WAR MUST GO THREE MORE YEARS

HOLLAND TOLD NOT TO TRY FOR PEACE

INFORMED SUCH ACTION WOULD BE PRO-GERMAN

Until This Announcement Was Made by Allied Government, Nothing Was Known Publically of Holland's Peace Moves—Believed That Lloyd George Gave Interview to Forestall Work of Holland Toward Peace.

United Press Service
ROME, Oct. 6.—It is said in authentic circles that the allies expect the European war to last at least three more years.
The allies today informed Holland that any move by it toward bringing of peace would be considered a pro-German move, and would compel the allied governments to act accordingly.
This announcement by the allies is the first intimation that Holland has been feeling out the belligerent nations as to their peace sentiments.
The interview of the United Press with David Lloyd George, in which he stated that war must go to a knock-out, is now believed to have been provoked by Holland's moves toward peace.

Commercial Club Sends Letters Asking Support

Letters explaining the measure for county assistance to the Klamath Commercial Club are being prepared by that body to send to a large number of voters throughout the county.
This measure provides for one quarter of one mill, or 25 cents on $1,000, from the general county levy to forward the agricultural and industrial development of the county.
The funds to be expended under the supervision of members of the county court. Club members are of the opinion that it is only a matter of getting the proposition before the public in a logical way in order to carry it by a heavy majority.

BOOZE SEIZED IN RAID GOES INTO THE LAKE

SHERIFF LOW DESTROYS MUCH BEER AND WINE

Besides the Officials, Other Interested Spectators Gathered to Witness the Destruction, Which Took Place at the City's Dumping Grounds—The Liquor Consisted of 168 Bottles of Beer and Some Wine.

With tears in their eyes, several brave men this afternoon took part in and witnessed the destruction of 168 bottles of good Wieland's beer and four kegs of dago red and gin. The liquor was seized by Sheriff Low in the raid on A. Barni's bootlegging joint at Pelican City.
The beer and wine was taken to the city's dumping ground at Second and Oak streets, and each and every bottle and keg was broken with an axe and the liquor allowed to run into the lake.
The confiscation took place pursuant to orders from Justice of the Peace Gowen, who was present to see the firewater poured out.
Most interested among the other spectators was O. A. Stearns, pioneer of Klamath county and a prohibitionist. He arrived soon after the destruction commenced, and stayed until the last headache producer was on the ground.

Watch Out for "Bun."
"Bun" Brown now walks down the middle of the street, "sassing" the people on both sides. He thinks he's the greatest of 'em all. The reason is that Mrs. Brown yesterday at noon presented him with a ninepound girl.

Believed Fight for Verdun Is To Be Renewed by Kaiser

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Violent bombardment started northwest of Verdun last night is believed by French military officers to be a prelude to renewed efforts of the Germans to take Verdun, the strategical point in the whole western fighting.
Kaiser Wilhelm is said to have declared that the war of 1870 was settled at Paris, and the present war would be settled at Verdun. The first gigantic assault on Verdun lasted about three months, and cost both sides heavy losses in men and supplies.
Artillery on both sides of the Somme is active today.

McPherrin Tells How He Captured a Live Coyote

W. E. McPherrin has a full grown live coyote as a pet. Of course, he doesn't pet it a great deal, but he calls it a pet.
The coyote was trapped on the P. T. Games place near Wilson bridge a few days ago by a front foot. The foot will heal up.
The other night the pet got loose in the J. S. Mills & Son Implement house, where McPherrin works, and for some time had possession of the place. It was no child's play to catch a full grown coyote loose among wagons, harrows, binders and plows.

Although it is reliably reported that the coyote was trapped, and although an injured foot proves this, here is the story McPherrin tells about catching his pet:
"I saw the coyotes in a stubble field and started after it. Before long I had caught up with it and made a grab for its tail. My hand slipped, but again I started for the brute. Next time I got a more secure hold, and after swiveling the coyote around, grabbed it by the neck and held it fast until I could get a rope out of my pocket to tie around its neck."
