REVOLUTION IN WEST AFRICA

LISBON, Aug. 16.—A column of Portuguese troops, supported by armed trawlers, attacked several native positions in Angola, killing eighty and wounding 100, it was officially reported Monday.

The foregoing is the first information of any revolutionary unrest in Angola. Angola is a Portuguese possession on the west coast of Africa.

Russian Judicial System Now Being Reformed

PETROGRAD, Aug. 16.—The reform of Russia's judicial system, proceeding rapidly under the provisional government, has brought with it the institution of women magistrates, unknown elsewhere in Europe.

The higher courts already have been reformed. One of the new government's first acts was to reintroduce the famous "judicial statute," promulgated by Alexander II in 1864, during his brief reforming fit after the Crimean War, but abolished by his reactionary successors. The reform of the minor local courts, the peasant courts and the police courts is a more complicated task, but virtually it is accomplished.

Chief in the reform of the courts of peace, corresponding to police courts in other European states. The system of peasant jurisdiction also has been reformed by the abolition of the village courts. Before the revolution the real judicial authority in the villages was the "rural chief" or Zemski Natchalnik, usually retired army officer or other person without legal training, who also was administrator of peasant affairs; and therefore was often in a position to justify as magistrate his own illegal acts as administrator. The rural chiefs have all been dismissed and, for the peasants as already for the so-called "privileged classes," justice definitely is severed from administration.

The reform of the courts of the peace is radical. Formerly a single

LEGAL AID IS NOT PERMITTED

AUTHORITIES HAVE RULED APPLICANTS FOR EXEMPTIONS MAY NOT RETAIN ATTORNEYS TO ASSIST THEM

PORTLAND, Aug. 16.—Uncle Sam is determined that no fine-drawn legal technicalities or spitting of hairs shall be permitted to influence decisions on claims for exemptions or discharge from military duty.

Therefore, local exemption boards have received positive instructions not to permit any applicant for exemption or discharge to be represented before the board by an attorney, nor to submit written legal proofs or make oral argument.

This ruling does not interfere in the least with the rights of claimants, for the affidavits and supporting affidavits he is required to submit to the board in proof of his claims, on blank forms furnished by the board, thoroughly safeguard his interests if he adheres to the truth. The penalty for false statements on his part, on the other hand, is very severe.

The purpose of these affidavits is to make available the exact facts in the case, without adornment or embellishment of any kind, so the board may decide each case on its merits alone.

Obviously, if an applicant could be represented by a lawyer, and either the lawyer or the applicant himself were free to make an argument to the board in support of the claim, a persuasive talker might influence the board in spite of itself. Members of the boards are only human.

Ordinarily, the board will decide on each claim on the evidence presented in the affidavit of the applicant and the supporting affidavits, without asking any questions of the applicant. But where the board is not fully satisfied with the evidence presented, it will investigate the facts stated in the affidavits by interrogating the affiants or other persons.

The government desires to exempt any man who is really entitled to exemption or discharge. It is thoroely determined that no man not entitled to it shall be exempted or discharged.

Few Drops on a Corn or Callus

Instantly stops pain and they lift right off with fingers.

This tiny bottle holds the wonder of wonder. It contains an almost magical drug called Freezone. It is a compound made from ether.

Apply a few drops of this freezone upon a tender, aching corn or hardened callous. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so shriveled and loose that you just lift it off with the fingers. It doesn't hurt one particle. You feel no pain or soreness when applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the skin.

Just ask in any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. This will cost but a few cents, but will positively rid your poor, suffering feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or louse on bottom of foot.

Women! Keep a tiny bottle on the dresser, and never let a corn stay twice.—Adv.

Ens. Vera Butchkareff Has Interesting Career

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—It was the death of her husband which prompted Ensign Vera Butchkareff to enlist in the Russian army and eventually to organize the Women's Legion of Death, of which she is commander, and which achieved fame in a recent battle with the Germans, according to facts received by the Russian information bureau here. According to this information, Vera Butchkareff is a young country woman who went to Petrograd from her native village in the province of Tomsk.

fought with a rifle, and on March 8, 1916, was wounded in the leg under heavy artillery fire which took place on Lake Naroch. The wound notwithstanding, she remained at the front with her comrades, who captured two lines of trenches and 1,000 prisoners.

On March 9th, after the command and the captain were killed, she led the soldiers in an attack which resulted in victory for the Russians.

Afterward she went to the Austrian front, and was wounded in her arm while taking part in a counter-charge near the Doubova Korchna. Nevertheless, she retained her position in the army. But in the next charge she was wounded severely by a fragment of a shell. She was taken to the hospital, where she remained for four months. Immediately upon recovery she went to Petrograd and saw M. Rodzianka, president of the Duma, to ask permission to organize a company of women.

In a recent interview, Vera Butchkareff said:

Etna policies are the standard. Ask Chilcote for fire, life, accident and health rates. 16

Jay Gould's Grandson Claims Exemption from the War

Kindon Gould, son of George J. Gould, and grandson of Jay Gould, has claimed exemption from service in the army on the ground he had dependents. This photograph of him was taken just before he passed the examination before the board at Toms River, N. J., his home. Mr. Gould's marriage a month ago to a poor Italian girl excited widespread interest. Mr. Gould is president of the Consolidated Coal company of St. Louis and of the Western Coal and Mining company; vice president of the Utah Fuel company and of the Texas & Pacific railway. He is a director in the Denver & Rio Grande, the International & Great Northern and the Western Pacific railways. His father is believed to be worth between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000.

Moving Pictures

With scenes actually photographed in eight of the largest cities of the United States and aboard the train that carried the company on the 8000 mile trip, the new Triangle-Fine Arts picture, "An Old Fashioned Young Man," which will be shown at the Star tonight, is a distinct novelty among recent photoplays. Robert Harrow, as the chivalrous young man of today, travels from Pacific to Atlantic and back again to obtain proof that will clear a woman's name of scandal. His journey is interrupted by political gangsters, who are endeavoring to calumniate the woman in order to defeat her candidacy for mayor. When the boy has succeeded in vindicating her reputation, he discovers that she is his own mother, and that she has been separated from his father because of the scandal, which originated years before.
