Klamath Boy Tells of Army Life in South

In a letter to Miss Pauline Hotchkiss of the Klamath Agency, William Hotchkiss, a Klamath County boy who enlisted at the outbreak of the Mexican trouble last year, and is now encamped at El Paso, relates some of his experiences. The letter follows in part:

"Forty of us left Fort Stevenson on the 31st of June, and got here on the 26th. We had a fine trip coming through Oakland and Los Angeles. As soon as we arrived here we were put in quarantine for measles. There are about 2300 men in our regiment in quarantine. Nobody seems to be sick, so I guess we will be turned out pretty soon.

"It doesn't matter whether you are in quarantine or not, you drill just the same, and believe me, we certainly drill here a good eight hours a day, and it is good and hot here, too. This is a new regiment, so they want to whip them up into shape as rapidly as possible. This is the Thirteenth

Regiment Field Artillery, and I think I belong to Battery C.

"We have five-inch guns mounted on wheels, and it takes eight horses to pull one gun. We haven't got any horses yet, tho.

"There are many thousands of soldiers here. Our regiment is about seven miles from El Paso, and there is a continuous row of camps from here to town on both sides of the railroad tracks. We are camped in tents with wooden floors and walls, eight men to a tent. We sleep on cots and eat out of our mess kits. Believe me, this is the real soldier life.

"We have some shower baths here, and the water does not need to be heated. It is fine after drilling in the hot sun. The nights are fairly cool, however, so we can sleep.

"In the next camp, a cavalry regiment, they have a free movie show every night, but we who are quarantined cannot go. There are so many of us, however, that we have quite a little fun in the evening among ourselves."

Special Market Service

STOCK YARDS, NORTH PORTLAND, July 12.—Cattle—The cattle yards have been well filled during the week, and the market was rather dull at the close of last week. Monday's movement was brisk and a large volume was transacted, which totaled around 1,200 head. Some choice prime steers brought $19.50, but the general market conditions indicated a decline over the previous week of 50 to 75 cents.

Monday's market conditions would warrant a quotation of $9 to $9.75 for best beef steers, and $8.50 to $9 for good steers. Butcher stuff and cows, however, declined nearly $1 from last week's market. The best cows are selling as high as $7.50, but the bulk are going at $7 and lower. The bull market is steady, with last week's close, and 50 cents lower than last week's opening. Veal calves are quoted at $9 to $9.50, and some splendid offerings went thru the yards. Stockers and feeders were steady with last week's prices, and some very excellent feeders were handled at the yards from $5 to $7.50.

Hogs—The hog offers were rather heavier Monday than a week ago, about 1,200 head being received. The rise in price which started the latter part of the week was continued at the opening Monday, and a good many loads went for $16, while the top was $16.15, at which figure a carload of extra fine hogs, weighing 257 pounds, passed over the scales. A fair quotation for the bulk would be $15.85 to $16.05, and the demand is good, with rather a weak supply.

Sheep—The sheep market remains steady, with only 500 head on the market Monday. Spring lambs are getting from $12.25 to $12.75. Mt. Adams yearlings $10.25 and ewes from $4 to $5.

London Zeppelin Cellar Like Cyclone Cellar

Londoners have never had to take to their cellars to save themselves against cyclones, but in the yards of some houses cellars like those used in the Western states of this country have been provided, and this photograph shows a mother and child at the entrance of one, ready to go where the Zeppelin bombs cannot reach them.

Crop Conditions Thruout Oregon Not Promising

PORTLAND, July 12.—Shallow rooted crops and those on light soils are suffering materially for moisture, and unless it rains soon the late planted crops will not come to full before maturity, reads the summary of crop conditions thruout Oregon for the week ending July 7th, issued here today by the Portland weather bureau.

"Under cloudless skies, the continued hot, dry weather has been favorable for haying, which is now general, with good crops of clover and alfalfa being housed," the summary continues.

"Barley, oats and spring wheat were in fair to good condition, but heading very short, winter wheat generally good, and the harvest of rye has begun on valley land in Umatilla county.

"Corn, potatoes, hops, sugar beets and beans, where irrigated, made rapid advancement, warm nights being particularly favorable to the growth of corn. Pastures and ranges, as a rule, are drying up, and are greatly in need of rain. The fruit outlook is still promising; berries are setting well, with prospects for a large crop."

Sentiment Believed to Be Over Estimated

TOKIO, July 12.—That the anti-Japanese sentiment in the United States is not so strong as is believed in Japan is the opinion of Dr. Wai-chiro Okada, professor of medicine at the Imperial University, who recently returned from a trip to America. The professor said that the Japanese were welcomed in the United States, generally speaking. It was true that among the labor element in the West the situation was different, but he found that the majority of the American people do not subscribe to the anti-Japanese agitation in the Western states. He added that some of the American physicians were even suggesting medical co-operation between Americans and Japanese because Americans were recognizing that the Japanese possessed certain excellent qualities in medical science.
