Incidents Surrounding Death of Ed. Way Told

woods about half a mile from the Hobbs cabin, stated that about 2:30 on the day of the shooting he heard two shots in rapid succession, one a heavy muffled shot, and the other a sharper one, similar to a revolver shot. Cross-examination by Manning brought out a statement that Morgan has been in the employ of Way for the past sixteen years, with but few interruptions in the period of working.

J. W. Magness, engineer on the logging locomotive, testified that Hobbs has fired for him part of two seasons prior to the shooting. Admitted that Hobbs had talked with him regarding Way, but upon bitter objections by Manning to every attempt of the state to draw out the nature of those remarks nothing was gained.

P. H. Gibbons and wife, the cooks for the Algoma camp, were next put on the stand, and told of seeing the defendants in the neighborhood of the cook house and the Way residence every night for nearly three weeks prior to the shooting, the visits ceasing a few nights before the tragedy occurred. Said that they heard the Hobbs whispering to each other, and when accosted by Gibbons and asked what they wanted, said they wanted nothing. Gibbons on cross-examination by Manning vehemently denied having made statements to different people which showed a enmity toward Hobbs. Admitted a malice toward Hobbs on the witness stand.

J. B. Chambers of the Gun Store was called, and identified the shotgun as one he rented to Hobbs the day of the shooting. Also sold two boxes of shells, one box size six shot the other BBs. Said that the two shells taken from the shotgun by the officers were identical with twenty-one remaining shells in the box of number sizes. Said that the exploded shell and the unexploded shell found on the ground were also identical with those remaining in the box. Stated further that four shells were missing from the box of twenty-five shells. Said that the gun was a full choke barrel gun, and that although both barrels were dirty, that he thought but one barrel had been exploded. On re-direct by Manning Chambers testified that at the distance of 4 1/2 feet the charge would not spread, but would be about as intact as when leaving the barrel of a choke bored gun.

Chas. Mararow, a loader in the woods near the Hobbs home, told of Hobbs coming over and telling them to tell Way that he (Hobbs) wanted to see Way before Hobbs went to town that day. Said that he told Way, and that Way started towards the Hobbs house. He said this was during the week of the shooting. Manning asked on cross-examination if it could have been Wednesday preceding the Saturday on which the shooting occurred.

Noon recess.

Evidence Late Yesterday

John Irwin prosecuting attorney at the time of the tragedy followed Geo. C. Ulrich on the stand and testified on conditions as he found them upon going to the scene of the shooting and corroborated the statements of the other officers with regard to meeting the Hobbs on the road to town. Irwin told that Hobbs showed a disposition to relate events at the cabin but was halted by Yaden, who was representing Hobbs at that time. The questions put to Hobbs were finally asked through Yaden and Hobbs answered yes or no to the questions which Yaden allowed him to answer. Irwin stated further that when Hobbs was asked to detail the events leading up to the shooting, his story was about as follows: That Way came down the road in his car about 2 or 2:15 p. m. Saturday, stopped the car in front of the house and called to him (Hobbs.) That he went down to the machine and helped Way put the top down on his car, that they talked ten minutes after which time Way offered him a drink. Told Way that he didn't care for it, had some at the house if he wanted to drink. Said he (Hobbs) came up to the kitchen door of the cabin and went in and that Way had followed him up to the front of the house. When he came out of the kitchen the front door was open and Way was on the step. Hobbs said he wasn't sure whether Way or his wife opened front door. He said he shot Way while Way was standing on the step.

The cross-examination of Irwin, brought out the fact of the turning over the guns to Lloyd Low and that Hobbs seemed reluctant to do so until assured by Irwin that Low had a right to them as sheriff. Irwin said that Hobbs remarked, 'Gentlemen, you will have to protect me now, I am unarmed.' Further cross-examination by Manning brought information that Hobbs had visited town, Wednesday preceding the shooting and in company with A. C. Yaden had attempted to see Irwin. When asked regarding the conference held, Judge Kuykendall informed the defense that the evidence had no place in the cross-examination so Manning announced that he would reserve the right to place Irwin on the stand for direct examination by the defense. The right was granted.

John Neubert, a rancher in Antelope valley, living three miles from the Algoma camp, testified that he had visited the Hobbs cabin eight days later, in company with Miss Helen Stoner, the step-daughter of

NEW SPRING MODEL CORSETS

Not Young in Years, But Still Youthful in Appearance

It is STYLE that makes one woman stand out above all others, regardless of her years—she is the distinguishing figure on the canvas.
It is her figure that gives her that rare quality—distinction—wherever she goes, and in whatever walk of life. How strange, then, when practically woman may achieve style, that there should be one without it.
If you have neglected your figure, it will take a little time to remodel it, but not at the price of eternal vigilance. Your figure will quickly respond to the modeling influence of a

P. H. Gibbons, the Algoma cook, with whom he was keeping company. That they had gone down to take some pictures, and on the south side of the house Neubert had picked up an exploded .38 caliber revolver shell. That he had thrown it away. He identified the revolver in court as being a .38 caliber which had been taken from Mrs. Hobbs. On cross-examination, he developed a lack of memory regarding the length of time after he had seen the shell until he recalled the matter to mind. Didn't remember to whom he had first spoken about it. Said he had not talked it over with Judge Drake any more than casually.

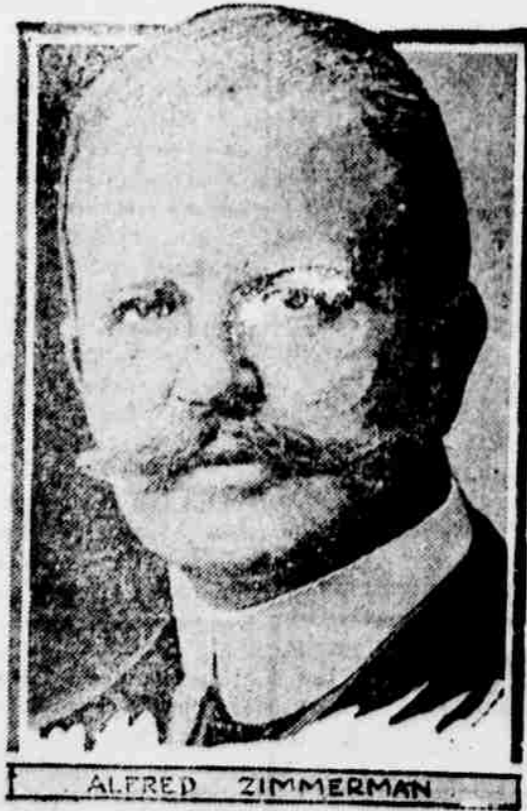

Miss Helen Stoner told of seeing Neubert pick up the shell. Was asked but two questions by defense. Her evidence was corroborative of Neubert's.

Tom Stough, a nephew of Edwin C. Way's was next called, and told of hearing two shots, one clear and the other "muffed." Was tending hook on the donkey engine about one-half mile from the cabin. Heard about 8 o'clock that night that Hobbs had been shot, and went down with Mrs. Way to see about it. Did not know until they arrived that Way had been shot.

woman has arranged the marriage of her daughter to satisfy her social ambitions. The artist really does not love her, but being tired of living a lonely bachelor's life, he suffers his engagement to the girl to be announced. The girl, Helen, in return really does not love the artist, but complies with her mother's wishes and engages herself to the artist simply because of her mother, and also because she realizes that the man is a famous artist, and by marrying him her social standing will be upheld. She is really in love with Carl Wilson, a young club man, who is a ne'er-do-well. Her love for him is only a childish and girlish fancy. At the Star tonight.
