

Travelers Are Stripped Searched by Germans

By CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

COPENHAGEN, July 20.—(By mail) Everyone who leaves Germany today via Warnemunde for Denmark is stripped to the skin. Ears, nose, teeth and toes are examined to see that no information or plans for the enemy are being carried out. Reichstag members, wives of officials, correspondents and laborers are treated the same. An American crossing the border yesterday remarked that before long it would be necessary for the inspection station to be built into the Baltic Sea, so that the travelers could wade across to the German border, walk into the water and swim to a waiting station near the ferry and wait for the clothes and baggage to be examined and forwarded by canoe.

When travelers leave the train they enter a small wooden shed, resembling in many respects a temporary bath house at an American beach. Here the passports are taken away and placed into an enclosed room, where they are examined. The holders are given numbers. When the passport of a traveler is finished he is called to another room, where he is questioned about the objects of his journey. From here the wayfarer goes to a large room when the baggage is examined, while detectives stand in front and in back to see that nothing is slipped by.

Every scrap of paper or cardboard is taken away, even wrappings and paper lining to boxes. Cotton is removed from medicine bottles. Cigars are examined, some are cut open, chocolate in sealed packages is opened, the wrapping destroyed and half the chocolate broken up into bits to see that nothing is hidden.

Shoes, with a new half sole are opened. The searcher feels everything, examines canes to see whether they are hollow, opens umbrellas, holds every collar up to the light to see that nothing is written on the lining.

"After the baggage is examined," said an American woman who crossed the border yesterday, "the men and women are taken into separate compartments, about the size of a large individual bath house, and there every bit of clothing is removed. Women are examined by women, men by men. The searcher went through every piece of my clothing, examined the border of my underwear and held almost every inch of my clothes up to the light. Even the roses I wore were examined petal by petal, my wrist watch was opened back and front, so also my shoes, umbrella and hat."

"I had to take down my hair and my scalp was examined thoroughly—I suppose to see that I didn't have a map of Metz concealed there. Then my ears, teeth, hands, toes and back were examined, but fortunately I was not a suspicious woman because I was not washed in alcohol to see if there were any concealed maps drawn on my skin. The alcohol and a basis of water with towels were there, and on a shelf I noticed a bottle of aromatic spirits of ammonia and drinking water for those who might faint under examination, but in every way the women were gentle and courteous."

After that was over the passengers were permitted to board the ship, but there they soon encountered a score of spies who watched for every move and who listened to every remark. The Germans take no chances with anyone. Articles which are taken away during the examination are

The Longest Leap Ever Made by a Suicide

Where Goldman Jumped
Albert Goldman leaped from the observation tower at the fortieth story of the Singer building in New York to his death. In doing that he jumped from a greater height than any other suicide has ever done. Many have leaped from the Brooklyn bridge, but in doing that they did not drop more than 145 feet. There are three great towers in New York—that of the Woolworth building, the Metropolitan and the Singer, but this is the first time a suicide has had sufficient nerve to leap from one of them.

wrapped up before the eyes of the traveler and posted back to an address he gives of any friend in Berlin. Only suspicious articles are confiscated. At present no rubber goods of any kind can be taken out, no matter if it is the most necessary article. Not an ounce of rubber leaves Germany today.

GRAZE GOATS ON CRATER FOREST

RECENT PERMIT ALLOWS GRADING OF 1,200 GOATS—ROOM FOR ABOUT 3,000 MORE IN THIS FOREST.

PORTLAND, August 19.—A permit has just been issued for the grazing of a band of 1,200 goats on the Crater National Forest, according to an announcement made today by the District Forester, Portland, Oregon. This is the first permit issued for a large band of the animals, and is apparently the result of the recent study made by the Forest Service to develop areas suitable for different kinds of stock, especially goats.

The Service announces that there is room for about 3,000 more head on the Crater Forest, for two bands on the Umpqua, two bands on the Cascade and about 5,000 on the Siskiyou and Siuslaw National Forest—all in Oregon. These areas have been examined by grazing experts, and pronounced suitable for goats. Furthermore, this range is all easily accessible from railroad points.

It is stated by forest officials that they are anxious to have these ranges used, but they are not suitable for sheep, as they contain more underbrush than grass. The goats are more agile and courageous, the succulent underbrush is well suited to their needs, and a rough country is no obstacle to a goat. The damage done by goats to young conifers is slight, and, it is said, they are often a real benefit in keeping down inflammable brush and thus aiding in fire protection.
