

War Until Oppression Is Conquered; Ribot

PARIS, July 30.—France begins the fourth year of the war in calm confidence and determination, expressed today by Premier Alexander P. Ribot in these words:

"Until the people with whom we are at war finally awaken and free themselves from the detestable regime that oppresses them, nothing will stop the allies in their effort that will bring back peace to the world by the triumph of their arms."

At the request of the Associated Press the premier wrote:

The entry of the United States into the conflict was the capital event of the third year of the war.

"That event resounded mightily through the entire world. Certain Latin-American states already have shown by breaking off relations with Germany that they had a clear vision of the Germanic peril.

"Greece, wrenched from the intrigues of a foreign faction, is preparing to send fresh contingents to fight with us in Macedonia. The cause of national liberty in all countries is finding more ardent advocates.

"The enemy, disappointed in his insatiable hope of stopping ocean navigation, disillusioned in his effort to sap the courage of the allies by false offers of peace, can only seek to envelop the origin of his criminal enterprise in a veil of untruth.

"May the people with whom we are at war finally awaken and free themselves from the detestable regime that oppresses them. Until then nothing will stop the allies in their effort that will bring back peace to the world by triumph of their arms."

GERMAN REFORMS MERE TALK

AMSTERDAM, July 30.—Theodore Wolff, who has become one of the most outspoken writers on political topics in Germany, declared in the Tagblatt that absolutely no material progress has been made in the direction of reforms.

Herr Wolff is editor of the Tagblatt. In his article he said:

"The party representatives were called to the crown prince to express their own opinions on von Bethmann-Hollweg (the former chancellor), and

CALIFORNIA AND MONTANA LANDS RELEASED—NEARLY A MILLION ACRES DESIGNATED
UNDER NEW HOMESTEAD ACT

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—Approximately 600,000 acres of withdrawn land were restored to unrestricted entry in June, Secretary of the Interior Lane has announced. In Montana 465,000 acres were released from coal reserves, and in California 104,000 acres were eliminated from oil withdrawals by investigations by the geological survey, indicating the lands contained no oil deposits.

Secretary Lane announced that in June 813,000 acres were designated under the enlarged homestead act, thru which the entryman may acquire a homestead of 320 acres.

felt their importance increase. Those who formerly delivered their incriminating evidence imagined themselves to be rolling forward the worlds history, but they themselves were being pulled by invisible wires.

"When the unpopular chancellor was to be dropped they dared to subscribe to the justice of the verdict, and gave their signatures proudly."

Herr Wolff said it is easy to sum up all the progress made in the direction of reform in a single word, "that word is nothing." He concludes that resolutions are not going to reform Germany, but that action is needed.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Ad.

Authorities Say French Finances Are Still Good

PARIS, July 30.—The French finances have been unshaken by the war is the opinion expressed to the Associated Press by Charles Gide of the University of Paris, an eminent authority on economic questions, discussing the outlook at the beginning of the fourth year of the conflict.

"France," said Mr. Gide, "has three years of military effort. Yet in the thirty-six months of hostilities the French people are investing in short term treasury bonds as freely as they were two years ago; that is, at the rate of about 1,000,000,000 francs a month."

M. Gide pointed to the co-operation of the United States, which, he said, "brings formidable aid to France and her allies."

"This," he continued, "not only removes all doubt concerning the result of the war, from a military standpoint, but relieves the financial situation by diminishing the drain upon French gold."

"Increased prices paid for every commodity, it must be remembered, also has vastly increased the revenue war their revenues were 35,000,000,000 francs. Now they are 50,000,000,000 francs annually. These figures show that, formidable as the war debt may appear, the problem of its liquidation is not so alarming after all."

"France can stand another year of war outlay quite as well as she stood the third year."

"I do not think any country will be ruined by the war. All are more or less in the same situation as France. The only real drain upon their resources is what they pay abroad. The best expenditure is that which might be called fictitious; that is, the transfer of money from the pockets of some citizens to the pockets of others, a transfer in which a great many new fortunes have been built up, but in which the real riches of the country have been left untouched."

Referring to economic measures to be taken after the war and to the complaints by Germany of an effort to ruin her. M. Gide said:

"The talk of an economic war after the fighting has almost subsided, I consider it neither possible nor useful for Germany to be crushed commercially. Her military power will be crushed, but she will be left free to work out her own economic destiny."

Destroying a German Observation Balloon

Before such battles as were fought at Messines, Vimy, Arras and the Somme, it was necessary to bring down the German observation balloons because they are the "eyes of the artillery." The artist has here drawn a representation of the attack. The British airplane soared high above the clouds until it was just above the stationary balloon. Then swooping down thru the clouds incendiary bullets were fired into the envelope which contained hydrogen. The drawing at the left shows the airplane coming thru the clouds shooting at the balloon. That at the right shows the burning balloon with a number of parachutes for the escape of the observers trailing behind because there was no time to use them. The balloon falls, a mass of flames and black smoke, to earth, while the victorious airplane sails away.

Rather vexes you, doesn't it, to have some one make that remark when you state the time?

You know you have a good watch—but the best watch ever manufactured won't keep accurate time without cleaning and oiling every twelve to eighteen months. Don't expect yours to, no matter how fine it is.

Bring it in today, and have it examined.

COOLNESS

There's nothing so cool as an oil stove for summer cooking. All the heat is concentrated on the cooking and not radiated about the kitchen.

Cooks everything any wood or coal range will cook, and cooks it better, because of the steady, evenly-distributed heat.

Use it all the year 'round—more convenient than a wood or coal stove, and more economical.

The long blue chimneys prevent all smoke and smell.
