Count von Bernstorff

German ambassador to the United States, who received his passports from the government last Saturday, and who has arranged to leave his government's welfare here with the Swiss embassy.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 6.—Germany's answer to President Wilson's notice of the diplomatic break is expected to arrive here within twenty-four hours.

That it may be a declaration of war is the belief that is rapidly crystallizing among government officials. It is declared by them that this step is inevitable and they will not be surprised if Germany declared war with the United States.

The statement made by Foreign Minister Zimmermann at Berlin following the break that "there is no step backward" strengthens the belief.

It is recalled that Count Bernstorff, German ambassador to America, who has been handed his passports, said after the torpedoing of the Sussex, that a breaking off of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany would result in Germany immediately declaring war. Count von Bernstorff recently reiterated this statement.

The president's cabinet met this afternoon to canvass the situation and discuss plans for the mobilizing of the country's resources in case the worst comes.
