little difference. The voters want Hughes, the man demanded by the people, not the politicians, and they will elect him, too, no matter into how many pieces the republican party is rent.

FORTY MILLIONS WASTED

THE pork-laden rivers and harbors bill has passed the house. Republican senators made a futile effort, through the use of a filibuster, to eliminate some of the more notorious of its "pork" provisions. It is rarely that out of the degenerate depths to which democratic statecraft has fallen a voice of protest is heard from within the party. Such a worthy exception to the general rule should not pass uncommemorated. Senator Tillman of South Carolina has this to say on the rivers and harbors bill, which, unless the republican filibuster succeeds, will soon add $40,000,000 more to the debts incurred by the Wilson administration:

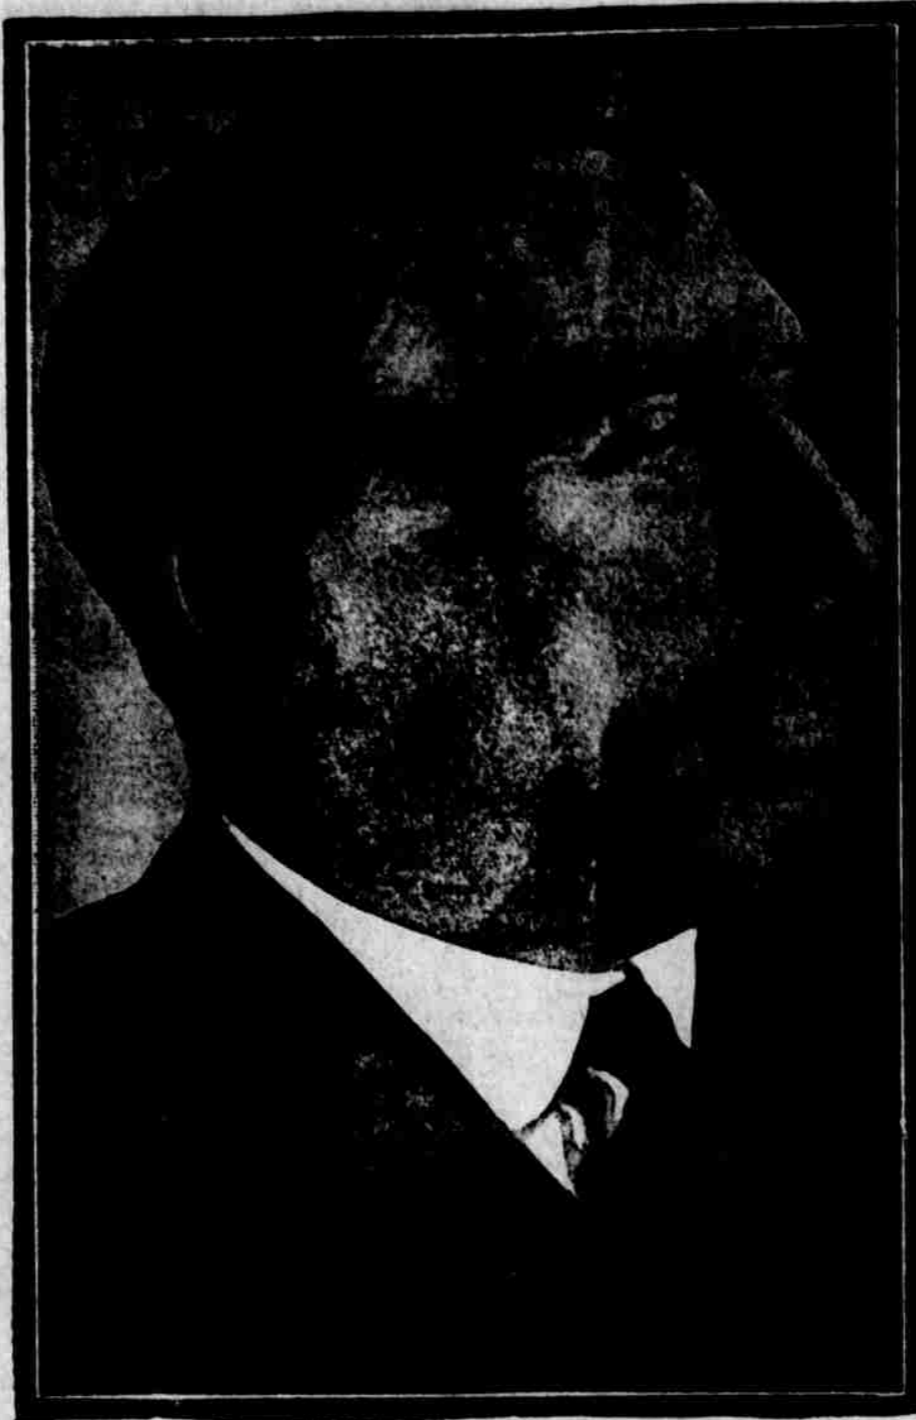

"We need the money so much for more important things that it is criminal, to my mind, to hesitate for one moment or discuss this bill at all. Think of it. Forty millions dollars to be wasted and taxes to be heavily increased. That forty millions would buy two battle-cruisers. I believe the nation needs more, a thousand-fold more, two modern up-to-date battle-cruisers than it does or can possibly need, or be benefited by, this forty millions for rivers and harbors. If this bill does pass, I pray God the president will veto it."

