DECLARES WAR NOW MUST GO TO A KNOCKOUT

UNITED PRESS FIRST EXHIBITION OF ENGLISH VIEW

Lloyd George, successor to Lord Balfour as Secretary of State for War, declares England should not make peace until she has won the war, and that Germany need not appeal to London for peace moves.

United Press Service
LONDON, Sept. 30.—There is no doubt in the mind of any man of the hour, R. Hon. David Lloyd George, secretary of state for war.

"Britain has only begun to fight; the British empire has invested thousands of its best lives to purchase future immunity for civilization; this investment is too great to be thrown away," was the Welsh statesman's view of the situation.

"More than at any time since the beginning of the war there is evidence throughout England a popular suspicion toward America, a suspicion that did not exist a year ago. This feeling appears directly attributable to the notion generally entertained that President Wilson might be induced to pull in for the purpose of stopping the European war. A similar suspicion of Spain and the nations is also manifest."

Lloyd George was asked to give the United Press in the simplest possible language the attitude of the British toward the recent peace talk.

"Simple language?" he inquired, with a half smile. Then he thought a moment.

"Sporting terms are pretty well understood wherever English is spoken," he replied. "I am quite sure they will be understood in America. Well, then, the British soldier is a good sportsman. He enlisted in the war in the sporting spirit—the best sense of that term. He went in to see fair play to a small nation trampled upon by a bully. He is fighting for fair play in international dealings. He has fought as a good sportsman by the thousands. He has died like a sportsman. He has never asked anything more than a sporting chance and hasn't always had that. When he could not get it, he didn't quit. He played the game. He didn't squeal, and certainly he never asked anyone to squeal for him."

The secretary for war, who looks, acts and talks more like an American business man than any other Englishman in public life now, speaking real United States, with scarcely any trace of the usual British intonation of accent, continued:

"Under the circumstances, the British, now that the fortunes of the game have turned a bit; are not disposed to stop because of the unequal terms by the Germans or for the reasons probably well meaning but completely unavailing and unconvincing."

This photograph shows some of the many thousand Austrian prisoners taken by the Italians when they captured Goritz. It perhaps shows a larger crowd of prisoners than has been photographed heretofore on any front of the war.

LIBERAL PAPER TAKES SLAPS AT LLOYD GEORGE

SAYS HE SHOULD TEND ONLY TO MILITARY AFFAIRS

London Says Statement by War Minister is "Historic Manifesto," and Utters Voice of All British Empire. Other Allied Countries Give Approval to Declaration That War Must Go to Knockout.

United Press Service

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Manchester Guardian, a liberal organ, in today's issue disapproves of Lloyd George's statement to the United Press, in which he says England does not want neutrals to intervene for peace now.

The Guardian calls the statement a "sign of weakness and violence," and suggests that the secretary of state for war confine himself to military, and let Premier Asquith handle the foreign affairs of England.

Except for the editorial in the Guardian, Lloyd George's interview is almost unanimously approved throughout the allied countries. It is said to express the voice of the British people, and is called a "historic manifesto."

"And at this time, under these conditions, what was the winning German going to do?" he asked. "Was he worrying over the terrible slaughter? No, he was talking of annexing Belgium as a result of his victory, and while he was remaking the map of Europe without the slightest regard for the wishes of its people. British people were preparing to pay the price, we knew must be paid for the time to get the army ready."

"It is one thing to look back on the pounding the British soldier took the first two years of the war, but a

New System of Signals for Fire Are Explained

Because many people of Klamath Falls do not understand the system of fire signals, the Herald today is publishing a full list of the signals, together with the district covered by each.

The new system of signals differs from the old system of one ring for the first ward, two for the second, and so forth. Under the new signals two sets of rings are given, one telling in what ward a fire is, and the second telling in what part of that ward. For instance, when a fire is reported any place in the Third ward three taps will be sounded, then there will be an intermission, and then two, five or six taps, according to the particular part of the Third ward in which the fire is reported.

Following are the first districts and the rings for each district:

- Ring 1-3—All that part of town west of Link River.
- Ring 1-4—From Link River to Center street and south of High street.
- Ring 1-5—Between High and Cook streets and west of Center street to Link River.
- Ring 1-7—North of Pine street and between Third and Center streets.
- Ring 1-8—Between Third and Center and between Pine and Plum streets.
- Ring 2-3—Between Third and Seventh streets and south of Klamath avenue to Kinlock street.
- Ring 2-4—Between Third and Fifth streets from Klamath avenue north to High.
- Ring 2-5—Between Fifth and Seventh streets, from Klamath avenue north to High street.
- Ring 3-5—Between Seventh and Tenth streets from Main north to McKinley street.
- Ring 3-6—Between Tenth street and the Irrigation canal from Pine north to Franklin street.
- Ring 3-2—East of Seventh street and south of Klamath avenue.
- Ring 3-4—Between Seventh street and the White Pelican hotel, and from Klamath avenue north to Pine street.
- Ring 3-7—From Irrigation canal north and between Jefferson street east to the railroad tracks.

