

Portland Rose Fiesta Formally Opened Today

United Press Service
PORTLAND, Ore., June 7.—Portland today pays Homage to Rose, queen of flowers. The tenth annual Rose Festival has begun.
 More than 10,000 boys and girls from the public schools of Portland will present the pageant of the "human roses" today.
 The festival center where more than 50,000 square feet is filled to overflowing with roses and other seasonable flowers is the greatest spectacle of the kind ever presented in the United States.
 In the center of this vast display is a huge rose bowl, where more than 15,000 flowers are massed to form a floral and electrical fountain, the first of the kind ever built.
 June is rose time in Portland and millions of flowers are in bloom in all parts of the city. The floral parade tomorrow will place on review more than 4,000,000 roses.
 Fully 1,000 automobiles will be in the parade.
 Artificial flowers are barred from festival in Portland and the decorated automobiles and vehicles parade of 1916 will be the greatest procession of the queenly bloom ever staged.

 Oregon's military, fraternal and civic bodies and marching organizations representing cities of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and California will participate in a great pageant Friday. The same afternoon brings the annual regatta on the Willamette river.
 The Oregon metropolis is crowded with visitors from many states.
 Special excursions are bringing thousands from all over the Northwest.
 The big event of the afternoon is the national dedication of the Columbia river highway, the roadway making the gorge of the famous Columbia river passable for automobiles and vehicles of all kinds for the first time.
 This is the home of all of the Altna companies. Chilcote, 633 Main. 26

Dearest Public:
 We have with us today Mr. H. A. Davis of Switzerland, New York and San Francisco, who will be with us as long as we can pay him the wages.
 Mr. Davis is a watchmaker of repute, and has years of experience, being one of the inspectors of the Waltham watch factory.
 If your diamond needs re-setting we can do it while you wait, and it's a real job when it's finished.
 Say, girlie, if you are going to be the permanent slave for June, you'd better get busy. Get right up in his lap and stay till it takes on him. We have a stock of diamonds from ten to three hundred and fifty dollars, and we can work the wires and go stronger.
 Big stock of slavery rings.
 Why don't you come in and see the ice tea tumblers and spoons?
 I am telling you right, they are class for the price, $4.00.
 Some times you make me as happy as if I had my leg broke.
 The very idea of going home with flour and not a diamond in the house. Don't forget us when your watch goes on the bum.
 No, Eve, we don't put ribs in umbrellas, we recover them.
 I don't mean recover (taken by mistake).
 I shall appreciate your patronage, but don't take too long.
 I love you, and you can't help yourself.
 McHATTAN.

Well, Anyway He Looks Like a Champion Should Look

Here is Fred Fulton, the Rochester, Minn., heavyweight, who has signed for three fights in New York city with the intention of thus compelling Jess Willard to take him on for the championship. He looks like a champion. He is six feet four inches tall, weighs 218 pounds, and has the longest reach known to the prize ring. He is built like Bob Fitzsimmons. He is going to box Al Reich, who also looks like a champion.
 "I'd like to manage Fulton," said Kid McCoy. "He looks good." The famous Kid called attention to the fact that Fulton is being taught the crouch that Tommy Ryan showed Jim Jeffries. "He ought to stand straight to take advantage of his great height and reach," said the Kid. Jeffries, you know, was taught the crouch by Ryan because he had a tender stomach. The mighty cave man didn't like to be hit in the stomach.