Within the next few weeks, Woodrow Wilson will have ample opportunity to demonstrate the sincerity of his high professions of lofty statesmanship. President Wilson can use the veto on the notorious "pork" of the rivers and harbors bill as well as that of the Hay military bill. But Woodrow Wilson is essentially an aspiring politician; for that reason the country should not expect too much.

Teddy Will Support General Wood, Gotham Report

MAJOR GENERAL LEONARD E. WOOD

United Press Service
NEW YORK, June 7.—The talk of Major General Leonard E. Wood as a republican candidate for president has reached the ears of Roosevelt, and to him it sounds good. This information is brought by two recent visitors at Oyster Bay.

According to these men, Roosevelt has voiced his intention of supporting General Wood for the republican nomination if his name is seriously considered by the convention delegates.

of the new summer duds, with shortened skirts, and they don't give a rap which way the wind blows.

FLEETS MAY COME, and fleets may sink, but at Verdun blood flows on forever.

CONSIDERING THE performances of the past three years, it's not difficult to understand why the symbol of the democratic party is the jackass.

DO YOU NOTICE the number of tourists' automobiles in Klamath Falls these days?

DID SOMEONE ASK: "Who in Hades Hilles?"

Chauncey M. Depew, the original after dinner mint of pointed paragraphs, is at the convention with a new spring suit and all his glory. Depew is 53, and undoubtedly has been an invited guest at more dinner parties than any other American, yet he never went to a single one of them without taking his mutton chops along.

Ex-Representative "Farmer" Cocks of New York is in Chicago to see about the whole business. He's a neighbor of T. E.'s down Oyster Bay way, and being a Quaker, he and Teddy wrangle informally about preparedness over the back fence.

CHEERING STUNT STARTED IN '80

WOMAN WITH A FLAG WAS FIRST USED TO START DEMONSTRATION—BRYAN ONCE CHEERED FOR HOUR AND A HALF

CHICAGO, June 7.—The republican convention of 1896 was the first in which a woman spotter was "used" to force a demonstration by brandishing a flag and shouting a candidate's name. The same ruse has been used in practically every convention of both parties since.

History records that the 1896 republican convention cheered Blaine's name 35 minutes and Grant, 30 minutes. This was the first "long distance" cheering record.

Demonstrations in conventions since that time have frequently continued for 45 and 50 minutes, and, indeed, in 1908, at the democratic convention, Bryan's admirers cheered and applauded the Nebraskan for nearly an hour and a half.

Western Women to See That Women Get Rights

United Press Service

CHICAGO, June 7.—Women voters will have the balance of power in the West in the coming campaign, and will use it to force candidates of all parties to pledge themselves to equal suffrage.

So said Miss Maud Younger, temporary chairman, in the keynote speech at the woman's party convention here today.

"Elections in the West are close," she said. "Four years ago an average of 7.5 per cent of the vote would have changed the result. But whether the majorities are hundreds or thousands, we mean that in the coming campaign those hundreds or thousands shall be the women voters."

"The women's party has no candidates, and but one plank—the enfranchisement of American women through an amendment to the constitution. We will wait no longer. With an uncertain presidential election, knowing our power and realizing our duty, we place our votes first and pledge ourselves to cast our votes to the end that before this year has passed we may obtain the federal amendment enfranchising the women of the United States."

"The granting of suffrage to Iowa women at this week's election is another indication of the trend of the times," she concluded. "And adds several hundred thousand women's votes to our Western and Middle Western strength, thereby increasing our power in the November election."

Start a Night Court for City's Wage Earners

United Press Service

NEW YORK, June 7.—A night court where wage earners can secure the prompt settlement of suits involving small sums will be opened in this city. It will be held hereafter four times each week, on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, from 8 to 11 p. m. Branches will be established in the various boroughs as needed.

This aid for persons who can least afford to suffer from the law's delays was finally secured without the passage of a bill from Albany, which would make it mandatory. Mayor Mitchell recognized that the authority to set up such a court was already vested in the board of justices.

Directly the judges took definite action to provide the court for all the boroughs the mayor vetoed the Albany bill. There are enough justices to divide the work in such manner as shall prevent the extra duties from weighing too heavily on them.

The new court may greatly increase respect for the law by emphasizing its readiness to serve the poor man, for whom its lengthier processes are prohibitive.
