

High art in clothes

The designers of the young men's clothes made by Hart Schaffner & Marx are artists in every sense of the word. They create a picture, just as the man who works with a palette creates a picture.

There's an exhibition of these pictures here now that you ought to see: wonderful young men's styles: Varsity Fifty Five in many variations; sport coats, belt-backs, "pinch-backs."

This store is the home of the liveliest young men's styles.

ANKENY RIGHTS DEEDED TO CITY

PURCHASE OF H. M. BRISTOL'S RIGHT PLACES TITLE TO ALL WATER RIGHTS UNDER DITCH IN ONE HAND

All of the water rights under the Ankeny ditch below the Leavitt tract are now in the hands of the city. Announcement to this effect was made last night, when the council voted $100 to H. M. Bristol for his right, the last one outstanding.

Bristol was paid $150 for his right, interested citizens paying $50. The citizens also helped materially in the purchase of other rights, as many deemed it well worth an expenditure of money on their part to have this objectionable waterway closed.

Now that the rights are all in the hands of the city, there is assurance that no water will run in the canal this year. The next step will be to negotiate with the Klamath Water Users Association for the possession of the ditch, so it can be filled up and forever obliterated.

Efforts to secure the closing of this ditch have been under way for about seven years. The matter has been given serious consideration by every mayor and council, and has been the subject of much correspondence and conferences with government officials.

Ex-Mayor Mason worked continuously on the problem during his occupancy of the office and when he was succeeded by Mayor Crisler the first of June, he had secured title to all of the rights with the exception of that of H. M. Bristol, who insisted on receiving an exorbitant price. Last week Mr. Mason received an offer from Mr. Bristol to sell for $150. Fifty dollars of this amount was paid by private interests and the council last night voted the balance.

Says Austria Doesn't Want Much of Serbia

By CARL W. ACKERMAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BUDAPEST, June 12.—"I do not look for the annexation of any part of Serbia by Austro-Hungary," declared Count Albert Apponyi, opposition leader in the Hungarian parliament, in an exclusive interview granted the United Press today.

"Only strategic positions must remain in our hands."

Count Apponyi is often called the "greatest statesman of Hungary." His statement is important not only because it is the first public utterance by a leading statesman of the dual monarchy on the Balkan question, but because it gives the world an indication of what Hungarians believe should be done with Serbia at the end of the war. It is their idea that Austria-Hungary should retain strategic positions that will prevent the Balkans from again kindling a world war.

"I personally do not believe that the Karagevitch dynasty which formerly ruled Serbia, should return," continued Apponyi. "The Karagevitch rulers organized permanent conspiracies against our safety, culminating in the assassination of Serajev, the archduke Ferdinand, the act that precipitated the war. We cannot tolerate such rule again. Furthermore, Bulgaria and Greece must be constructed into efficient powers. Bulgaria must obtain her rights in Macedonia."

Count Apponyi believes peace is not far distant.

"Before there can be effective steps to bring peace, there must be false steps. This period we are passing through now. The success of mediation does not hinge on the personality of the mediator, but upon the spirit in which mediation is offered."

Those who have been considered as possible peace-makers—President

Wilson, Pope Benedict, the king of Spain and the queen of Holland—are all welcome as peace-makers, providing they bring real fairness and impartiality and advocate terms which can be accepted without our renouncing the necessary aims of defensive warfare. That means that we must have effective guarantees for the future safety of Europe.

"There is no doubt that we can hold out until the coming harvest. Then the economic situation will be completely altered, making it evident that we can not be starved into surrendering. I do not think our enemies any longer entertain hopes of military success. We are convinced of the efficiency of the economic measures we have taken, too; then the time will be ripe for peace."

NEW FLOOR IN STAR THEATER

HOUSTON PUTS BIG CREW OF MEN TO WORK TO RUSH THE JOB THROUGH IN TIME FOR NIGHT EXHIBITIONS

A force of twelve men were busy as bees yesterday at the Star theater rushing the work of building an inclined floor. Their efforts were successful, and the job was in shape last night to allow the usual program.

The inclining of the floor adds greatly to the convenience of the theater, and makes the pictures equally visible from all parts of the house. In addition, Houston has remodelled his projection room, and at the same time, increased the seating capacity of the gallery.

The Pendleton city council will soon land for a site for a large manseum.

The Heppner, Morrow county, creamery has doubled its capacity.

Marshfield has voted $5,000 bonds for an additional school building.

Fishing Great Around Chiloquin, Says Angler

The disciples of Isaac Walton who reside in Klamath county are certainly fortunate in their location, for right now trout fishing in the Klamath streams is at its best and the fisherman who returns without an overflowing creel must lay the blame to something else than the trout.

A Herald man has just returned from a three-day visit to the Williamson and Sprague rivers at Chiloquin, and the grin on his countenance signifies that supreme satisfaction which speaks of a good deed well done.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackin, at the hotel, are ideal hosts, and take great pleasure in entertaining the summer visitors, for they feel their efforts are well directed when they witness the pleasure of the weary but happy fisherman returns in the evening and surrounds such a meal as none but experienced caterers can prepare.

This man from the Herald is not saying a word about number or size of the fish that fell to his basket, but will say that on Saturday and Monday the trout on the riffles in the Sprague and Williamson were simply ravenous, and that any old fly was sufficient lure to bring them in. On Sunday the Williamson above Spring Creek was worked over, with the same result.

While almost any fly would bring a rise, perhaps the most attractive were the improved governor, the blue upright, May bright or yellow May and brown and gray hackles. The kamloop and blue bottle were also good, as were other common flies.

Take a couple of days off and go to Chiloquin. You'll never regret it as long as you live. But don't go on Sunday, because the riffles are so full of fishermen that the trout haven't got room to bite.

SHOWER BATHS FOR RAILWAY FREIGHT CARS LATEST

Shower baths for freight cars may seem a rather startling idea, yet the Southern Pacific company is actually installing them at San Francisco and Los Angeles. General Superintendent of Motive Power T. W. Heintzelman has hit on this way of testing cars for leaky roofs. He has had great showers built over the freight tracks in the yards and runs the cars under the sprays to see whether they need any repairs for the rainy season. It is hoped by this precaution to better protect shipments of merchandise over the Southern Pacific from wet weather.

VALUABLE MARE KILLED BY FALL

RUNAWAY YESTERDAY HAD SERIOUS ENDING FOR A RUSSIAN FARMER OWNING THE TEAM THAT WAS FRIGHTENED

A valuable mare belonging to Michael Silykoff, a member of the Russian colony, was killed yesterday afternoon as the result of a runaway. The animal slipped when trying to turn the corner in front of the Goeller mill, and striking its head on the pavement, was instantly killed. The team ran down Main street a few blocks, turned into Klamath avenue, and was again turning toward Main street when the mishap occurred.
