

Neutral Ships Helped by Allied Destroyers

By WM. PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
ON BOARD S. S. JUPITER, SOME WHERE IN THE NORTH SEA, Nov.
11.—(By mail)—German U-boats are getting so promiscuous with Norwegian shipping that convoys are now resorted to in special cases. As the Jupiter, a Norwegian boat, churns up the water of the North Sea from Bergen to Newcastle, a British destroyer roams along on either side.

We were just pulling out of the fjord far up which Bergen lies when ahead of us, slowly cruising, and down the three mile limit line we spied two low-lying craft which everyone knew at a glance were destroyers. Some said they were Norwegian, others said they were British.
They were British. Norway, not being at war with Germany, cannot take it for granted that she is going to be attacked. England can and does.

As the Jupiter sped on the British destroyers turned gracefully and caught the pace. And they were to hang on until Newcastle was safely reached.

Each time a vessel of any kind comes in sight, whether sailing ship, trawler, fishing smack or what not, the Jupiter changes her course somewhat, and, like a belligerent torrier, the nearest destroyer bears down upon it at terrific speed. They are taking no chances. U-boats have a way of disguising themselves or hiding behind other craft, and the British seamen are on the watch for all such tricks.

These precautions are not idle. The waters are known to be fairly thick with German subs, and one had just taken from the Prinz Heinrich several couriers of the allies, and thrown them in prison. It is known the Germans would not respect the neutral Jupiter any more than she respected the neutral Heinrich. And aboard the Jupiter are several couriers—English, French and Russian. Also several high officials belonging to those nationalities.

Norwegians feel strongly over the torpedoing of their ships. The waters around Norway are alive with subs, and since the start of the war the practice of blowing up Norwegian ships has grown rapidly. In all some 15 per cent of the entire shipping of Norway has been accounted for in this way. A number of U-boats are known to be as far north as the waters around Archangel. The Norwegian Shipping Gazette, commenting on the torpedoing of Norwegian steamers, said:
"There is no doubt that the commanders of the submarines have special orders to destroy Norwegian ships. Two months ago we received a hint from a well-informed quarter that Germany intended to wage a reckless submarine campaign against the Norwegian mercantile fleet, and a few weeks ago German "creatures" in Norway openly threatened Norwegian ships with destruction."

These things have stirred the country more than anything since the commencement of the war. Christiania and Bergen are packed with visitors.
It is said that a small army of Germans is at either city. Hotels are filled, and one hears German on all sides. It is said that every sailing is known in Germany, almost to the moment the ship clears port.

On Thanksgiving Day the people of Keno and surrounding neighborhood met in Padgett's hall and served a public dinner. There were about fifty people present. The good housewives were at their best, and prepared one of the best dinners ever served in Keno. This was the second annual event, and such gatherings are conducive to community interests.
Too much praise cannot be given S.
Padgett for the success in this movement.

Council of Defense Meets
United Press Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 4.—The first meeting of the United States newly organized Council of National Defense will be held at the office of War Secretary Baker today. A number of special investigations looking toward the perfection of a compre- hensive scheme of national defense are expected to be started. The coun- cil was appointed by President Wilson under the last emergency appropriation bill, and consists of Secretaries Baker, Daniels, Linn, Houston, Bagdikian,

To feel like young birds feel; the you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons. Begin this treatment, and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so immediate phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver and bowels.—Adv.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside, to sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach liver, bowels and kidneys drink before breakfast each day a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of immediate phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and soothe the entire alimentary tract be- fore poisons have had time to accum- ulate.

Get a quarter pound of immediate phosphate from your pharmacist. It is immediate and almost tasteless, ap- pears a nondescript white, is not in- flammable, does not discolor hot water, never clings to old tin cans, and is safe to use with infants and babies; also to prevent their constipation.
