TELLS PORTLAND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE THAT TOURIST ADVERTISING AND GOOD ROADS GO HAND IN HAND

The state as a whole was well represented at the Northwest Tourist association advisory meeting held in Portland recently, according to Capt. J. W. Siemens, president of the Klamath Commercial club, who has returned from Portland.

Several mayors, including those of Bend and Medford, and the new county judge of Deschutes county, were present, as well as prominent city and county officials from many points over the state, said Captain Siemens.

The question of whether or not the resources of the various sections of the state can be advertised along with the tourist possibilities was discussed. A resolution was also passed that the money provided by the state legislature shall be spent in an equitable and well distributed manner to give all counties representation.

Captain Siemens spoke at meeting held at the Portland chamber of commerce, and emphasized the necessity of constructing a railroad in eastern and southern Oregon, contending that the spending of tourist advertising money and the construction of good roads go hand in hand with the building of railroads and adequate means of transportation for taking care of the tourists that will desire to visit the various sections of the state.

What Women Say About Shoes

WITH Easter at hand and Spring almost here, women everywhere are thinking about shoes.

They are asking each other questions.

Are prices going still higher? Is the rising cost, the shortage of leather, actual and necessary—or is some one taking advantage of conditions?

What is the practical, sensible thing for a woman to do?

Right along The Regal Company has been giving the inside facts about leather and shoes.

So far as we can learn, no other manufacturer has thought it worth while to take the public into his confidence.

We do so because we see Regal as an institution, responsible to the public and to more than two million loyal customers.

This business started 24 years ago, in a small way—but with a big idea. It now has three great factories, fifty of its own stores in the metropolitan centers and a thousand dealers (special Regal representatives) in other towns and cities.

Why shouldn't we tell the truth about shoes?

Now this is the way we see it.

Kid-skins can't come in from India, nor calf-skins from Russia. There are not enough ships. The United States practically has no ships.

Leather is getting scarce. It will be higher before it is lower. Shoe prices had to go up.

But—

There can be no question or doubt that advantage has been taken of the scarcity. There were instances the past season where prices were boosted sky-high!

Regal Shoes wherever you found them were uniformly good value.

Then why didn't women go to the Regal Stores? They did, by the thousands. Some women didn't—because they had never been in a Regal Store.

The tendency of women to stick to habit or routine in buying is what gives the price-booster his opportunity!

The sensible, practical woman wakes up and looks around.

She will find the best values in a National Standard shoe like Regal—where the Maker is responsible to her and the price is a known quantity.

This is our advice for Spring. Find a good, stylish, reliable, known make of shoe at a moderate price, say $5 to $8—then buy two pairs—and get Regal Shoes if you can.

You want style and good looks, you want honest leather and fine workmanship, you want a "glove" shoe that will wear and keep its shape, not less than $5 or more than $10—that's the Regal range.