PHILLIES BEAT DODGERS 7 TO 2

DEFEAT OF ROBINSON'S BOYS IN MORNING GAME GIVES PHILADELPHIA LEADERSHIP IN NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE

BROOKLYN, Sept. 30.—By defeating Brooklyn this morning by a score of 7 to 2, Philadelphia took the lead in the race for the National League pennant and a chance at the world's series money.

These teams are neck and neck for the championship of President Tener's league. They are undergoing the acid test now against one another. The Dodgers next meet McGraw's New York Giants, who have just won twenty-three straight games. It looks rather dark for the Brooklyn club.

ROOSEVELT RAPS WILSON POLICIES IN SPEECH TODAY

CRITICIZES WILSON'S PREPARATIONNESS ATTITUDE

Says Chief Executive Has Drugged Our Souls With Narcotic of Meaningless Phrasemonging—Answers Talk of Keeping Us Out of War by Saying Lincoln and Washington Didn't Keep Us Out of War, But Are Reverred.

United Press Service

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Sept. 30.

"I stood by the president for over a year, but have been forced to conclude that his stand on many issues are no longer compatible with the interests of mankind or the honor of the nation," declared ex-President Roosevelt this afternoon in an address before the citizens of Battle Creek.

Colonel Roosevelt scored Wilson's Mexican and European policies as averting his public duty "by adroit elocution, drugging our souls with a narcotic of meaningless phrasemonging."

He severely criticized the president's attitude toward labor and preparedness, and in answer to the argument that Wilson has "kept us out of war," said "Washington and Lincoln did not keep us out of war, but are still revered by all red-blooded Americans."

FIRST ORDINANCE INTRODUCED MONDAY

MAY USE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM OCTOBER 5TH

On That Date Also Ordinance to Amend Charter and Issue Bonds Will Be Introduced, and After October 16th Bond Election Can Be Called—First Possible Date for Election Is November 5th.

With the arrival from Keeler Brothers of the proceedings introducing an ordinance for this city to exercise the initiative and referendum, definite steps toward the Strahorn railroad bond issue election have been taken. The proceedings arrived this morning with complete instructions.

The ordinance for the initiative and referendum will be introduced at the council meeting next Monday, and can be passed finally at the meeting October 9th. At the meeting on October 9th an ordinance providing for an amendment to the charter authorizing the council to issue the railroad bonds and calling an election to submit the amendment to the voters will be introduced. This second ordinance can be finally passed at the meeting October 16th, and twenty days later the bond election can be held. This will be November 5th.

The national election is November 7th, so it is believed probable that the people will vote the $300,000 bond issue at the regular election.

Following is the letter received from Keeler Brothers this morning, and explains in full what the proceedings will be:

"We are pleased to hand you herewith proceedings introducing an ordinance of your city providing for the manner of exercising the initiative and referendum.

"You will find in cover Nos. 1 and 2, respectively, copies of the proceedings, all to be enclosed in accordance with instructions, and the yellow covers, being Nos. 1 and 2, returned to us.

"Cover No. 3 contains an entire copy of the ordinance, which should have the number filled in and be signed by the mayor and police judge and then to be delivered to the publisher of the city official newspaper for publication in one issue of that paper. In accordance with the provisions of your charter, the proceedings have been prepared for the introduction of this ordinance, and for the first and second readings thereof at the next meeting, which we understand is to be held on Monday, the 2d of October. Of course this ordinance cannot be published until after the meeting at which it is finally passed. The papers provided for its final passage at the meeting to be held October 9th are being prepared, and will be forwarded to you in time for that meeting.

At the meeting of October 9th, in accordance with the provisions regarding the manner of exercising the initiative and referendum, our attorneys are preparing a bill and ordinance for you an ordinance providing for an amendment to the charter authorizing the common council to issue the railroad bonds or warrants, and calling an election submitting the amendment to the voters. This ordinance providing for the amendment, as we understand it, can be finally passed at the meeting to be held on Monday, October 16th, and if all of the proceedings are taken at the time provided in the forms being prepared by our attorneys we see no reason why the election cannot be called to be held at the same time and place as the regular November election.

"Trusting that these papers will reach you in due time and be satisfactory in form, we remain, "Very truly yours," KEELER BROS."