Cold Weather Has Held Back Northwest Crops

By MYMAN M. GOMEN (Written for the United Press)
PORTLAND, Ore., June 7.—Weather too cold.
 Those three words tell the exact condition of the 1916 grain crops in the states of Oregon, Idaho and Washington.
 From practically every section of the Pacific Northwest, special crop correspondents announce that weather conditions during the month of May have continued against the cereal crops.
 This, perhaps, is not the most serious drawback to the three states producing even an average crop of wheat this season. In the first place, the acreage is so greatly reduced below the normal of recent seasons that even were weather conditions ideal, the total crop could scarcely be up to the average.
 The protracted rainy period during the early fall, the entire winter and spring months, gave little opportunity for farmers to get in their normal acreage of grain. In some sections less than one-half the normal acreage is shown.
 As a general rule the light land sections are showing the best crop conditions this season. The Columbia River section of Oregon is especially fortunate, considering the standing of the crops elsewhere. In the light land sections of Umatilla county, Oregon, and Walla Walla county, Washington, the prospects are for better than in the so-called heavy land sections.
 Weeds are giving more than the usual amount of trouble in the wheat fields of the three states, the damage being especially noticeable in the heavy land sections.
 As a rule the showing of spring wheat is much better than in the winter planting, and both oats and barley are showing a better condition than wheat.
 Reports from some of the leading districts show:
 Oregon—Athena winter wheat conditions 80 per cent; spring wheat 80 per cent. Weather has been entirely too cold. Wheat very backward and weedy.
 Freewater—Winter wheat condition 75 per cent; spring wheat 80 per cent; barley 85 per cent; hay 87 per cent; oats 85 per cent. Weather unfavorable. Conditions will improve with 30 days good weather.
 The Dalles—Winter wheat condition 50 per cent; spring wheat 60 per cent; hay 50 per cent; oats 50 per cent. Crop poor due to cold weather.
 Pendleton—Winter wheat condition a little below average, with spring wheat slightly better than winter; Barley and hay conditions good; light lands have good prospect. All need warmer weather.

 Independence—Winter wheat condition 95 per cent; spring wheat, oats, hay and barley 100 per cent. General conditions fairly good.
 Washington—Walla Walla—Winter wheat poor, 65 to 80 per cent; spring wheat 70 to 80 per cent; barley and hay same. Winter wheat yellow, full of weeds. Spring wheat good, but late. First crop alfalfa small.
 Kohlotus—Winter wheat 60 per cent; spring wheat 75 per cent. Crops very backward.
 Garfield—Wheat condition backward. Weather too cool for seasonable growth.

HERE'S THE DOPE ON 1912 SESSION

OWING TO MANY ARGUMENTS OF LATE REGARDING THE SPLIT OF FOUR YEARS AGO, WE DELVE INTO PAST TO SAVE BLOODSHED

The republican national convention, held at the Coliseum, Chicago, nominated William H. Taft and James Schoolcraft Sherman of New York, for president and vice-president.
 Only 728 of the 1,075 accredited delegates voted—344 delegates either being or withholding their votes and six being absent.
 Roosevelt adherents withdrew or refused participation in further convention proceedings when the convention threw out a number of their constants for delegates.
 On the first ballot Taft received 661 votes and Roosevelt 197, the remainder being scattering.
 The number necessary to a choice was 540.
 William Jennings Bryan is an on-looker at Chicago this week. He's under contract to write about the convention. The less potential the convention is the more he will have to write about. Therefore he is less prolific than usual.

SOUTH NO LONGER DOMINATES G.O.P.
 RE-APPOINTMENT OF DELEGATION STRENGTH CUTS DOWN THE FORCE OF THE SOUTHERNERS AS A UNIT
 In the 1912 convention, delegates from the South constituted nearly one-half the majority necessary to nominate—378 out of 699. The convention, however, left to the committee the task of re-adjusting the representation scheme, with the result that in the 1916 convention there are only 300 southern delegates—two-fifths of the total and less than half of the 493 necessary to nominate.
 Nearly 600 of the delegates to the 1916 convention were chosen by direct primaries.

 A vest pocket edition of T. R. in the person of T. R. Jr., has arrived in Chicago, and announced that "whatever the convention does, the sentiment of the country is for father."
 Judge Henry Nell of Chicago, original mothers' pension advocate, said he would try to have the republican platform endorse mothers' pensions legislation in the states.
 Information about the Klamath country cheerfully furnished. Ask Chilcote.
