Moving Pictures

"The Crucial Test," a World Film feature, with Kitty Gordon in the leading role, will be the attraction at the Star theater tonight. This marks Miss Gordon's third appearance on the World program, and is by far the greatest picture in which she has yet appeared. Her part gives her the opportunity to show that she is an accomplished actress, and the manner in which she executes her difficult roles proves her to be well versed in dramatic construction and also to be able to perform the most delicate and intricate roles with the utmost ease, grace and charm. Besides her splendid work throughout the five reels, she has occasion to wear clothes such as she is noted for. As a whole her work in "The Crucial Test" is an achievement of which any star may well be proud.

C. W. Thatcher Will be Here to Talk Road

opportunity is to come and deliver the message in person.
"On account of bad road conditions on route through Oregon, the Washington Highway Association, combined with the Tourist League, have been routing travel north and south of you. From absolutely correct data secured in Chicago, Boston, New York and Philadelphia, I have learned that last year and this year 15,000 cars have been diverted from your route. This is a fearful loss you are unable to bear.
"The tourist travel you are securing is but a drop compared to the mighty ocean which is rightfully yours. I am coming to aid you in securing your real inheritance. I desire that the world shall come and see your great storehouse of scenic wealth. I know it will fall in love with your country when once they realize its greatness and grandeur.
"Please arrange for a meeting at Fort Klamath, with delegations from LaPine and intermediate points. Have an old-fashioned basket picnic. Have the Indians give a dance, if possible. By this means a crowd will be present. This is the great opportunity for your state to enter into its true era of prosperity.

I am talking to from 3,000 to 5,000 people at a time in the East at barbecues.
"Also arrange for a meeting at Klamath Falls. I will be there in about fifteen days."

The Greatest Golf Champion

CHICK EVANS

"Chick" Evans of Chicago is now considered the greatest golf champion the United States has produced, for his winning of the amateur championship at Merion, Pa., made him both the open and amateur champion of the country. Robert Gardner was the amateur champion, and in this tournament he was defending his crown. Evans, having won the open championship this year, was out to attach the amateur title.

Evans golf career began in 1907, when he won the Western junior and intercollegiate titles. He was just one stroke behind Walter Hagen of Rochester in the national open tournament at Midlothian last year. Hagen had 90 for the 72 holes. In the amateur at Detroit, D. E. Sawyer beat him by six up and 5 to play in the first round. About two months ago Evans outstripped a field containing the cream of the profession in the national open championship tournament at Minkaka, returning a 79-hole score of 286.
